Hartog, 2023-04-27 John Calvin's understanding of the extent of the atonement achieved in Christ's death is one of the most contested questions in historical theology In common thought Calvin's name is closely associated with the limited atonement stance canonized within the TULIP acronym but Calvin's personal endorsement of a strictly particularist view whereby Christ died for the elect alone is debatable In Calvin on the Death of Christ Paul Hartog re-examines Calvin's writing on the subject traces the various resulting historical trajectories and engages with the full spectrum of more recent scholarship In so doing he makes clear that while Calvin undoubtedly believed in unconditional election he also repeatedly spoke of Christ dying for all or for the world These phrases must be held central if we are to discover Calvin's own view of the subject Hartog's conclusions will surprise some and may hold significant implications for the Calvinist tradition today Throughout however they are cogently articulated and sensitively pitched Subject Guide to Books in Print, 2001 A Conversation between a Muslim and a Christian Peter Barnes, Mohamad Younes, 2023-07-13 There are many books which set out the case for Islam or for Christianity and point out what they regard as defects in the other religion This book does that but it seeks to do so in the form of a workbook which groups of Christians or Muslims might use and it is conducted in a spirit where truth is paramount but so too is kindness and civility The two authors have become friends and hope that this can be detected in the exchanges As the major doctrines of each religion are dealt with we are conscious that these doctrines are important and need to be examined rigorously and charitably We hope we have succeeded to some degree at least Truth Seeker, 1895
