Who Needs The Past Indigenous Values And Archaeology One World Archaeology:

Who Needs the Past? Robert Layton, 1994 This book offers a critique of the all pervasive Western notion that other communities often live in a timeless present Who Needs the Past provides first hand evidence of the interest non Western non academic communities have in the past Of the Past, for the Future Neville Agnew, Janet Bridgland, 2006-03-06 Conservation is a core value for most archaeological societies It is highlighted in their codes of ethics statements of mission and governance In recognition of this the World Archaeological Congress with the Getty Conservation Institute and a consortium of other conservation organizations brought together scholars working throughout the globe to discuss vital issues that affect archaeological heritage today This volume presents the proceedings of the Conservation Theme at the Congress held in Washington D C June 22 26 2003 Among the topics discussed are Innovative Approaches to Policy and Management of Archaeological Sites Finding Common Ground The Role of Stakeholders in Decision Making Archaeology and Tourism A Viable Partnership Preserving the Cultural Heritage of Iraq and Afghanistan Archaeology and Conservation in China Today and Managing Archaeological Sites and Rock Art Sites in Southern Africa These proceedings should do much to promote and strengthen the relationship between the disciplines of conservation and archaeology Bridging the Divide Caroline Phillips, Harry Allen, 2016-09-16 The collected essays in this volume address contemporary issues regarding the relationship between Indigenous groups and archaeologists including the challenges of dialogue colonialism the difficulties of working within legislative and institutional frameworks and NAGPRA and similar legislation The disciplines of archaeology and cultural heritage management are international in scope and many countries continue to experience the impact of colonialism In response to these common experiences both archaeology and indigenous political movements involve international networks through which information quickly moves around the globe This volume reflects these dynamic dialectics between the past and the present and between the international and the local demonstrating that archaeology is a historical science always linked to contemporary cultural concerns Who Needs the Past? Robert Layton, 1989

Handbook of Rock Art Research David S. Whitley, 2001 While there has always been a large public interest in ancient pictures painted or carved on stone the archaeological study of rock art is in its infancy But intensive amounts of research has revolutionized this field in the past decade New methods of dating and analysis help to pinpoint the makers of these beautiful images new interpretive models help us understand this art in relation to culture Identification conservation and management of rock art sites have become major issues in historical preservation worldwide And the number of archaeologically attested sites has mushroomed In this handbook the leading researchers in the rock art area provide cogent state of the art summaries of the technical interpretive and regional advances in rock art research The book offers a comprehensive basic reference of current information on key topics over six continents for archaeologists anthropologists art historians and rock art enthusiasts Historical Archaeology Pedro Paulo A. Funari, Martin Hall, Sian Jones, 2013-03-07

Historical Archaeology demonstrates the potential of adopting a flexible encompassing definition of historical archaeology which involves the study of all societies with documentary evidence It encourages research that goes beyond the boundaries between prehistory and history Ranging in subject matter from Roman Britain and Classical Greece to colonial Africa Brazil and the United States the contributors present a much broader range of perspectives than is currently the trend Sacred Sites, Sacred Places David L. Carmichael, Jane Hubert, Brian Reeves, Audhild Schanche, 2013-04-15 Sacred Sites Sacred Places explores the concept of sacred and what it means and implies to people in differing cultures It looks at why people regard some parts of the land as special and why this ascription remains constant in some cultures and changes in others Archaeologists legislators and those involved in heritage management sometimes encounter conflict with local populations over sacred sites With the aid of over 70 illustrations the book examines the extreme importance of such sacred places in all cultures and the necessity of accommodating those intimate beliefs which are such a vital part of ongoing cultural identity Sacred Sites Sacred Places therefore will be of help to those who wish to be non destructive in their conservation and excavation practices This book is unique in attempting to describe the belief systems surrounding the existence of sacred sites and at the same time bringing such beliefs and practices into relationship with the practical problems of everyday heritage management The geographical coverage of the book is exceptionally wide and its variety of contributors including indigenous peoples archaeologists and heritage professionals is unrivalled in any other publication African Historical Archaeologies Andrew M. Reid, Paul J. Lane, 2014-10-28 This volume explores the range of interactions between the historical sources and archaeology that are available on the African continent The contributions written by a range of experts on different aspects of African archaeology present the underlying issues such as The conflict and collaboration in the foundation of modern Africa African trading communities maintaining their independence from Europe The impacts of the Atlantic slave trade This represents the first consideration of historical archaeology over the African continent as a whole and therefore provides an important review for African archaeologists and historians This seminal volume also explores Africa's place in global systems of thought and economic development for historical archaeologists and historians alike Tropical Archaeobotany Jon G. Hather, 2013-10-28 Tropical Archaeobotany fills the need for a substantial reference work on plant remains from the tropics It covers the examination identification and interpretation of plant remains in tropical archaeology whilst also the origins spread investigating the origins spread distribution and past use of tropical plants for food and other purposes Recent technological developments in electron microscopy and biochemical and genetic research as well as increased interest in tropical environments and ecosystems are now beginning to realise the great potential for archaeobotanical research in the tropics With the use of case studies from a wide range of areas this volume details the latest macroscopic microscopic and chemical techniques for the analysis of plant remains from seeds roots and tubers to epidermal fragments pollen and phytoliths Each chapter of Tropical Archaeobotany focuses on a different aspect of archaeobotanical research using detailed examples from a variety of tropical areas though with its emphasis on techniques and methodology the book has a relevance beyond the regional scope of each chapter Matériel Culture Colleen M. Beck, William Gray Johnson, John Schofield, 2003-09-02 Matériel culture encompasses the material remains of conflict from buildings and monuments to artefacts and militia as well as human remains This collection of essays from an international range of contributors illustrates the diversity in this material record highlights the difficulties and challenges in preserving presenting and interpreting it and above all demonstrates the significant role matériel culture can play in contemporary society Among the many studies are the culture of shells the archaeology of nuclear testing grounds Cambodia's killing fields the Berlin Wall and the biography of a medal the reappearance of Argentina's disappeared World War II concentration camps

Ingold, 2016-04-29 This book offers a unique interdisciplinary challenge to assumptions about animals and animality deeply embedded in our own ways of thought and at the same time exposes highly sensitive and largely unexplored aspects of the understanding of our common humanity Archaeology: An Introduction Kevin Greene, 2002-11-01 This fourth edition constitutes the most extensive reshaping of the text to date In a lucid and accessible style Kevin Greene explains the discovery and excavation of sites outlines major dating methods gives clear explanations of scientific techniques and examines current theories and controversies New features include a completely new user friendly text design with initial chapter overviews and final conclusions key references for each chapter section an annotated guide to further reading a glossary refreshed illustrations case studies and examples bibliography and full index a new companion website built for this edition providing hyperlinks from contents list to individual chapter summaries which in turn link to key websites and other material an important new chapter on current theory emphasizing the richness of sources of analogy or interpretation available today This new edition provides students with a sound introduction to the field of archaeology and guides them towards further study Sentient Archaeologies Courtney Nimura, Rebecca O'Sullivan, Richard Bradley, 2023-07-15

Archaeology in the past century has seen a major shift from theoretical frameworks that treat the remains of past societies as static snapshots of particular moments in time to interpretations that prioritize change and variability Though established analytical concepts such as typology remain key parts of the archaeologist s investigative toolkit data gathering strategies and interpretative frameworks have become infused progressively with the concept that archaeology is living in the sense of both the objects of study and the discipline as a whole The significance for the field is that researchers across the world are integrating ideas informed by relational epistemologies and mutually constructive ontologies into their work from the initial stage of project design all the way down to post excavation interpretation This volume showcases examples of such work highlighting the utility of these ideas to exploring material both old and new The illuminating research and novel explanations presented contribute to resolving long standing problems in regional archaeologies across Africa Asia Australia Europe and Oceania In this way this volume reinvigorates approaches taken towards older material but also acts as a springboard for future innovative discussions of theory in archaeology and related disciplines Archaeology and Language III Roger Blench,Matthew Spriggs,2012-10-12 Archaeology and Language III interprets results from archaeological data in terms of language distribution and change providing the tools for a radical rewriting of the conventional discourse of prehistory Individual chapters present case studies of artefacts and fragmentary textual materials concerned with the reconstruction of houses maritime technology pottery and grave goods Ancient Egyptian Literature Antonio Loprieno,1996-01-01 Twenty scholars have contributed to this book which deals with the development and characteristics of the literature of ancient Egypt over a period of over more than two millenia from the monumental origins of autobiography at the end of the Old Kingdom ca 2150 BC down to the latest literary compositions in Demotic during the Graeco Roman period 300BC 200AD The book is divided into thirty chapters concerned with the definition of literary discourse the history and genre of the texts their linguistic and stylistic features and the image of Egypt as displayed in later literary traditions Greek Coptic and Arabic Thoroughly interdisciplinary Ethics in American Archaeology Mark J. Lynott,Alison Wylie,2000 From the Baltic to the Black Sea Leslie Alcock,David Austin,2013-10-28 Offers a rare insight into the closed world of medieval Eastern Europe and opens up a neglected archaeological tradition to English speaking readers Sections focus on early European ethnic formations and states the demography of medieval populations and the nature of rural settlement and urban development The book challenges the intellectual assumptions of medieval archaeology and questions its relationship to history and prehistory It exposes the limitations of a strictly empirical approach to studying the period when written history began and the early medieval states emerged The Archaeology of Drylands Graeme Barker,David Gilbertson,2003-09-02 Many dryland regions contain archaeological remains which suggest that there must have been intensive phases of settlement in what now seem to be dry and degraded environments This book discusses successes and failures of past land use and settlement in drylands and contributes to wider debates about desertification and the sustainability of dryland settlement Early Human Behaviour in Global Context Ravi Korisettar,Michael D.

Petraglia, 2003-09-02 Early Human Behaviour in a Global Context will be of use to students and professionals who are interested in prehistory Paleolithic archaeology and paleoanthropology Those interested in our ancestors and their place in the natural world will also benefit from the information presented in this book Chapters focus on the nature of archaeological evidence stone tool technology subsistence practices settlement distributions
