Postcards from the Chihuahua Border Daniel D. Arreola, 2019-10-29 Just a trolley ride from El Paso Ciudad Juarez was a popular destination in the early 1900s Enticing and exciting tourists descended on this and other Mexican border towns to browse curio shops dine and dance attend bullfights and perhaps escape Prohibition America In Postcards from the Chihuahua Border Daniel D Arreola captures the exhilaration of places in time taking us back to Mexico's northern border towns of Ciudad Juarez Ojinaga and Palomas in the early twentieth century Drawing on more than three decades of archival work Arreola uses postcards and maps to unveil the history of these towns along west Texas's and New Mexico's southern borders Postcards offer a special kind of visual evidence Arreola's collection of imagery and commentary about them shows us singular places enriching our understandings of history and the history of change in Chihuahua No one postcard tells the entire story But image after image offers a collected view and insight into changing perceptions Arreola's geography of place looks both inward and outward We see what tourists see while at the same time gaining insight about what postcard photographers and postcard publishers wanted to be seen and perceived about these border communities Postcards from the Chihuahua Border is a colorful and dynamic visual history It invites the reader to time travel to revisit another era the first half of the last century when these border towns were framed and made popular through picture postcards United States Customs Court

Wilson,2012-11-02 Economic Life of Mexican Beach Vendors Acapulco Puerto Vallarta and Cabo San Lucas is based on interviews with 82 men and 84 women who vend their wares on beaches in three Mexican tourist centers Assuming that some people may actively choose self employment in the informal or semi informal economy the employment and educational aspirations of the vendors and their levels of satisfaction with their work are explored Most of the vendors had other family members who were also vendors and 75 45 2 percent had 5 or more family members who vended most usually on Mexican beaches The vendors are aware of the forces of globalization though they do not express these forces in those words as revealed by their responses to questions as to how the current world economic recession has affected them The beach vendors live in essentially segregated neighborhoods that can be considered apartheid like far from the tourist zones Most of the vendors or their parents are rural to urban migrants and cross ethnic linguistic and economic borders as they migrate to and work in what have been called transnational social spaces Of the vendors interviewed 82 49 4 percent speak an indigenous language and of these 60 73 2 percent speak Nahuatl The majority are from the state of Guerrero but there were also Zapotec speakers from Oaxaca Both indigenous and non indigenous women take part in beach vending They are often wives daughters or sisters of male beach vendors and they may be single married living in free union or widowed Their income is often of central importance to the household economy This monograph aims to bring their stories to tourists and to scholars and students of tourism development and or the informal or semi informal economy in Mexican tourist centers
