Whose Muse Art Museums And The Public Trust 2006:

Whose Muse? James Cuno, 2018-06-05 During the economic boom of the 1990s art museums expanded dramatically in size scope and ambition They came to be seen as new civic centers on the one hand as places of entertainment leisure and commerce on the other as socially therapeutic institutions But museums were also criticized for everything from elitism to looting or illegally exporting works from other countries to exhibiting works offensive to the public taste Whose Muse brings together five directors of leading American and British art museums who together offer a forward looking alternative to such prevailing views While their approaches differ certain themes recur As museums have become increasingly complex and costly to manage and as government support has waned the temptation is great to follow policies driven not by a mission but by the market However the directors concur that public trust can be upheld only if museums continue to see their core mission as building collections that reflect a nation's artistic legacy and providing informed and unfettered access to them The book based on a lecture series of the same title held in 2000 2001 by the Harvard Program for Art Museum Directors also includes an introduction by Cuno and a fascinating and surprisingly frank roundtable discussion among the participating directors A rare collection of sustained reflections by prominent museum directors on the current state of affairs in their profession this book is without equal It will be read widely not only by museum professionals trustees critics and scholars but also by the art loving public itself Museums in Motion Edward P. Alexander, Mary Alexander, 2008 In 1979 Edward P. Alexander's Museums in Motion was hailed as a much needed addition to the museum literature In combining the history of museums since the eighteenth century with a detailed examination of the function of museums and museum workers in modern society it served as an essential resource for those seeking to enter to the museum profession and for established professionals looking for an expanded understanding of their own discipline Now Mary Alexander has produced a newly revised edition of the classic text bringing it the twenty first century with coverage of emerging trends resources and challenges New material also includes a discussion of the children's museum as a distinct type of institution and an exploration of the role computers play in both outreach and traditional in person visits Museums and Wealth Nizan Shaked, 2022-01-13 Choice Outstanding Academic Title 2023 A critical analysis of contemporary art collections and the value form this book shows why the nonprofit system is unfit to administer our common collections and offers solutions for diversity reform and redistributive restructuring In the United States institutions administered by the nonprofit system have an ambiguous status as they are neither entirely private nor fully public Among nonprofits the museum is unique as it is the only institution where trustees tend to collect the same objects they hold in public trust on behalf of the nation if not humanity The public serves as alibi for establishing the symbolic value of art which sustains its monetary value and its markets This structure allows for wealthy individuals at the helm to gain financial benefits from and ideological control over what is at its core purpose a public system The dramatic growth of the art market and the development of financial tools based on art collateral loans exacerbate the contradiction between the needs of museum leadership versus that of the public. Indeed a history of private support in the US is a history of racist discrimination and the common collections reflect this fact. A history of how private collections were turned public gives context. Since the late Renaissance private collections legitimized the prince's right to rule and later with the great revolutions display consolidated national identity. But the rise of the American museum reversed this and reprivatized the public collection. A materialist description of the museum as a model institution of the liberal nation state reveals constellations of imperialist social relations.

Curating at the Edge Kate Bonansinga, 2014-01-06 Located less than a mile from Juarez the Stanlee and Gerald Rubin Center for Visual Arts at the University of Texas at El Paso is a non collecting institution that serves the Paso del Norte region. In Curating at the Edge Kate Bonansinga brings to life her experiences as the Rubin's founding director giving voice to a curatorial approach that reaches far beyond the limited scope of border art or Chicano art. Instead Bonansinga captures the creative climate of 2004-2011 when contemporary art addressed broad notions of destruction and transformation irony and subversion gender and identity and the impact of location on politics. The Rubin's location in the Chihuahuan desert on the U S Mexican border is meaningful and intriguing to many artists and consequently Curating at the Edge describes the multiple artistic perspectives conveyed in the place based exhibitions Bonansinga oversaw. Exciting mid career artists featured in this collection of case studies include Margarita Cabrera Liz Cohen Marcos Ramirez ERRE and many others. Recalling her experiences in vivid first person scenes Bonansinga reveals the processes a contemporary art curator undertakes and the challenges she faces by describing a few of the more than sixty exhibitions that she organized during her tenure at the Rubin. She also explores the artists working methods and the relationship between their work and their personal and professional histories some are Mexican citizens some are U S citizens of Mexican descent and some have ancestral ties to Europe Timely and illuminating Curating at the Edge sheds light on the work of the interlocutors who connect artists and their audiences Locating American Art Cynthia

Shaky Ground Elizabeth Marlowe, 2013-10-10 The recent crisis in the world of antiquities collecting has prompted scholars and the general public to pay more attention than ever before to the archaeological findspots and collecting histories of ancient artworks This new scrutiny is applied to works currently on the market as well as to those acquired since and despite the 1970 UNESCO Convention which aimed to prevent the trafficking in cultural property. When it comes to famous works that have been in major museums for many generations, however, the matter of their origins is rarely considered. Canonical pieces like the Barberini Togatus or the Fonseca bust of a Flavian lady appear in many scholarly studies and virtually every textbook on Roman art. But we have no more certainty about these works' archaeological contexts than we do about those that surface on the market today. This book argues that the current legal and ethical debates over looting, ownership and cultural property have distracted us from the epistemological problems inherent in all ostensibly ancient artworks lacking a known findspot, problems that should be of great concern to those who seek to understand the past through its material remains.

In Search of a Lost Avant-Garde Matti Bunzl, 2014-09-16

In 2008 anthropologist Matti Bunzl was given rare access to observe the curatorial department of Chicago's Museum of Contemporary Art. For five months he sat with the institution's staff, witnessing firsthand what truly goes on behind the scenes at a contemporary art museum. From fund raising and owner loans to museum artist relations to the immense effort involved in safely shipping sixty works from twenty-seven lenders in fourteen cities and five countries, Matti Bunzl's In Search of a Lost Avant Garde illustrates the inner workings of one of Chicago's premier cultural institutions. Bunzl's ethnography is designed to show how a commitment to the avant garde can come into conflict with an imperative for growth, leading to the abandonment of the new and difficult in favor of the entertaining and profitable. Jeff Koons, whose massive retrospective debuted during Bunzl's research, occupies a central place in his book and exposes the anxieties caused by such seemingly pornographic work as the infamous Made in Heaven series. Featuring cameos by other leading artists including Liam Gillick, Jenny Holzer, Karen Kilimnik and Tino Sehgal, the drama Bunzl narrates is palpable and entertaining and sheds an altogether new light on the contemporary art boom.
