The New Geography of Jobs Enrico Moretti, 2024-03-19 A timely and smart discussion of how different cities and regions have made a changing economy work for them and how policymakers can learn from that Barack Obama We're used to thinking of the United States in opposing terms red versus blue haves versus have nots But today there are three Americas At one extreme are the brain hubs cities like San Francisco Boston and Durham with workers who are among the most productive creative and best paid on the planet At the other extreme are former manufacturing capitals which are rapidly losing jobs and residents The rest of America could go either way For the past thirty years the three Americas have been growing apart at an accelerating rate This divergence is one of the most important developments in the history of the United States But the winners and losers aren't necessarily who you'd expect Enrico Moretti's groundbreaking research shows that you don't have to be a scientist or an engineer to thrive in one of the brain hubs Taxi drivers teachers nurses and other local service jobs are created at a ratio of five to one in the brain hubs raising salaries and standard of living for all Dealing with this split supporting growth in the hubs while arresting the decline elsewhere is the challenge of the century and The New Geography of Jobs lights the way Brilliant Forbes Mr Moretti says the data support the argument that technology innovators are one of the most important engines of job creation in the US Jessica E Vascellaro Wall Street Journal Excellent The National Review A clear and insightful account of the economic forces that are shaping America The New Republic
