Witnessing And Testifying:

Expert Witnessing and Scientific Testimony Kenneth S. Cohen, 2007-07-23 Simply put the primary role of the expert witness is to make clear and simple a complex technical or scientific issue In practice there are negative and positive aspects that must be considered before committing to the role In a major case suing for big dollar amounts witnesses can expect to have their life history spread out like a roadmap for

From Witnessing to Testimony (Studia Phaenomenologica, Volume 21/ 2021) Paul Marinescu, Cristian Ciocan, 2021-09-01 FROM WITNESSING TO TESTIMONY Paul Marinescu and Cristian Ciocan Introduction From Witnessing to Testimony Gert Jan van der Heiden Testimony and Engagement On the Four Elements of Witnessing Abstract In order to develop a hermeneutic phenomenological analysis of testimony this essay will first argue that testimony is said in many ways without being homonymous and that contemporary epistemological approaches to testimony are not capable of accounting for all paradigmatic forms of testimony Second it is argued following and extending the work of Paul Ricoeur that by emphasizing the sense of engagement or Bezogenheit as a basic characteristic of testimony we may find another approach to testimony that offers a phenomenological alternative to the observational model of witnessing and the accompanying conception of testimony as report Third this approach is further developed and analyzed in terms of the four elements of testimony namely subject matter witness act of testifying and addressee Dorothea Legrand Ecouter parler le langage Triplicité du témoignage Abstract We explore the idea that a testimony is always constituted by at least three parts the word of the witness the listening of the one to whom it is addressed and language as a symbolic register where speaking and listening are inscribed Thus the structure of testimony would not be captured only by the subjective formula I was there a subject designates himself in reference to a past experience nor by the intersubjective formula I am speaking to you a subject designates himself and his listener in the synchrony of the word addressing the other What is also necessary to consider in order to capture the structure of testimony is that there is language the testimony transcends diachronically the speaker and the hearer by inscribing them inseparably in the symbolic register that they share namely language Michele Averchi Knowledge by Hearing A Husserlian Antireductionist Phenomenology of Testimony Abstract In this paper I argue that Husserl offers an important although almost completely neglected so far contribution to the reductionist antireductionist debate about testimony Through a phenomenological analysis Husserl shows that testimony works through the constitution of an intentional intersubjective bond between the speaker and the hearer In this paper I focus on the Logical Investigations a 1914 manuscript now published as text 2 in Husserliana 20 2 and a 1931 manuscript now published as Appendix 12 in Husserliana 15 I argue that in those texts Husserl highlights three essential phenomenological features of testimony a testimony is personal meaning that it only takes place among persons b testimony is social meaning that it requires the joint effort of multiple cognitive agents c testimony is community building meaning that it generates a long lasting social bond among the parts involved Yasuhiko Sugimura T

rienne Abstract Witnessing after the end of philosophy in the sense in which Heidegger mentions it in his famous lecture on The end of philosophy and the task of thinking what does this mean for us and our world today As a preparation for an answer to this question the present study proposes to elaborate a radical hermeneutics of testimony by invoking French philosophers who can be qualified as post Heideggerian L vinas Ricoeur Derrida among others whose thoughts of the testimony were developed through the essential critique on Heideggerian idea of attestation Bezeugung and the creative reactivation of the semantic resources historically preserved by terms such as witness and testimony Jean Philippe Pierron Pourquoi avons nous besoin du t moignage Penser le t moignage avec Paul Ric ur Abstract This article proposes to analyze the relations between ethics and the poetics of testimony It does so by testing Paul Ricoeur s analyses of testimony with the literary work of the Belarusian Nobel Prize winner Svetlana Alexievitch After having shown why witnessing occupies a type of expressivity that is singular in contemporary times and then having been surprised by the strong links that unite witnessing and the experience of evil Alexievitch s work is chosen to explain what the resource of the poetic could be in the face of the question of evil Ultimately the consequences are drawn for the development of a practical wisdom in which testimony would

Louis Chr tien Abstract This text articulates the concept of subjective truth developed by S ren Kierkegaard in Concluding Unscientific Postscript to Philosophical Fragments in connection to a conception of testimony which both exceeds and reveals the possibilities of thinking and acting of the witness This imbalance between the testimony and the witness finds an important extension in the distinction between the Saying and the Said made by Emmanuel L vinas in Otherwise than Being or Beyond Essence This distinction opens up an understanding of thought as affectivity and allows witnessing to be viewed in the light of responsibility to the other By being part of this philosophical heritage Jean Louis Chr tien shows how the testimony of the infinite is also phenomenalized in the experience of a chant that discovers its own modalities in this excess

Luc Marion Abstract Witnessing is an increasingly important theme in the work of Jean Luc Marion According to Marion the witness can be considered an appropriate figure to define the first person the I without reducing it to subjectivism and without envisaging the intersubjective tie as binary dual or dialogic inasmuch as the testimony refers instead to a ternary relation The present analysis investigates the difference Marion identifies between the religious witness and what seems to be according to common sense the regular witness While in the latter case the subject is completely foreign to the event to which s he testifies in the case of the religious witness the commitment is total We will tackle this difference by showing that the fact of testifying always implies a connection with effectivity which reveals itself through the profound commitment characterizing the witness s life up to the point of death This becomes obvious when considering the role played by the witness's confessing speech which establishes an unsurpassable ternary relationship between the witness, the object of the testimony, and the one to whom it is addressed by deploying an absolute form of the social bond. Rafael Pérez Baquero

Witnessing catastrophe: Testimony and historical representation within and beyond the Holocaust. Abstract: This paper explores the contemporary phenomenological and psychoanalytical analyses of testimonies regarding traumatic historical events with special attention to how such testimonies pose new challenges for the historiography of historical events in which witnesses participated. By exploring discussions on the memory of the Holocaust as well as the Spanish Civil War and Francoist repression, this paper addresses the extent to which the tensions and temporalities underlying the process of bearing witness to and giving testimony about traumatic historical events might reshape how their history is being told, written, and remembered.

Lovisa Andén: Literary Testimonies and Fictional Experiences. Gulag Literature in between Facts and Fiction. OPEN ACCESS Abstract: This article discusses the role of Gulag literature in connection to testimony literature and historical documentation. Drawing on the thoughts of Jacques Derrida and Hannah Arendt, the article examines the difficulty of witnesses being believed in the absence of evidence. In particular, the article focuses on the vulnerability of the Gulag authors due to the ongoing Soviet repression at the time of their writing. It examines the interplay between the repression and the literature that exposed it. The article contends that the fictionalization of Gulag literature enabled the authors to go further in challenging Soviet repression. Focusing on the fictional accounts written by Varlam Shalamov and Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn, it argues that the fictionalized Gulag literature makes the experience of the camp universe possible to imagine for those outside, allowing readers to believe in an experience that otherwise seems incredible.

Cassandra Falke: The Reader as Witness in Contemporary Global Novels. Abstract: Phenomenological literary criticism has long taken the one-on-one exchange with another as the model for thinking about the reader-text relationship. However, new novels portraying genocides and civil wars are more likely to position readers as witnesses. Drawing on Jean-Luc Marion's description of the subject as witness, as well as works by Kelly Oliver and Jacques Derrida, this article offers a phenomenological description of the reader as witness. As witness, the reader is situated both by the literary text and also by his or her particular embodied and intersubjective relations to the world. Constituted and no longer constituting the reader, the subject as witness finds herself a site in which other's decisions have already been made, and her responsibility arises from the decisions she makes possible for others in the future.

VARIA: Burt C. Hopkins: Image and Original in Plato and Husserl. Abstract: I compare Plato's and Husserl's accounts of i) the non-original appearance termed phantasma in Plato and phantasm in Husserl, and ii) the original, with a focus on their methodologies for distinguishing between them and the phenomenological i.e. the answer to the question of the what and how of their appearance. Criteria that drive their respective methodologies. I argue that Plato's dialectical method is phenomenologically superior to Husserl's reflective method in the case of phantasmata that function as apparitions: the false phantasma, phantasm that is not recognized as such. Plato's method has the capacity to discern the apparition on the basis of criteria that appeal solely to its appearance whereas Husserl's method presupposes a non apparent primitive distinction between the original qua primal impression and the phantasm as its reproductive modification On the basis of Plato's methodological superiority in this regard I sketch a reformulation of the Husserlian approach to appearances guided by the original interrogative context of Plato's dialectical account of the distinction between true and false appearances eikones and phantasmata Gabriele Baratelli Mathematical Knowledge and the Origin of Phenomenology The Question of Symbols in Early Husserl Abstract The paper is divided into two parts In the first one I set forth a hypothesis to explain the failure of Husserl's project presented in the Philosophie der Arithmetik based on the principle that the entire mathematical science is grounded in the concept of cardinal number It is argued that Husserl's analysis of the nature of the symbols used in the decadal system forces the rejection of this principle In the second part I take into account Husserl's explanation of why albeit independent of natural numbers the system is nonetheless correct It is shown that its justification involves on the one hand a new conception of symbols and symbolic thinking and on the other the recognition of the question of the formal and formalization as pivotal to understand the mathematical overall Alexis Delamare The Power of Husserl's Third Logical Investigation Formal and applied mereology in Zur Lehre von den Ganzen und Teilen OPEN ACCESS Abstract The peculiar legacy of Husserl's mereology chiefly studied by analytic philosophers interested in ontology has led to a partial understanding of the III LU which is too often reduced to a chapter of formal ontology Yet the power of this Investigation goes far beyond it enabled Husserl to deal in the framework of a unified theory with a vast range of particular problems The paper focuses on one of these issues namely abstraction so as to expose how Husserl instrumentalizes his formal tools in order to tackle material issues The existence of an up and down pattern is uncovered Husserl first reinterprets the psychological problem of abstraction in ontological terms bottom up before coming back to the original problem with new insights top down The second correlative aim of the paper is to emphasize the key role played by Friedrich Schumann a forgotten yet crucial character for Husserl's conception of abstraction Rolf Kühn Husserls Begriff der Trieb und Instinktintentionalität als transzendente Monadologie Eine Problemskizze zur methodischen Besinnung der klassischen Phänomenologie Abstract Considering that Husserl identifies passivity as the general principle of genetic dynamics and as given prior to any intentional activity the original condition of possibility of such passivity must be clarified Phenomenological analysis can successfully attest the presence of a drive habituality operating prior to the level of the I an instinct character thus that raises the question about life as auto affective capability In the framework of a universal monadology the latter's teleological orientation must be questioned in order to avoid that both the limes constituted by the unconscious as well as affective being remain indeterminate and anonymous which would not do justice to the transcendental rootedness of drive and instinct through the form of ipseity Wei Zhang Scheler's Reflections on What is Good The Foundation of a Phenomenological Meta Ethics Abstract In Max Scheler's non formal ethics of value good is a value but by no means a non moral value rather it is a second order moral value always appearing in the realization of first order non moral values According to the relevant notion of the a priori of phenomenology all the non moral values are given in value cognition the moral value of good is self given in moral cognition The reflections and answers offered by Scheler s non formal ethics of value on What is good constitute the foundation of a phenomenological meta ethics REVIEW ARTICLE Michael Gubser Eastward On Phenomenology and European Thought Witold P otka and Patrick Eldridge eds Early Phenomenology in Central and Eastern Europe Main Figures Ideas and Problems Springer 2020 Abstract P otka and Eldridge s book is an important addition to the literature on phenomenology and phenomenological history showing that phenomenology had a lively efflorescence in Eastern Europe during its first four decades Historians have recently shown phenomenology s intellectual cultural and social importance in postwar Eastern Europe but this volume demonstrates that phenomenology s independent East European trajectory began long before World War II indeed from the earliest years of the movement The review essay also raises the question of phenomenology s social and political influence beyond academic circles BOOK REVIEWS Claudia erban Dominique Pradelle Intuition et id alit s Ph nom nologie des objets math matiques PUF 2020 Delia Popa Alexander Schnell Qu est ce que la ph nom nologie transcendente J r me Millon 2020 Iulia M u Lucian Ionel Sinn und Begriff Negativit t bei Hegel und Heidegger De Gruyter 2020 Christian Ferencz Flatz Mikko Immanen Toward a Concrete Philosophy Heidegger and the Emergence of the Frankfurt School Cornell University Press 2020 Delia Popa Gr gori Jean L humanit son insu M moires des Annales de Ph nom nologie 2020 Marie Pierrat Frederic Jacquet Naissances Zeta Books 2020 Mario Ionu Maro an Annabel Herzog Levinas s Politics Justice Mercy Universality University of Pennsylvania Press 2020 Christian Ferencz Flatz Peter Schmitt Medienkritik zwischen Anthropologie und Gesellschaftstheorie Zur Aktualit t von G nther Anders und Theodor W Adorno Brill 2020 Uniqueness of the Concept of Witness in Lukan Writings within the Biblical Canon Ervin Budiselić, 2024-04-30 In an age of relativism tolerance and political correctness the church is called to walk in the footsteps of Christ As his witnesses we must reject all forms of coercion and violence while simultaneously refusing to shy away from the authority and conviction that come from carrying his revelation Dr Ervin Budiseli examines the concept of witnessing in the writings of Luke contextualizing it within the larger framework of Scripture s emphasis on revelation and testimony Like Judaism Christianity is a religion of revelation where specific content must be preserved passed on and proclaimed to others Dr Budiseli explores the communal nature of this calling as well as its pneumatological implications within Luke s writings Acknowledging the tendency within the Western church to emphasize moral transformation over physical he reminds readers that Jesus s kingdom ministry was accompanied by deeds as well as words He specifically engages the dangers of normalizing a gospel disconnected from the supernatural or the miraculous as partnership with the Holy Spirit was central to the calling given to the early church This book offers a prophetic message for the church today as it seeks to fulfill its calling to faithfully witness to the revelation of Christ Effective Expert Witnessing Jack V.

Matson, Suha F. Daou, Jeffrey G. Soper, 2004-03-29 Expert witnesses have traditionally faced enormous challenges in the courtroom. The Daubert decision and the more recent Kumho ruling have further intensified the scrutiny on professionals in all disciplines expressing their expert opinions. Effective Expert Witnessing, Fourth Edition broadens the scope of previous editions by featuring case studies. Effective Expert Witnessing, Fifth Edition Jack V. Matson, 2012-08-30 The testimony of an expert witness can lead to success or failure in cases that hinge on the presentation's impact on a jury. Effective Expert Witnessing, Fifth Edition: Practices for the 21st Century explores the fundamentals of litigation trial preparation, courtroom presentation, and the business of expert witnessing. Extensively updated to reflect new developments since the last edition, it provides practical advice enabling expert witnesses and attorneys to maximize the effectiveness of their expert testimony. The Fifth Edition includes three new chapters. The first uses a hypothetical case study to explore expert witness immunity and issues related to professional malpractice and civil liability. In a chapter on psychology and the art of expert persuasion, noted social psychologist and witness preparation specialist Ann T. Greeley reveals the psychology of juries, discusses what makes an expert effective, and provides tips for conveying effective testimony through verbal and nonverbal behavior and graphics and technology. The final chapter surveys nine of the worst mistakes an expert can make and provides tips on how to avoid them. Accompanying the book is an invaluable CD-ROM in which Dr. Matson introduces video clips demonstrating effective and ineffective expert testimony at deposition and trial. The book and supplemental CD-ROM provide robust strategies ensuring that expert witnesses have the best possible advantage in presenting testimony that is credible, persuasive, and compelling. Witnessing and Testifying Rosetta E. Ross, 2003-01-01 The Civil Rights Movement was not only an epochal social and political event but also a profound moral turning point in American history. Here for the first time, social ethicist Ross examines the religiously motivated activism of black women in the movement and its moral import. Trauma, Memory, and the Lebanese Post-War Novel Dani Nassif, 2024-03-18 This book takes the case of the civil war disappeared in Lebanon to draw on fiction's potential to inform peacebuilding processes by allowing the exploration of invisible histories in postwar Beirut. In its close reading of three Lebanese novels by Rabee Jaber, the book follows a multidisciplinary approach that puts trauma theory in dialogue with the Lebanese context and Arabic language, producing new concepts, models, and questions related to trauma, loss, and history while also reflecting on the role fiction as a cultural production can play.

Reading Testimony, Witnessing Trauma Eden Wales, 2020-02-28 Winner of the 2020 Eudora Welty Prize, Theorists emphasize the necessity of writing about or witnessing trauma in order to overcome it. To this critical conversation, Reading Testimony: Witnessing Trauma, Confronting Race, Gender, and Violence in American Literature treats reader response to traumatic and testimonial literature written by and about African American women and adds insight into the engagement of testimonial literature. Eden Wales articulates a theory of reading or dual witnessing that explores how narrators and readers can witness trauma together. She places these original theories of traumatic reception in conversation with the African

The Aesthetics of Toni Morrison Connor, Marc C., 2010-01-06 Nobel laureate Toni Morrison's novels have almost exclusively been examined as sagas illuminating history race culture and gender politics This gathering of eight essays by top scholars probes Morrison's novels and her growing body of nonfiction and critical work for the complex and potent aesthetic elements that have made her a major American novelist of the twentieth century Through traditional aesthetic concepts such as the sublime the beautiful and the grotesque through issues of form narrative and language and through questions of affect and reader response the nine essays in this volume bring into relief the dynamic and often overlooked range within Morrison's writing Employing aesthetic ideas that range from the ancient Greeks to contemporary research in the black English oral tradition The Aesthetics of Toni Morrison shows the potency of these ideas for interpreting Morrison's writing This is a force Morrison herself has often suggested in her claims that Greek tragedy bears a striking similarity to Afro American communal structures At the same time each essay attends to the ways in which Morrison also challenges traditional aesthetic concepts establishing the African American and female voices that are essential to her sensibility The result is a series of readings that simultaneously expands our understanding of Morrison's work and also provokes new thinking about an aesthetic tradition that is nearly 2 500 years old These essays offer a rich complement to the dominant approaches in Morrison scholarship by revealing aspects of her work that purely ideological approaches have obscured or about which they have remained oddly silent Each essay focuses particularly on the relations between the aesthetic and the ethical in Morrison's writing and between the artistic production and its role in the world at large These relations show the rich political implications that aesthetic analysis engenders By treating both Morrison's fiction and her nonfiction the essays reveal a mind and imagination that have long been intimately engaged with the questions and traditions of the aesthetic domain The result is a provocative and original contribution to Morrison scholarship and to scholarship in American letters generally
