essays on the work of Derek Walcott, Kamau Brathwaite, Lorna Goodison, Kwame Dawes and other prominent Caribbean African British and American poets are featured in this collection that has as its subtext a mistrust of postcolonial theory and its whole academic industry enterprise. Stewart Brown includes autobiographical literary essays that establish the ground from which the other essays are written, asserting that poetry is more important than its criticism. Thoroughly revised, expanded and updated, these essays were written mainly for literary rather than academic journals and are wide ranging, provocative and intellectually rigorous.

The British National Bibliography, Arthur James Wells, 2009

Travel Writing and the Empire, Sachidananda Mohanty, 2003. Travel has been a mode of assessment of territory of knowledge gathering and of putting a discursive system into place. This volume, edited and introduced by Sachidananda Mohanty, brings to you the range of hidden discourses that constituted and explored the issues central to the political and literary representation of Indian reality and the politics behind it.

Expressions of Identity, Kevin Hetherington, 1998-11-10. Expressions of Identity explains what is understood by the term 'new school' movements and provides a critical assessment of identity politics. This work shows the significance of identity politics and the changes it brings about within society.

The Journal of Tourism Studies, 2003

The Rumour of Calcutta, John Hutnyk, 1996-10. Representations of Calcutta are analysed and the author shows how the rumours of westerners contribute to the elaboration of an imaginary city. In doing so, they circulate in ways fundamental to the maintenance of international order.

Tourism, Adrian Franklin, 2003

The Tourist's Gaze, Glenn Hooper, 2001. Travel literature has been described by Jonathan Raban as literature's red light district. It defies people's beliefs, confuses expectations, crosses disciplinary boundaries and is linked to ethnography, journalism and biography. Yet for all that, it has managed to remain not only a visible but also an increasingly popular literary genre. This anthology makes an entertaining and insightful contribution to this engaging field. It includes extracts from well-known writers such as Thackeray, Bollen and Chesterton but also presents less familiar figures from the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The seventy pieces collected here both offer sharp observations of the country and are equally revealing about the travelers themselves. Each extract, where possible, is prefaced by a brief biography of its author. For readers interested in the origins and historical role of travel writing in general and how they relate to Ireland, the editor offers an illuminating introduction. This anthology presents illuminating snapshots of Ireland over two hundred years. It also provides insights into the varied perspectives of the travelers themselves, a perspective often influenced by contemporary political events such as the Great Famine, Home Rule, the Civil War and the Troubles. This anthology leaves the reader with an enduring image of Ireland's ability to fascinate and stimulate visitors through two centuries.

New Formations, 1993

Travel, Tourism, and Identity, Gabriel R. Ricci, 2017-09-29. Travel, Tourism and Identity addresses the psychological and social adjustments that occur when people make contact with others outside their social, cultural or linguistic groups. Whether such contact is the result of tourism seeking exile or relocating abroad the volume's contributors demonstrate how one's identity cultural assumptions and worldview can be brought into question In some cases the traveller finds that bridging the social and cultural gap between himself and the new society is fairly easy In other cases the traveller discovers that reorienting himself requires absorbing a new cultural history and traditions The contributors argue that making these adjustments will surely enhance the traveller's or tourist's experience otherwise the traveller or tourist will be at risk of becoming a marginalized figure one disconnected from the society that surrounds him This latest volume in the Culture Civilization series features a collection of essays on travel and tourism The essays cover a range of topics from historical travels to modern social identities They discuss ancient travels contemporary travels in Europe Africa and sustainable eco tourism and the politics of tourism Essays also address experiences of Grenada's Spice Island identity and the effects of globalization and migrations on personal identity
