Toxic Burn The Grassroots Struggle Against The Wti Incinerator:

Toxic burn [electronic resource] Thomas C. Shevory, 2007 Resigned Activism, revised edition Anna Lora-Wainwright, 2021-05-25 An examination of the daily grind of living with pollution in rural China and of the varying forms of activism that develop in response Residents of rapidly industrializing rural areas in China live with pollution every day Villagers drink obviously tainted water and breathe visibly dirty air afflicted by a variety of ailments from arthritis to nosebleeds that they ascribe to the effects of industrial pollution In Resigned Activism Anna Lora Wainwright explores the daily grind of living with pollution in rural China and the varying forms of activism that develop in response This revised edition offers expanded acknowledgment of the contributions of Lora Wainwright's collaborators in China Lora Wainwright finds that claims of health or environmental damage are politically sensitive and that efforts to seek redress are frustrated by limited access to scientific evidence growing socioeconomic inequalities and complex local realities Villagers feeling powerless often come to accept pollution as part of the environment their activism is tempered by their resignation Drawing on fieldwork done with teams of collaborators Lora Wainwright offers three case studies of resigned activism in rural China examining the experiences of villagers who live with the effects of phosphorous mining and fertilizer production lead and zinc mining and electronic waste processing The book also includes extended summaries of the in depth research carried out by Ajiang Chen and his team in some of China's cancer villages village sized clusters of high cancer incidence These cases make clear the staggering human costs of development and the deeply uneven distribution of costs and benefits that underlie China's economic power

Zimring, William L. Rathje, Consulting Editor, 2012-02-27 Archaeologists and anthropologists have long studied artifacts of refuse from the distant past as a portal into ancient civilizations but examining what we throw away today tells a story in real time and becomes an important and useful tool for academic study Trash is studied by behavioral scientists who use data com piled from the exploration of dumpsters to better understand our modern society and culture Why does the average American household send 470 pounds of uneaten food to the garbage can on an annual basis How do different societies around the world cope with their garbage in these troubled environmental times How does our trash give insight into our attitudes about gender class religion and art The Encyclopedia of Consumption and Waste explores the topic across multiple disciplines within the social sciences and ranges further to include business consumerism environmentalism and marketing to comprise an outstanding reference for academic and public libraries Choice ,2007 American Book Publishing Record ,2007 Toxic Lake Thomas Shevory, 2023-12-05 Onondaga Lake is sacred territory for members of the Haudenosaunee Confederacy But by the mid twentieth century it was dubbed the most polluted lake in America The most expensive cleanup effort in American history was initiated in the 1990s which in turn generated a new set of controversies American Environmental Leaders: L-Z Anne Becher, 2000 This book presents more than 350 biographies of men and women who have devoted their lives to studying debating and organizing controversial environmental issues over the last 200 years In addition to the scientists who have analyzed how human actions affect nature we are introduced to poets landscape architects presidents painters activists even sanitation engineers and others who have forever altered how we think about the environment The easy to use A Z format provides instant access to these individuals and frequent cross references indicate others with whom individuals worked and sometimes clashed End of entry references provide users with a starting point for further research Alternative Press Index ,1996 Don't Burn it Here Edward Joseph Walsh, Rex H. Warland, D. Clayton Smith, 1997 In Don't Burn It Here sociologists Edward Walsh Rex Warland and D Clayton Smith examine the grassroots anti incineration movement through eight case studies of proposals to build municipal incinerators These cases set in Pennsylvania New York and New Jersey are comparable to hundreds of others across the United States The authors research is based on interviews focus group discussions extensive newspaper files and questionnaire responses from participants on both sides of the conflicts Killing Me Softly Eddie J. Girdner, Jack Smith, 2002-09 Girdner international relations Bashkent U Turkey and

Smith English and philosophy North Central Missouri College examine the toxic waste industry and the economic logic behind its expansion The authors contend that class is the main factor determining where toxic waste dumps are sited both in the U S and globally The text centers around the story of how the politically marginalized people of Mercer County Missouri successfully resisted the attempts of Amoco Waste Tech to build a toxic landfill in their area Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Toxic Nation Fred Setterberg,Lonny Shavelson,1993-08-10 Personal accounts of ordinary people confronting the frightening spread of toxic contamination Each year 22 billion pounds of toxic chemicals are spewed into our air water and soil The authors explore political environmental medical and economic sides of the issue and chronicle the growth of a grassroots movement for change Grassroots Opposition to the Hazardous Waste Incinerator Patrick Heron,1992 Sacrifice Zones Steve Lerner,2012-09-21 The stories of residents of low income communities across the country who took action when pollution from heavy industry contaminated their towns Across the United States thousands of people most of them in low income or minority communities live next to heavily polluting industrial sites Many of them reach a point at which they say Enough is enough After living for years with poisoned air and water contaminated soil and pollution related health problems they start to take action organizing speaking up documenting the effects of pollution on their neighborhoods In Sacrifice Zones Steve Lerner tells the stories of twelve communities from Brooklyn to Pensacola that rose up to fight the industries and military bases causing disproportionately high levels of chemical pollution He calls these low income neighborhoods sacrifice zones And he argues that residents of these sacrifice zones tainted with chemical pollutants need additional regulatory protections Sacrifice Zones goes beyond the disheartening statistics and gives us the voices of the residents themselves offering compelling portraits of accidental activists who have become grassroots leaders in the struggle for environmental justice and details the successful tactics they have used on the fenceline with heavy industry Local Solutions to Toxic Pollution Kristin Schafer,Sarah Blust,1993
