Treatment For Posttraumatic Stress Disorder In Military And Veteran Populations Initial Assessment:

Treatment for Posttraumatic Stress Disorder in Military and Veteran Populations Institute of Medicine, Board on the Health of Select Populations, Committee on the Assessment of Ongoing Efforts in the Treatment of Posttraumatic Stress Disorder, 2012-07-22 Prior to the military conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan wars and conflicts have been characterized by such injuries as infectious diseases and catastrophic gunshot wounds. However, the signature injuries sustained by United States military personnel in these most recent conflicts are blast wounds and the psychiatric consequences to combat, particularly posttraumatic stress disorder (PTSD), which affects an estimated 13 to 20 percent of U.S. service members who have fought in Iraq or Afghanistan since 2001. PTSD is triggered by a specific traumatic event, including combat, which leads to symptoms such as persistent re-experiencing of the event, emotional numbing or avoidance of thoughts, feelings, conversations, or places associated with the trauma, and hyperarousal such as exaggerated startle responses or difficulty concentrating. As the U.S. reduces its military involvement in the Middle East, the Departments of Defense (DoD) and Veterans Affairs (VA) anticipate that increasing numbers of returning veterans will need PTSD services. As a result, Congress asked the DoD in consultation with the VA to sponsor an IOM study to assess both departments' PTSD treatment programs and services. Treatment for Posttraumatic Stress Disorder in Military and Veteran Populations Initial Assessment is the first of two mandated reports; it examines some of the available programs to prevent, diagnose, treat, and rehabilitate those who have PTSD and encourages further research that can help to improve PTSD care.

Treatment for Posttraumatic Stress Disorder in Military and Veteran Populations Committee on the Assessment of Ongoing Efforts in the Treatment of Posttraumatic Stress Disorder, Board on the Health of Select Populations, Institute of Medicine, 2014-06-17 Posttraumatic stress disorder (PTSD) is one of the signature injuries of the U.S. conflicts in Afghanistan and Iraq, but it affects veterans of all eras. It is estimated that 7-20% of service members and veterans who served in Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom may have the disorder. PTSD is characterized by a combination of mental health symptoms: re-experiencing of a traumatic event, avoidance of trauma-associated stimuli, adverse alterations in thoughts and mood, and hyperarousal that last at least 1 month and impair functioning. PTSD can be lifelong and pervade all aspects of a service member's or veteran's life, including mental and physical health, family and social relationships, and employment. It is often concurrent with other health problems such as depression, traumatic brain injury, chronic pain, substance abuse disorder, and intimate partner violence. The Department of Defense (DoD) and the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) provide a spectrum of programs and services to screen for, diagnose, treat, and rehabilitate service members and veterans who have or are at risk for PTSD. The 2010 National Defense Authorization Act asked the Institute of Medicine to assess those PTSD programs and services in two phases. The Phase 1 study, Treatment for Posttraumatic Stress Disorder in Military and Veteran Populations Initial Assessment, focused on data gathering. Treatment for Posttraumatic Stress Disorder in Military and Veteran Populations Final Assessment is the report of the second phase of the study This report analyzes the data received in Phase 1 specifically to determine the rates of success for each program or method Treatment for Posttraumatic Stress Disorder in Military and Veteran Populations Final Assessment considers what a successful PTSD management system is and whether and how such a system is being implemented by DoD and VA This includes an assessment of what care is given and to whom how effectiveness is measured what types of mental health care providers are available what influences whether a service member or veteran seeks care and what are the costs associated with that care This report focuses on the opportunities and challenges that DoD and VA face in developing implementing and evaluating services and programs in the context of achieving a high performing system to care for service members and veterans who have PTSD The report also identifies where gaps or new emphases might be addressed to improve prevention of screening for diagnosis of and treatment and rehabilitation for the disorder The findings and recommendations of Treatment for Posttraumatic Stress Disorder in Military and Veteran Populations Final Assessment will encourage DoD and VA to increase their efforts in moving toward a high performing comprehensive integrated PTSD management strategy that addresses the needs of current and future service members veterans and their families

Returning Home from Iraq and Afghanistan Institute of Medicine, Board on the Health of Select Populations, Committee on the Assessment of Readjustment Needs of Military Personnel, Veterans, and Their Families, 2013-04-12 As of December 2012 Operation Enduring Freedom OEF in Afghanistan and Operation Iraqi Freedom OIF in Iraq have resulted in the deployment of about 2.2 million troops there have been 2,222 US fatalities in OEF and Operation New Dawn (OND) 1 and 4,422 in OIF. The numbers of wounded US troops exceed 16,000 in Afghanistan and 32,000 in Iraq. In addition to deaths and morbidity, the operations have unforeseen consequences that are yet to be fully understood. In contrast with previous conflicts, the all-volunteer military has experienced numerous deployments of individual service members, has seen increased deployments of women, parents of young children, and reserve and National Guard troops, and in some cases has been subject to longer deployments and shorter times at home between deployments. Numerous reports in the popular press have made the public aware of issues that have pointed to the difficulty of military personnel in readjusting after returning from Iraq and Afghanistan. Many of those who have served in OEF and OIF readjust with few difficulties, but others have problems in readjusting to home, reconnecting with family members, finding employment, and returning to school. In response to the return of large numbers of veterans from Iraq and Afghanistan with physical health and mental health problems, and to the growing readjustment needs of active-duty service members, veterans, and their family members, Congress included Section 1661 of the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 2008. That section required the secretary of defense, in consultation with the secretary of veterans affairs, to enter into an agreement with the National Academies for a study of the physical health, mental health, and other readjustment needs of members and former members of the armed forces who were deployed in OIF or OEF, their families, and their communities as a result of such deployment. The study consisted of two phases. The Phase 1 task was to conduct a preliminary assessment. The Phase 2 task was to provide a comprehensive assessment of the physical, psychological, social, and economic effects of deployment on and identification of gaps in care for members and former members, their families, and their communities. The Phase 1 report was completed in March 2010 and delivered to the Department of Defense (DOD), the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA), and the relevant committees of the House of Representatives and the Senate. The secretaries of DOD and VA responded to the Phase 1 report in September 2010. Returning Home from Iraq and Afghanistan: Assessment of Readjustment Needs of Veterans, Service Members, and Their Families fulfills the requirement for Phase 2. Handbook of Military Psychology Stephen V. Bowles, Paul T. Bartone, 2017-12-05. This expert compendium surveys the current state of military psychology across the branches of service at the clinical, research, consulting, and organizational levels. Its practical focus examines psychological adjustment pre and post deployment, commonly encountered conditions (e.g., substance abuse) and the promotion of well-being (sleep, mindfulness, and resilience training). Coverage pays particular attention to uses of psychology in selection and assessment of service personnel in specialized positions and training concerns for clinicians and students choosing to work with the military community. Chapters also address topics of particular salience to a socially conscious military, including PTSD, sexual harassment and assault, women's and LGBT issues, suicide prevention, and professional ethics. Among the specific chapters, topics covered include Military deployment psychology, psychologists in the forward environment, Stress and resilience in married
