Author of x, y, z, & Dimensions of Science Fiction

"The tradition of the writer-critic, established in the 1950s by James Blish, Damon Knight, James Gunn, and a few others, has been a consistent and important part of science fiction scholarship, carried on after the 1950s by Algis Budrys, Norman Spinrad, Alexei Panshin, Samuel Delany, and most recently Damien Broderick..."

Unleashing The Strange Twenty First Century Science Fiction Literature:

Unleashing the Strange Damien Broderick, 2009-01-01 Novelist and scholar Damien Broderick offers an exhilarating report on the state of science fiction at the start of the millennium In the 21st century we see a new wave rising in SF it's complex transreal slipstreamy post postmodern It unleashes the strange Science Fiction Literature through History Gary Westfahl, 2021-07-19 This book provides students and other interested readers with a comprehensive survey of science fiction history and numerous essays addressing major science fiction topics authors works and subgenres written by a distinguished scholar This encyclopedia deals with written science fiction in all of its forms not only novels and short stories but also mediums often ignored in other reference books such as plays poems comic books and graphic novels Some science fiction films television programs and video games are also mentioned particularly when they are relevant to written texts Its focus is on science fiction in the English language though due attention is given to international authors whose works have been frequently translated into English Since science fiction became a recognized genre and greatly expanded in the 20th century works published in the 20th and 21st centuries are most frequently discussed though important earlier works are not neglected The texts are designed to be helpful to numerous readers ranging from students first encountering science fiction to experienced scholars in the field Strange Highways: Reading Science Fantasy, 1950-1967 John Boston, Damien Broderick, 2013-01-15 Science Fantasy blends science fiction AND fantasy so it tends to be bolder and more highly colored than pure science fiction In the middle of the last century the British magazine SCIENCE FANTASY created its own distinctive strains of fantasy narrative most famously by such writers as Brian W Aldiss J G Ballard John Brunner Michael Moorcock and Thomas Burnett Swann among others This book looks closely at the whole trajectory of that lost magazine from its birth in 1950 through 1967 when it was briefly called SF Impulse John Boston provides a brilliantly insightful and often every funny account of the rise evolution and final fall of SCIENCE FANTASY its writers and its quirky editors Boston is joined by writer and critic Damien Broderick adding his own waspish and nostalgic comments This volume the first of three dealing with the history and development of the major British SF magazines is a compelling night journey into the past where the future took a turn down paths not often explored It's a trip not to be missed Xeno Fiction: More Best of Science Fiction Damien Broderick, Van Ikin, 2013-08-05 Science fiction loves strangeness It relishes oddities even when it piles on fear and dystopian loathing The technical term for a fascination with the strange and alien is xenophilia just as the term for a terror of the strange is xenophobia At its core then science fiction is Xeno Fiction So science fiction seeks out the strange roams far from home in space and time looks with avid eagerness upon the ways of the Others human or alien It participates in brilliantly lighted imagination in their strange lives In this second gathering from Van Ikin's critical journal Science Fiction A Review of Speculative Literature writers of the alien are investigated with wit and insight G Travis Regier follows the Other into its own home accompanying those experts in the alien C J Cherry and Samuel R Delany In the book's long key essay

Terry Dowling pursues the Art of Xenography as exemplified by Jack Vance's General Culture novels. Three expert commentators look into Booker Prize winner Peter Carey's postcolonial and postmodern frolics into alternative realities. And the Xeno-fictions of Isaac Asimov, Greg Egan, Mary Gentle, Ursula K. Le Guin, Naomi Mitchison, Neal Stephenson, and Stanley Weinbaum are read as their road maps into the strange. Eleven revealing essays on speculative fiction by some of the best critics in the field.

Reimagining Science Fiction Gary Westfahl, 2025-10-31 In the first decades of the twenty-first century, science fiction literature has been transformed in many ways as the genre has reacted to the dominating influence of films, television, and video games; the growing popularity of fantasy; the rise of young adult science fiction and graphic novels; the impact of the internet and social media; and the increasing diversity of the authors, characters, and often non-Western settings. The essays making up this volume address these and other changes in two ways. Some consider new critical approaches to science fiction in response to changing circumstances, including analyses of how evolutionary psychology explains today's science fiction, the emerging subgenre of cli-fi exploring the effects of climate change, the use of science fiction in different areas of the college curriculum, and a statistical method for identifying works of science fiction. Others examine significant new authors such as Nalo Hopkinson, Charles Stross, Paolo Bacigalupi, Suzanne Collins, Mira Grant, John Sandford, and David Mura. Contributors include science fiction author Howard V. Hendrix and experts in the fields of Chinese studies, gender studies, literature, philosophy, and religion.

Building New Worlds, 1946-1959 John Boston, Damien Broderick, 2013-02-13 Building New Worlds is a history of a pivotal decades-long episode in the birth and growth of today's science fiction. Enthralling and amusing, it's written with affection and wit. This is no dry, modishly theorized academic analysis. Nor is it a rah-rah celebration of the Good Old Days. Here is a candid and astute reader's response to a magazine that by today's standards was often comically bad but was also immensely important in its time and improved like the Little Engine or maybe Starship That Could. New Worlds is best remembered today as the fountainhead of the New Wave of audacious experimental SF in the second half of the 1960s under editor Michael Moorcock. But these first pioneering issues from 1946-59 were edited by the magazine's founder, John Ted Carnell. 1912-72, Carnell was a pillar of the old-style UK SF establishment but gamely supportive of innovators, most famously of the brilliant J.G. Ballard, Brian W. Aldiss, and John Brunner, whose early work he nurtured. The story of how New Worlds got started, survived, and got better is essential to the history of the genres of the fantastic in the UK and indeed the world. And huge fun to read. Watch for the companion volumes New Worlds Before the New Wave and Strange Highways, dealing with New World's companion magazine Science Fantasy.

New Worlds: Before the New Wave, 1960-1964 John Boston, Damien Broderick, 2013-04-30 In the mid-1960s, British science fiction and fantasy were convulsed by the New Wave. This movement emerged from the SF magazines edited by John Carnell. Such brilliant NEW WORLDS and SCIENCE FANTASY writers as J.G. Ballard, Brian W. Aldiss, John Brunner, and Michael Moorcock heralded the rise of this new kind of fantastic fiction. John Boston and Damien Broderick's concluding volume of their critical trilogy examines the history and development of these important magazines and the fiction that they championed By the end of this period 1964 Carnell had set the stage for that major development in UK science fiction the new wave adventures of the transformed NEW WORLDS under the editorship of Moorcock and had himself shifted gear into the next mode of SF publishing as editor of the paperback anthology series New Writings in SF Boston and Broderick's series will become the definitive critical histories of these important British magazines Complete with indices of names and titles cited

Zones Damien Broderick, Rory Barnes, 2012-03-01 Jenny Kane loves weird science but it's gone way WAY out of control Her mother's moved out her dad's still moping around and she's not sure how to cope any longer And she keeps getting these weird phone calls from a scientist named Rod who's where when another time zone Another time altogether Another reality But that'd be crazy wouldn't it She also has the strangest feeling that she's done all this before Who's this odd boy she just crashed into this Tristan How does she even know his name or the fact that he can perform parlor type magic tricks Hilarious exciting touching ZONES is a classic adventure of time travel a great SF adventure that grabs you with its opening lines and then never lets you go

The Ruined Queen of Harvest World Damien Broderick, 2011-02-01 A story for everyone who ever loved the work of the late great SF writer Cordwainer Smith From An Introduction to The Ruined Queen of Harvest World Perhaps nobody in all the world had ever written the future so well hauntingly yearningly as Cordwainer Smith And then he had gone barely more than half a century old We would never learn the rest of those stories that history of the deep future that golden journey oh oh oh Well certainly I'm not foolish enough to imagine I might add to them might emulate that distinctive voice building layer by layer its deceptively simple confection But some reverberation of the voice of Cordwainer Smith drums away down inside and finally I let it speak not mimicry of the inimitable but a respectful bow toward Smith's shade with a wry grin and maybe a wink At the Publisher's request this title is being sold without Digital Rights Management Software DRM applied

Religious Science Fiction in Battlestar Galactica and Caprica Jutta Wimmeler, 2015-09-02 Why did it seem strange when Battlestar Galactica ended its narrative on a religious note instead of providing a scientific explanation And what does this have to do with gender This book explores the connection between the triumph of religion and the dominance of femininity in Battlestar Galactica and its prequel series Caprica Both series breached science fiction's convention of representing the irrationality of femininity and religion Analyzing the connections and disconnections between women and men and theology and technology the author argues that the Battlestarverse depicts women as zones of contact between the seemingly contradictory spheres of science and religion by simultaneously employing and breaking gender stereotypes

Alien Starswarm / Human's Burden (Wildside Double #6) Robert Sheckley, Damien Broderick, Rory Barnes, 2010-10-01 In the tradition of the old Ace Doubles flip one book over to read the second title here is the sixth Wildside Double ALIEN STARSWARM by Robert Sheckley Salvatore commands the battleship Endymion He's seen his share of battles and fought them bravely too So he doesn't hesitate when beautiful Princess Hatori pleads for his help She wants to regain her throne but it may be more than Salvatore can accomplish for the deadly race known as the Balderdash has taken over the planet Melchior and now even his own men have turned against him HUMAN'S BURDEN by Damien Broderick and Rory Barnes Poor Jack Wong is a clueless cadet at the Unified Space Academy when his pod is stranded on a planet of disgusting aliens All he wants to do other than escape is to fulfill his proud duty to advance Earth Culture's Primary Heuristic Wherever possible find the weak spot in an alien civilization and interfere as much as possible for the benefit of humanity It's the Human's Burden But everything comes unstuck made worse by his irritating Machiavellian AI And that's just the start of Jack's troubles in space and time
