Brooks, Kieran Donaghy, Gerrit-Jan Knaap, 2012-01-12 This volume embodies a problem driven and theoretically informed approach to bridging frontier research in urban economics and urban regional planning The authors focus on the interface between these two subdisciplines that have historically had an uneasy relationship Although economists were among the early contributors to the literature on urban planning many economists have been dismissive of a discipline whose leading scholars frequently favor regulations over market institutions equity over efficiency and normative prescriptions over positive analysis Planners meanwhile even as they draw upon economic principles often view the work of economists as abstract not sensitive to institutional contexts and communicated in a formal language spoken by few with decision making authority Not surprisingly papers in the leading economic journals rarely cite clearly pertinent papers in planning journals and vice versa Despite the historical divergence in perspectives and methods urban economics and urban planning share an intense interest in many topic areas the nature of cities the prosperity of urban economies the efficient provision of urban services efficient systems of transportation and the proper allocation of land between urban and environmental uses In bridging this gap the book highlights the best scholarship in planning and economics that address the most pressing urban problems of our day and stimulates further dialog between scholars in urban planning and urban economics The Oxford Handbook of

Urban Planning Randall Crane,Rachel Weber,2015 Why plan How and what do we plan Who plans for whom These three questions are then applied across three major topics in planning States Markets and the Provision of Social Goods The Methods and Substance of Planning and Agency Implementation and Decision Making Proceedings of the ICSDI 2024

Knowledge Management: The Death of Wisdom Arnold Kransdorff, 2012-09-24 This book is about an unintended and unnoticed consequence that is needlessly costing commerce and industry an unimaginable amount of money It was in the early 1980s that someone smart thought that the flexible labor market would allow employers to quickly adapt their workforce to the new industrial technology led revolution It did but the trouble is that nobody thought of the downside consequences short jobs tenure and the continual loss of the organizations unique hard won and expensively acquired knowledge and experience Inside you ll learn how employers can continue to take advantage of the flexible labor market while holding on to their special knowledge and experience It s a way of recovering lost continuity allowing rolling generations of employees to learn more effectively from tried and tested experience and thus improve their decision making Called experiential learning that has been adapted to the modern workplace it s a way of helping to banish all those repeated mistakes re invented wheels and other unlearned lessons that litter modern industry and commerce The Ambiguous

Legacy of Socialist Modernist Architecture in Central and Eastern Europe Mariusz Sokołowicz, Aleksandra Nowakowska, Błażej Ciarkowski, 2023-04-28 This book examines the unique socialist modernist architecture built in the twentieth century in Central and Eastern Europe as a source of heritage and of existing and potential value for the present and future generations Due to the historical context in which it was created such architecture remains ambiguous On the one hand the wider public associates it with the legacy of the unpleasant period of the real socialist economic regime Yet on the other hand it is also a manifestation of social modernization and the promotion of a significant proportion of the population This book focuses particularly on concrete heritage a legacy of modernist architecture in Central and Eastern Europe and it was this material that enabled their rebuilding after World War II and modernization during the following decades The authors search for the value of modernist architecture and using case studies from Poland Bulgaria Northern Macedonia

Lithuania and Slovenia verify to what extent this heritage is embedded in the local socio economic milieu and becomes a basis for creating new values They argue that the challenge is to change the ways we think about heritage from looking at it from the point of view of a single monument to thinking in terms of a place with its own character and identity that builds its relation to history and its embeddedness in the local space Furthermore they propose that the preservation of existing concrete structures and adapting them to modern needs is of great importance for sustainability With increasing awareness of the issue of preserving post war architectural heritage and the strategies of dissonant heritage management this multidisciplinary study will be of interest to architecture historians conservators heritage economists urban planners and architects
