Writing About Visual Art Aesthetics Today:

Writing about Visual Art David Carrier, 2003-03-01 David Carrier examines the history and practice of art writing and reveals its importance to the art museum the art gallery and aesthetic theory Artists art historians and art lovers alike can gain fresh insight into how written descriptions of painting and sculpture affect the experience of art Readers will learn how their reading can determine the way they see painting and sculpture how interpretations of art transform meaning and significance and how much discussed work becomes difficult to see afresh The Political Power of Visual Art Daniel Herwitz, 2021-04-08 Visual art has a ubiquitous political cast today But which politics Daniel Herwitz seeks clarity on the various things meant by politics and how we can evaluate their presumptions or aspirations in contemporary art Drawing on the work of William Kentridge drenched in violence race and power and the artworld immolations of Banksy Herwitz's examples range from the NEA 4 and the question of offense as dissent to the community driven work of George Gittoes the identity politics of contemporary American art and for contrast with the power of visual media literature written in dialogue with truth commissions He is interested in understanding art practices today in the light of two opposing inheritances the avant gardes and their politicization of the experimental art object and 18th century aesthetics preaching the autonomy of the art object which he interprets as the cultural compliment to modern liberalism His historically informed approach reveals how crucial this pair of legacies is to reading the tensions in voice and character of art today Driven by questions about the capacity of the visual medium to speak politically or acquire political agency this book is for anyone working in aesthetics or the art world concerned with the fate of cultural politics in a world spinning out of control yet within reach of emancipation

The Literate Eye Rachel Teukolsky, 2009-07-30 Rather than focusing on German philosophy or the French avant gardes as many books on the history of aesthetics do Teukolsky takes up British responses to modern art controversies thus providing a unique view on the development of artistic forms and art history She considers the canonical writing of authors like John Ruskin Walter Pater and Oscar Wilde alongside texts belonging to the rich field of Victorian print culture gallery reviews scientific treatises satirical cartoons advertisements and early photography monographs among them Spanning the years 1840 to 1910 her argument also adds substance to our understanding of the transition from Victorianism to modernism a period of especially lively exchange between artists and intellectuals here narrated with careful attention given to the historical particularities and real events that stamped their imprint on such interactions Art, Aesthetics, and the Brain Joseph P. Huston, Marcos Nadal, Francisco Mora, Luigi F. Agnati, Camilo José Cela Conde, 2015-06-25 Humans have engaged in artistic and aesthetic activities since the appearance of our species Our ancestors have decorated their bodies tools and utensils for over 100 000 years The expression of meaning using color line sound rhythm or movement among other means constitutes a fundamental aspect of our species biological and cultural heritage Art and aesthetics therefore contribute to our species identity and distinguish it from its living and extinct relatives Science is faced with the challenge of explaining the natural foundations of such a unique trait and the way cultural processes nurture it into magnificent expressions historically and ethnically unique How does the human brain bring about these sorts of behaviors What neural processes underlie the appreciation of painting music and dance How does training modulate these processes How are they impaired by brain lesions and neurodegenerative diseases How did such neural underpinnings evolve Are humans the only species capable of aesthetic appreciation or are other species endowed with the rudiments of this capacity This volume brings together the work on such questions by leading experts in genetics psychology neuroimaging neuropsychology art history and philosophy It sets the stage for a cognitive neuroscience of art and aesthetics understood in the broadest possible terms With sections on visual art dance music neuropsychology and evolution the breadth of this volume's scope reflects the richness and variety of topics and methods currently used today by scientists to understand the way our brain endows us with the faculty to produce and appreciate art and aesthetics

Women Writing Art History in the Nineteenth Century Hilary Fraser, 2014-09-04 This book sets out to correct received accounts of the emergence of art history as a masculine field It investigates the importance of female writers from Anna Jameson Elizabeth Eastlake and George Eliot to Alice Meynell Vernon Lee and Michael Field in developing a discourse of art notable for its complexity and cultural power its increasing professionalism and reach and its integration with other discourses of modernity Proposing a more flexible and inclusive model of what constitutes art historical writing including fiction poetry and travel literature this book offers a radically revisionist account of the genealogy of a discipline and a profession It shows how women experienced forms of professional exclusion that whilst detrimental to their careers could be aesthetically formative how working from the margins of established institutional structures gave women the freedom to be audaciously experimental in their writing about art in ways that resonate with modern readers Writing Our Extinction Patrick Whitmarsh, 2023-04-11 Mid twentieth century developments in science and technology produced new understandings and images of the planet that circulated the globe giving rise to a modern ecological consciousness but they also contributed to accelerating crises in the global environment including climate change pollution and waste In this new work Patrick Whitmarsh analyzes postwar narrative fictions that describe depict or express the earth from above the aerial and below the subterranean revealing the ways that literature has engaged this history of vertical science and linked it to increasing environmental precarity up to and including the extinction of humankind Whitmarsh examines works by writers such as Don DeLillo Karen Tei Yamashita Reza Negarestani and Colson Whitehead alongside postwar scientific programs including the Space Race atmospheric and underground nuclear testing and geological expeditions such as Project Mohole which attempted to drill to the earth's mantle As Whitmarsh argues by focusing readers attention on the fragility of postwar life through a vertical lens Anthropocene fiction highlights the interconnections between human behavior and planetary change These fictions situate industrial history within the much longer narrative of geological time and reframe scientific progress as a story through which humankind writes itself out of existence Laruelle and Art Jonathan Fardy, 2019-11-14 François Laruelle emerged from the hallowed generation of French postwar philosophers that included luminaries such as Jacques Derrida Gilles Deleuze Luce Irigaray and Jean Baudrillard yet his thinking differs radically from that of his better known contemporaries In Laruelle and Art Jonathan Fardy provides the first academic monograph dedicated solely to Laruelle's unique contribution to aesthetic theory and specifically the non philosophical project he terms non aesthetics This undertaking allows Laruelle to think about art outside the boundaries of standard philosophy an approach that Fardy explicates through a series of case studies By analysing the art of figures such as Julia Margaret Cameron Anish Kapoor Dan Flavin and James Turrell as well as the drama of Michael Frayn Fardy's new book enables new and experienced readers of Laruelle to understand how the philosopher's thinking can open up new vistas of art and criticism Art and Womanhood in Fin-de-Siècle Writing Catherine Delyfer, 2015-10-06 Lucas Malet is one of a number of forgotten female writers whose work bridges the gap between George Eliot and Virginia Woolf Malet's writing was intrinsically linked to her passion for art This is the first book length study of Malet's novels

Modernist Travel Writing David G. Farley, 2010-11-30 As the study of travel writing has grown in recent years scholars have largely ignored the literature of modernist writers Modernist Travel Writing: Intellectuals Abroad by David Farley addresses this gap by examining the ways in which a number of writers employed the techniques and stylistic innovations of modernism in their travel narratives to variously engage the political social and cultural milieu of the years between the world wars Modernist Travel Writing argues that the travel book is a crucial genre for understanding the development of modernism in the years between the wars despite the established view that travel writing during the interwar period was largely an escapist genre one in which writers hearkened back to the realism of nineteenth century literature in order to avoid interwar anxiety Farley analyzes works that exist on the margins of modernism generically and geographically works that have yet to receive the critical attention they deserve partly due to their classification as travel narratives and partly because of their complex modernist styles The book begins by examining the ways that travel and the emergent travel regulations in the wake of the First World War helped shape Ezra Pound's Cantos From there it goes on to examine E E Cummings's frustrated attempts to navigate the unworld of Soviet Russia in his book Eimi Wyndham Lewis's satiric journey through colonial Morocco in Filibusters in Barbary and Rebecca West's urgent efforts to make sense of the fractious Balkan states in Black Lamb and Grey Falcon These modernist writers traveled to countries that experienced most directly the tumult of revolution the effects of empire and the upheaval of war during the years between World War I and World War II Farley's study focuses on the question of what constitutes evidence for Pound Lewis Cummings and West as they establish their authority as eyewitnesses translate what they see for an audience back home and attempt to make sense of a transformed and transforming modern world Modernist Travel Writing makes an original contribution to the study of literary modernism while taking a distinctive look at a unique subset within the growing field of travel writing studies David Farley's work will be of interest to students and teachers in both of these fields as well as to early twentieth century literary historians and general enthusiasts of modernist studies

The Temporality of Taste in Eighteenth-Century British Writing James Noggle, 2012-02-09 Is taste a quick momentary experience in the individual mind Or something durable shaped by slow historical processes affecting groups of people at different times and places British writers in the eighteenth century believed that it was both and the tension between these temporal poles shaped the meaning of taste in the period and set a course for aesthetics in following centuries Focusing on works in many genres Alexander Pope's poems David Hume's historiography essays by Hannah More and Anna Barbauld and novels by Frances Burney and William Beckford this book sees the divided temporality of taste as an unpredictable force in British writing The eighteenth century was the age of taste Writers considered its intense effects on individual minds as especially characteristic of the collective present of British modernity whilst they also recognized the disturbing tendency of taste's immediacy and its historical roles to interrupt and foreclose on each other While noting how taste's two temporal flavours may be made to agree in order to consolidate various national social and gendered identities this book also demonstrates that taste's dual temporality makes it more disruptive than scholars usually think As such taste models a kind of critical practice that this book itself endeavours to inherit the insistent testing of the moment of discernment and on going patterns of thinking and feeling against each other

Writing and Filming the Painting Laura M. Sager Eidt, 2008-01-01 This innovative interdisciplinary study compares the uses of painting in literary texts and films In developing a framework of four types of ekphrasis the author argues for the expansion of the concept of ekphrasis by demonstrating its applicability as interpretive tool to films about the visual arts and artists Analyzing selected works of art by Goya Rembrandt and Vermeer and their ekphrastic treatment in various texts and films this book examines how the medium of ekphrasis affects the representation of the visual arts in order to show what the differences imply about issues such as gender roles and the function of art for the construction of a personal or social identity Because of its highly cross disciplinary nature this book is of interest not only to scholars of literature and aesthetics but also for scholars of film studies By providing an innovative approach to discussing non documentary films about artists the author shows that ekphrasis is a useful tool for exploring both aesthetic concerns and ideological issues in film This study also addresses art historians as it deals with the reception of major artists in European literature and film throughout the 20th century

Paradigms in Theory Construction Luciano L'Abate, 2011-12-01 Within the field of psychology there is a proliferation of paradigms theories models and dimensions without an underlying conceptual framework or theory This conclusion has been reached by representatives of many different psychological specialties In response to this inconsistency this book presents a hierarchical framework about important theoretical issues that are present in psychological thinking These issues concern definitions of three major theoretical concepts in theory and practice a paradigms b theories and c models It focuses on defining comparing and contrasting these three conceptual terms This framework clarifies differences among paradigms theories and models terms which have become increasingly confused in the psychological literature Paradigms are usually confused with theories or with models while theories are confused with models Examples of misuses of these terms suggest the need for a hierarchical structure that views paradigms as conceptual constructions overseeing a variety of psychological theories and verifiable models
