Federal Insurance Administration,1978 Application of Frequency and Risk in Water Resources V.P. Singh,2012-12-06 Floods constitute a persistent and serious problem throughout the United States and many other parts of the world They are responsible for losses amounting to billions of dollars and scores of deaths annually Virtually all parts of the nation coastal mountainous and rural are affected by them Two aspects of the problem of flooding that have long been topics of scientific inquiry are flood frequency and risk analyses Many new even improved tech niques have recently been developed for performing these analyses Nevertheless actual experience points out that the frequency of say a IOO year flood in lieu of being encountered on the average once in one hundred years may be as little as once in 25 years It is therefore appropriate to pause and ask where we are where we are going and where we ought to be going with regard to the technology of flood frequency and risk analyses One way to address these ques tions is to provide a forum where people from all quarters of the world can assemble discuss and share their experience and expertise pertaining to flood frequency and risk analyses This is what con stituted the motivation for organizing the International Symposium on Flood Frequency and Risk Analyses held May 14 17 1986 at Louisiana State Universj ty Baton Rouge Louisiana

Models and Methods Applicable to Corps of Engineers Urban Studies Waterways Experiment Station (U.S.),1974 The report is basically a source book for individuals who are actually concerned with the problem of constructing alternative plans for developing urban areas It reviews the methods and computer models that are currently available to the planner or engineer for developing water and related land resources These reviews discuss the availability and usefulness of several models give a brief technical description of each model including the input data required and indicate the amount and type of computer hardware needed to use each model The report is directed mainly toward water related problems Thus most of the methods discussed deal with urban drainage wastewater management flood routing reservoir operation water supply flood zoning and the social and economic aspects associated with these areas Modified author abstract
