Traumatized A Collection Of Poems:

A Trauma Theory Reading of the Book of Job Michelle Keener, 2025-06-12 Michelle Keener incorporates advances in modern trauma theory in the interpretation of the book of Job. Keener focuses primarily on using the framework of a psychological trauma narrative to read the text, providing new insights into how Job functions as a text that deals with trauma. After an extensive introduction to the history and fundamentals of trauma theory, Keener actively applies a trauma theory reading to the book of Job with special attention paid to the elements of a therapeutic trauma narrative: its role in the cognitive resolution of trauma and how this is reflected in the biblical text. This approach provides alternative answers to some of the suggested redactions, reconstruction, and inconsistencies identified in the text of Job by previous scholars. Keener also draws in the Wesleyan Quadrilateral as a means of reading the texts and examines how her conclusions may be useful in applied community contexts.

Trauma in 20th Century Multicultural American Poetry Jamie D. Barker, 2020-02-06 In Trauma in 20th Century Multicultural American Poetry, Jamie D. Barker argues that by using literary trauma theory in conjunction with a reader response approach, readers can gain a better understanding of how poetry can work towards building community and encouraging empowerment over oppression by establishing collectives of people who may share similar stories and experiences connected to trauma. Rather than demonstrating how the poetry may fail or trying to establish what traumatic events the speaker or poet in some studies may have encountered and the significance thereof, this study focuses on how the reader may find community with the ideas represented within the poem. The poetry of various ethnicities are examined, including African American poets Amiri Baraka and Lucille Clifton, Native American poets Robin Coffee, Linda Hogan, and Peter Blue Cloud, as well as Japanese American poets Mitsuye Yamada, Keiho Soga, and Lawson Fusao Inada. Although many of these poets have had their poems examined in the past, none have been explored through this type of approach. Furthermore, very few studies have expanded upon the ideas of literary trauma theory by using reader response, and no writings have examined the idea of ambivalence in poetry as this study does.

The Art and Science of Trauma and the Autobiographical Meg Jensen, 2019-01-04 This book examines posttraumatic autobiographical projects, elucidating the complex relationship between the science of trauma and how that idea is understood across various scientific disciplines and the rhetorical strategies of fragmentation, dissociation, reticence, and repetitive troping widely used in the representation of traumatic experience. From autobiographical fictions to prison poems, from witness testimony to autography and from testimonio to war memorials, otherwise dissimilar projects speak of past suffering through a limited and even predictable discourse in search of healing. Drawing on approaches from literary, human rights, and cultural studies that highlight relations between trauma, language, meaning, and selfhood and the latest research on the science of trauma from the fields of clinical, behavioral, and evolutionary psychology and neuroscience, I read such autobiographical projects not as symptoms but as complex interrogative negotiations of trauma and its aftermath, commemorative and performative narratives navigating aesthetic biological cultural linguistic and emotional pressure and inspiration Traumatic Verses Andrés José Nader, 2007 Traumatic Verses provides psychoanalytically informed close readings of a range of poems and discusses their significance for aesthetic theory and for research on the camps. It also tells the stories behind the composition and preservation of these poems and the history of their publication since 1945. Most of the poems appear here for the first time in English translation along with the original texts. This book fills a gap left by literary historians who have mostly ignored writings from the camps and avoided careful scrutiny of literature produced under the Nazi regime. Studies of trauma have concentrated on post-traumatic experiences; discussions of aesthetics after the Holocaust have neglected the issue of the artistic impulse in the camps. On both counts, this book constitutes a unique contribution to scholarship, showing that when read attentively, the poems written in the camps are invaluable sites for confronting the Nazi past. Ted Hughes and Trauma Danny O'Connor, 2016-08-31 This book is a radical re-appraisal of the poetry of Ted Hughes, placing him in the context of continental theorists such as Jacques Lacan, Jacques Derrida, and Slavoj Žižek to address the traumas of his work. As an undergraduate, Hughes was visited in his sleep by a burnt fox man who left a bloody handprint on his essay, warning him of the dangers of literary criticism. Hereafter, criticism became burning the foxes. This book offers a defence of literary criticism, drawing Hughes' poetry and prose into the network of theoretical work he dismissed as the tyrant's whisper by demonstrating a shared concern with trauma. Covering a wide range of Hughes' work, it explores the various traumas that define his writing. Whether it is comparing his idea of man as split from nature with that of Jacques Lacan, considering his challenging relationship with language in light of Roland Barthes and Jacques Derrida, seeing him in the art gallery and at the movies with Gilles Deleuze, or considering his troubled relationship with femininity in regard to Teresa Brennan and Slavoj Žižek, Burning the Foxes offers a fresh look at a familiar poet. Diagnostic Imaging: Musculoskeletal Non-Traumatic Disease E-Book B. Trauma and Traumatization in Individual and Collective Dimensions Eve-Marie Becker, Jan Dochhorn, 2014-10-01 The contributors of this volume demonstrate how a highly developed expertise in interpreting Biblical and cognate literature is a substantial part of the overall discourse on the historical literary social political and religious dimensions of trauma in past and present This idea is based on the assumption that trauma is not only a modern concept which derives from 20th century psychiatry It is an ancient phenomenon already which predates modern discourses Trauma studies will thus profit from how Theology specifically Biblical exegesis and the Humanities deal with trauma in terms of religion history sociology and politics
