Trans Wesleyan Poetry Series:

Trans Hilda Raz, 2021-05-13 This elegant and moving collection of poems grew out of Hilda Raz's experience with her son's journey to a transgender identity. Born Sarah, now Aaron, Raz's child has had a profound impact on her understanding of what it means to be a family, to be whole, and to know oneself. The collection moves between past and present, allowing Raz to reflect on her own childhood and on her experience with breast cancer to find ways to connect with Aaron. The journey takes us from intimacy to strangeness and back again from denial to humor to grief and rage, but always laced with love and acceptance. Trans means across, through, over, to, or on the other side, and beyond. This book documents some major transformations of body, self, society, and spirit that art requires and life allows. The poems are accessible and finely wrought. They are equally testaments to Raz's insistence on making an order out of chaos, of finding ways to create and understand, and eventually accept new definitions of self and family. The physical and sensuous language of Raz's poems and their humanity keep them intimately bound to the world and to the senses. A Story Larger than My Own Janet Burroway, 2024-05-31

In 1955 Maxine Kumin submitted a poem to the Saturday Evening Post. Lines on a Half Painted House made it into the magazine, but not before Kumin was asked to produce, via her husband's employer, verification that the poem was her original work. Kumin, who went on to win the Pulitzer Prize for poetry, was part of a groundbreaking generation of women writers who came of age during the midcentury feminist movement. By challenging the status quo and ultimately finding success for themselves, they paved the way for future generations of writers. In A Story Larger than My Own, Janet Burroway brings together Kumin, Julia Alvarez, Jane Smiley, Erica Jong, and fifteen other accomplished women of this generation to reflect on their writing lives. The essays and poems featured in this collection illustrate that even writers who achieve critical and commercial success experience a familiar pattern of highs and lows over the course of their careers. Along with success comes the pressure to sustain it, as well as a constant search for subject matter, all too frequent crises of confidence, the challenges of a changing publishing scene, and the difficulty of combining writing with the ordinary stuff of life: family, marriage, jobs. The contributors, all now over the age of sixty, also confront the effects of aging with its paradoxical duality of new limitations and newfound freedom. Taken together, these stories offer advice from experience to writers at all stages of their careers and serve as a collective memoir of a truly remarkable generation of women. The Behavioral

Economics of Translation Douglas Robinson, 2022-11-30 This book applies frameworks from behavioral economics to Western thinking about translation, mapping four approaches to eight keywords in translation studies to bring together divergent perspectives on the study of translation and interpreting. The volume takes its points of departure from the tensions between the concerns of behavioral and neoclassical economists. The book considers, on one side, behavioral economists' interest in the predictable irrationality of humans and its nuances as they unfold in terms of gender, here organized around Masculine, Human, Feminine, Human, and Queer perspectives, and on the other side, neoclassical economists' chief concerns with the unfailing rationality of the Econs Robinson applies these four approaches across eight chapters each representing a keyword in the study of translation agency difference Eurocentrism hermeneutics language norms rhetoric and world literature with case studies that problematize the different categories Taken together the book offers a comprehensive treatment of the behavioral economics of translation and promotes new ways of thinking in the study of translation and interpreting making it of interest to scholars in the discipline as well as those working along interdisciplinary lines in related fields such as philosophy literature and political science

Prose Poetry in Theory and Practice Anne Caldwell, Oz

Hardwick, 2022-06-01 Prose Poetry in Theory and Practice vigorously engages with the Why and the How of prose poetry a form that is currently enjoying a surge in popularity With contributions by both practitioners and academics this volume seeks to explore how its distinctive properties guide both writer and reader and to address why this form is so well suited to the early twenty first century With discussion of both classic and less well known writers the essays both illuminate prose poetry s distinctive features and explore how this outsider form can offer a unique way of viewing and describing the uncertainties and instabilities which shape our identities and our relationships with our surroundings in the early twenty first century Combining insights on the theory and practice of prose poetry Prose Poetry in Theory and Practice offers a timely and valuable contribution to the development of the form and its appreciation amongst practitioners and scholars alike Largely approached from a practitioner perspective this collection provides vivid snapshots of contemporary debates within the prose poetry field while actively contributing to the poetics and craft of the form

Divine Honors Hilda Raz, 2021-04

This elegant and moving collection documents Hilda Raz s experience with breast cancer The journey from diagnosis to chemotherapy to mastectomy from denial to humor to grief and rage is ultimately one of courage and creativity The poems themselves are accessible and finely wrought They are equally testaments to Raz s insistence on making an order out of chaos of finding ways to create and understand and eventually accept new definitions of good and evil health blame and personal boundaries in short a new sense of self These poems remain intimately bound to the world and of the senses becoming documents of transformation

GenderQueer-Voices from Beyond the Sexual Binary Riki Wilchins, Joan

Nestle, Clare Howell, Silvia Rivera, Susan Wright, Gina Reiss, 2020-08-12 When GenderQueer was first published in 2002 it was groundbreaking even inventing a new word for those whose voices had been hidden behind the walls of the gender binary Now finally it s republished and those voices are still fresh and compelling in a volume that can take its place as one of the field s early and most original classics Michael Kimmel SUNY Distinguished Professor of Sociology and Gender Studies Stony Brook University retired Perhaps more than any other issue gender identity has galvanized the queer community in recent years The questions go beyond the nature of male female to a yet to be traversed region that lies somewhere between and beyond biologically determined gender In this groundbreaking anthology first published nearly two decades ago three experts in gender studies and politics navigate around rigid societally imposed concepts of two genders to discover and illuminate the limitless possibilities of identity Thirty first person accounts of gender construction exploration and questioning provide the groundwork for cultural discussion political action and even greater possibilities of autonomous gender choices Joan Nestle is the cofounder of the Lesbian Herstory Archives in New York and the writer and editor of six books including the groundbreaking Women on Women series Riki Wilchins is the executive director of GenderPAC the national gender advocacy group and the cofounder of the Gender Identity Project of New York City's Lesbian and Gay Center She is the author of Read My Lips Sexual Subversion and the End of Gender Gender Theory Burn the Binary and TransGRESSIVE Clare Howell is a senior librarian at the Brooklyn Public Library Methodology, Ideology and Pedagogy of African Art Moyo Okediji, 2024-02-14 This edited volume including contributions from scholars with different areas of specialization investigates a broad range of methodologies ideologies and pedagogies focusing on the study of the art of Africa using theoretical reflections and applications from primitivism to metamodernism Chapters break the externally imposed boundaries of Africa related works beyond the conventional fragments of traditional contemporary and diaspora The contributions are significantly broad in their methodologies ideologies and pedagogical coverage yet they all address various aspects of African artistic creativity demonstrating the possibilities for analytical experiments that art history presents to scholars of the discipline today The w character of each approach is unique nevertheless each is useful toward a fuller understanding of African art studies as an independent aspect of art historical research that is a branch or bud of the larger family of art history The volume respects highlights and celebrates the distinctiveness of each methodical approach recognizing its contribution to the overall character or w of African art studies The book will be of interest to students in undergraduate or graduate intermediate or advanced courses as well as scholars in art history and African studies Take the Compass Maureen Hynes, 2023-09-15 take the harp take the Fitbit and the Band Aid box Fold the whole grey sheet of sky lumpy and unalluring into your rucksack A strong theme of journeys is threaded through Take the Compass In a sense every poem is itself a journey into the past or the present or toward what we hope and fear for the future Poems can be journeys of repair and recovery adventure and discovery However even in pandemic times when our journeying is curtailed or at least confined when we are abiding in one physical location with chafing and restiveness we are still travelling One of those journeys is discovering where language can take us Maureen Hynes's poems travel through cities and their outskirts to rivers forests and graveyards They travel in time into the troubled present across decades into early childhood and into our perilous collective futures seeking guides for these explorations The title poem addresses the search for tools and instruments that will ward off adversity tools to help us move forward to our chosen destinations Take the Compass calls on art and nature as invisible helpers and on uncountable things personal values and traits such as courage to break the bad news into nine living petals As with all her collections Hynes shows a commitment to social justice to acknowledging historical and contemporary inequities to the search for sources of remedy repair and renewal and to the sustaining power of love The variety of poetic forms she has chosen lets this search carry the complexity and seriousness of its themes Puerto Del Sol ,2004

Poetics and Precarity Myung Mi Kim,Cristanne Miller,2018-05-01 Poets and critics address the potential of language to address the increasing level of discord and precarity in the twenty first century At a time when wars acts of terrorism and ecological degradation have intensified and isolationism misogyny and ethnic divisiveness have been given distinctively more powerful voice in public discourse language itself often seems to have failed The poets and critics in this book argue that language has the potential to address this increasing level of discord and precarity and they negotiate ways to understand poetics or the role of the poetic in relation to language the body politic the human body breath the bodies of the natural environment and the body of form Poetry makes urgent issues audible and poetics helps to theorize those issues into critical consciousness Poetry also functions as a cry to protest late capitalist imperialism misogyny racism climate change and all the debilitating conditions of everyday life Hubs of concern merge and diverge precarity takes differently gendered historied embodied geopolitical manifestations The contributors articulate a poetics that renders what has not yet been crystallized as discourse into fields of force They also acknowledge the beauties of sound poetry and music and celebrate the power of community marking the surge of energy that can occur at a particular place at a particular moment Ultimately Poetics and Precarity fosters further conversations that will imagine the concerns of poetics as a continuously emerging field
