Transitional Justice And Peacebuilding On The Ground Victims And Ex Combatants:

Transitional Justice and Peacebuilding on the Ground Chandra Lekha Sriram, 2013 This book seeks to refine our understanding of transitional justice and peacebuilding and long term security and reintegration challenges after violent conflicts As recent events following political change during the so called Arab Spring demonstrate demands for accountability often follow or attend conflict and political transition While traditionally much literature and many practitioners highlighted tensions between peacebuilding and justice recent research and practice demonstrates a turn away from the supposed peace vs justice dilemma This volume examines the complex relationship between peacebuilding and transitional justice through the lenses of the increased emphasis on victim centred approaches to justice and the widespread practices of disarmament demobilization and reintegration DDR of excombatants While recent volumes have sought to address either DDR or victim centred approaches to justice none has sought to make connections between the two much less to place them in the larger context of the increasing linkages between transitional justice and peacebuilding This book will be of great interest to students of transitional justice peacebuilding human rights war and conflict studies security studies and IR

Transitional Justice in Peacebuilding Djeyhoun Ostowar, 2020-11-22 This book explores the role of actors in determining transitional justice in peacebuilding contexts In recent decades transitional justice mechanisms and processes have been introduced to a variety of settings becoming widely regarded as essential elements in the peacebuilding toolbox While it has increasingly been suggested that transitional justice is imposed by neo imperial actors with little regard for the needs and cultures of local populations evidence suggests that dismissing these policies as neo imperial or neo liberal impositions would result in grossly overlooking their dynamics which involve a whole range of relevant actors operating at multiple levels This book interrogates this theme through empirical analysis of three sites of peacebuilding that have seen extensive international involvement Kosovo East Timor and Afghanistan It proposes a novel framework for analysing and approaching transitional justice in peacebuilding that disaggregates three broad sets of actors operating at different levels in relevant processes external actors international and regional levels transitional justice promoters local national international and transnational levels and transitional regimes national and local levels The book argues that transitional justice in peacebuilding must be conceived of as actor contingent and malleable due to the significance of agency and inter actions of key categories of actors throughout peacebuilding transition This book will be of interest to students and practitioners of transitional justice peacebuilding law and International Relations

Transitional Justice Michael Newman, 2019-07-02 What should be done after the end of a repressive regime or a civil war How can bitter divisions be resolved in a way that combines reconciliation with accountability In this book Michael Newman accessibly introduces these debates outlining the key ideas and giving an overview of the vast literature by reference to case studies in such places as South Africa Cambodia and Sierra Leone While recognising that every situation is different he argues that it is vital to contend fully with the past and address the fundamental causes of mass human rights abuses A readable overview for those coming to the subject of transitional justice for the first time and food for thought for those already familiar with it this book is invaluable in areas ranging from politics and international relations to peace and conflict studies law human rights and philosophy Justice Framed Marcos Zunino,2019-03-14 A new perspective on the history of transitional justice and why the discourse prioritises particular responses to human rights violations Research Handbook on Transitional Justice Cheryl Lawther,Luke Moffett,Dov Jacobs,2017-06-30 Providing detailed and comprehensive coverage of the transitional justice field this Research Handbook brings together leading scholars and practitioners to explore how societies deal with mass atrocities after periods of dictatorship or conflict Situating the development of transitional justice in its historical context social and political context it analyses the legal instruments that have emerged Transitional (in)Justice and Enforcing the Peace on Palestine Brendan Ciarán Browne,2023-02-15 This book considers the growing interest in transitional justice practices that take place against the backdrop of ongoing settler colonialism in Palestine By critiquing the role of common top down and bottom up interventions namely truth recovery and international criminal justice the book argues that transitional justice acts as an extension of a deeply flawed peacebuilding process that has been so destructive in Palestine and has a deflating effect when it comes to advancing calls for meaningful decolonisation A radicalisation of transitional justice that takes place in settler colonial contexts one that prioritises conversations around meaningful decolonisation is therefore required The book will appeal to those with an interest in peacebuilding conflict transformation and transitional justice Netherlands Yearbook of International Law 2022 Otto Spijkers,Julie Fraser,Emmanuel Giakoumakis,2025-04-04 This book on international law explores the ways in which traditional forms of reparation restitution compensation and satisfaction have been re interpreted since the rendering of the landmark Factory at Chorz w judgment in 1928 of the Permanent Court of International Justice It examines how the concept of reparations has developed in international law and evolved to reflect broader community values like human rights as well as criminal and transitional justice Contributions to this year s volume of the Netherlands Yearbook of International Law examine the ways in which reparation has been understood in the jurisprudence of various courts and jurisdictions including the International Court of Justice the International Criminal Court and the UN human rights treaty body system Several regional or internationalised bodies are also examined including the Inter American and European Courts of Human Rights and the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia The volume includes chapters focusing on recent efforts to repair historical wrongs such as reparations for colonial times dictatorial oppression and failed peacekeeping missions and the ways in which the legal principle of reparation has been conceptualised in support of these claims The book illustrates the shift of reparations from a largely state centric approach concerned with financial compensation to a more victim centred one that encompasses a diverse range of reparative measures Despite this positive shift multiple complex obstacles remain in the way of victims realising their right to reparation including limited financial

Lamont, 2019-01-10 Since the 1980s transitional justice mechanisms have been increasingly applied to account for mass atrocities and grave human rights violations throughout the world Over time post conflict justice practices have expanded across continents and state borders and have fueled the creation of new ideas that go beyond traditional notions of amnesty retribution and reconciliation Gathering work from contributors in international law political science sociology and history New Critical Spaces in Transitional Justice addresses issues of space and time in transitional justice studies It explains new trends in responses to post conflict and post authoritarian nations and offers original empirical research to help define the field for the future The Routledge Handbook of International Crime and Justice Studies Bruce Arrigo, Heather Bersot, 2013-08-15 This book presents the enduring debates and emerging challenges in crime and justice studies from an international and multi disciplinary perspective Victims of International Crimes: An Interdisciplinary Discourse Thorsten Bonacker, Christoph Safferling, 2013-07-09 In international law victims issues have gained more and more attention over the last decades In particular in transitional justice processes the victim is being given high priority It is to be seen in this context that the Rome Statute for the International Criminal Court foresees a rather excessive victim participation concept in criminal prosecution In this volume issue is taken at first with the definition of victims and secondly with the role of the victim as a witness and as a participant Several chapters address this matter with a view to the International Criminal Court ICC the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia ECCC and the Trial against Demjanjuk in Germany In a third part the interests of the victims outside the criminal trial are being discussed In the final part the role of civil society actors are being tackled This volume thus gives an overview of the role of victims in transitional justice processes from an interdisciplinary angle combining academic research and practical experience Knowledge Production in and on Africa Hana Horáková, Katerina Werkman, 2016 The book presents a broad and multi dimensional perspective on the topic of knowledge production in and of Africa and seeks changing its post imperial pattern This endeavour reflects the concern that in our globalised world Africa is misrepresented twice by the ways knowledge about it is selected by gatekeepers of knowledge and by deliberate suppression of knowledge on Africa The contributions to this volume address diverse aspects of knowledge production they examine the existing knowledge producing frontiers in Africa they challenge methodological and theoretical universalisms in social science scholarship on the African continent they look into the interface between the indigenous and modern knowledge systems and the role of African epistemologies and intellectuals in the production of knowledge An Introduction to Transitional Justice Olivera Simić, 2020-07-30 The Second Edition of An Introduction to

Responding to a diplomatic stalemate and a catastrophic humanitarian crisis Yemen's civil actors work every day to build peace in fragmented local communities across the country This book shows how their efforts relate to longstanding justice demands in Yemeni society and details three decades of alternating elite indifference toward or strategic engagement with questions of justice Exploring the transformative impact of the 2011 uprising and Yemenis substantive wrestling with questions of justice in the years that followed leading Yemen scholar Stacey Philbrick Yadav shows how the transitional process was ultimately overtaken by war and explains why features of the transitional framework nevertheless remain a central reference point for civil actors engaged in peacebuilding today In the absence of a negotiated settlement everyday peacebuilding has become a new site for justice work as an arena in which civil actors enjoy agency and social recognition Drawing on seventeen years of field research and interviews with civil actors Yadav positions Yemen's non combatants not or not only as victims of conflict but as political agents imagining and enacting the justice they wish to see Just Security in an Undergoverned World William J. Durch,Joris Larik,Richard Ponzio,2018 Just Security in an Undergoverned World examines how humankind can manage global problems to achieve both security and justice in an age of antithesis Global connectivity is increasing visibly and invisibly in trade finance culture and information helping to spur economic growth technological advance and greater understanding and freedom but global disconnects are growing as well Ubiquitous electronics rely on high value minerals scraped from the earth by miners kept poor by corruption and war People abandon burning states for the often indifferent welcome of wealthier lands whose people in turn draw into themselves Humanity's very success underwritten in large part by lighting up gigatons of long buried carbon for 200 years now threatens humanity's future The global governance institutions established after World War Two to manage global threats especially the twin scourges of war and poverty have expanded in reach and impact while paradoxically losing the political support of their wealthiest and most powerful members Their problems mimic those of their members in struggling to adapt to new problems and maintain trust in institutions This volume argues however that a properly mandated managed and modernized global architecture offers unparalleled potential to midwife solutions to vexing issues that transcend borders and capacities of individual actors from conflict and climate change to poverty and pandemic disease The volume offers just security as a new framework for evaluating innovative solutions and strategies for institutional reform Truth, Justice and Reconciliation in

Colombia Fabio Andres Diaz Pabon, 2018-05-11 The signing of the peace agreements between the FARC EP and the Colombian Government in late November 2016 has generated new prospects for peace in Colombia opening the possibility of redressing the harm inflicted on Colombians by Colombians Talking about peace and transitional justice requires us to think about how to operationalize peace agreements to promote justice and coexistence for peace This volume brings together reflections by Colombian academics and practitioners alongside pieces provided by researchers and practitioners in other countries where transitional justice initiatives have taken place Bosnia and Herzegovina South Africa Sri Lanka and Peru This volume has been written in the south by the south for the south The book engages with the challenges ahead for the coming generations of Colombians Rivers of ink have dealt with the end goals of transitional justice but victims require us to take the quest for human rights beyond the normative realm of theorizing justice and into the practical realm of engaging how to implement justice initiatives The tension between theory the legislative frameworks guaranteeing human rights and practice the realization of these ideas will frame Colombia's success or failure in consolidating the implementation of the peace agreements with the FARC EP

The Concept of the Civilian Claire Garbett, 2015-01-09 The Concept of the Civilian Legal Recognition Adjudication and the Trials of International Criminal Justice offers a critical account of the legal shaping of civilian identities by the processes of international criminal justice It draws on a detailed case study of the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia to explore two key issues central to these justice processes first how to understand civilians as a social and legal category of persons and second how legal practices shape victims identities and redress in relation to these persons Integrating socio legal concepts and methodologies with insights from transitional justice scholarship Claire Garbett traces the historical emergence of the concept of the civilian and critically examines how the different stages of legal proceedings produce its conceptual form in distinction from that of combatants This book shows that the very notions of civilian protection and redress that underpin current practices of international criminal justice continue to evoke both definitional difficulties and analytic contestation Using a unique interdisciplinary approach the author provides a critical analysis of the relationship between mechanisms of transitional justice and civilians that will be of interest to scholars and students in the fields of transitional justice sociology law politics and human rights

Reparations and War Luke Moffett,2023 For thousands of years reparations have been used to alleviate the devastating consequences of war More recently human rights law has established that victims have a right to reparations Yet in the face of conflicts that last for decades with millions of victims how feasible it is to deliver reparations And what are the obstacles

Reclaiming Everyday Peace Pamina Firchow,2018-09-20 Introduces the Everyday Peace Indicators as a measurement diagnostic and evaluation tool and makes an argument for its utility in conflict affected contexts Thin Sympathy Joanna R. Quinn,2021-05-28 Transitional justice commonly defined as the process of confronting the legacies of past human rights abuses and atrocities often does not produce the kinds of results that are imagined In multiethnic divided societies like Uganda people who have not been directly affected by harm atrocity and abuse go about their daily lives without ever confronting what happened in the past When victims and survivors raise their voices to ask for help or when plans are announced to address that harm it is this unaffected population that see such plans as pointless They complain about what they perceive as the needless time and money that will be spent to fix something that they see as unimportant and ultimately block any restorative processes Joanna R Quinn spent twenty years working in Uganda and uses its particular case as a lens through which she examines the failure of deeply divided societies to acknowledge the past She proposes that the needed remedy is the development of a very rudimentary understanding what she calls thin sympathy among individuals in each of the different factions and groups of the other s suffering prior to establishing any transitional justice process Based on 440 extensive interviews with elites and other thought leaders in government traditional institutions faith groups and NGOs as well as with women and children throughout the country Thin Sympathy argues that the acquisition of a basic understanding of what has taken place in the past will enable the development of a more durable transitional justice process
