Forecasting for Executives and Professionals Stephan Kolassa, Bahman Rostami-Tabar, Enno Siemsen, 2023-09-29 This book surveys what executives who make decisions based on forecasts and professionals responsible for forecasts should know about forecasting. It discusses how individuals and firms should think about forecasting and guidelines for good practices. It introduces readers to the subject of time series, presents basic and advanced forecasting models from exponential smoothing across ARIMA to modern Machine Learning methods, and examines human judgment's role in interpreting numbers and identifying forecasting errors and how it should be integrated into organizations. This is a great book to start learning about forecasting if you are new to the area or have some preliminary exposure to forecasting. Whether you are a practitioner either in a role managing a forecasting team or at operationally involved in demand planning, a software designer, a student, or an academic teaching business analytics, operational research, or operations management courses, the book can inspire you to rethink demand forecasting. No prior knowledge of higher mathematics, statistics, operations research, or forecasting is assumed in this book. It is designed to serve as a first introduction to the non-expert who needs to be familiar with the broad outlines of forecasting without specializing in it. This may include a manager overseeing a forecasting group or a student enrolled in an MBA program, an executive education course, or programs not specializing in analytics. Worked examples accompany the key formulae to show how they can be implemented. Key Features While there are many books about forecasting technique, very few are published targeting managers. This book fills that gap. It provides the right balance between explaining the importance of demand forecasting and providing enough information to allow a busy manager to read a book and learn something that can be directly used in practice. It provides key takeaways that will help managers to make difference in their companies.

An automobile, usually called a car, an old word for carriage, or a truck, is a wheeled vehicle that carries its own engine. Older terms include horseless carriage and motor car, with motor referring to what is now usually called the engine. It has seats for the driver and almost without exception for at least one passenger. The automobile was hailed as an environmental improvement over horses when it was first introduced. Before its introduction in New York City, over 10 000 tons of manure had to be removed from the streets daily. However, in 2006, the automobile is one of the primary sources of worldwide air pollution and cause of substantial noise and health effects.

Market Expansion and Social Dumping in Europe

Magdalena Bernaciak, 2015-06-05 The term social dumping regularly appears in public debates and in policymaking circles. However, due to its ambiguity, it is used in a manner that is convenient for individual discourse participants, thus opening the door for misconceptions and ill-grounded accusations. This book systematically examines social dumping in the context of the European integration process. It defines social dumping as the practice undertaken by self-interested market participants of undermining or evading existing social regulations with the aim of gaining a competitive advantage. It also shows how the two major EU integration projects, the creation of the Internal Market and EU enlargement to the east and to the south, have provided market actors with new incentives and opportunities to contest existing social constraints. The empirical chapters examine social dumping practices accompanying labour migration, employee posting, and cross-border investment distribution. In addition, they outline the process of formation of social standards and trace initiatives at EU and national levels that contribute to the spread of social dumping in Europe. This book will be of interest to scholars and students of employment relations, EU studies, international political economy, globalisation studies, welfare studies, social policy, and migration studies.
