Thirsty William Mulholland California Water And The Real Chinatown:

Thirsty Marc Weingarten, 2015-10 An exploration of Los Angeles storied history in regards to water Starting with William Mulholland and his aqueducts through the 1926 collapse of the St Francis Dam which killed hundreds and on through to the profound implications Los Angeles path has for today Where Marc Reiser's seminal 1986 book Cadillac Desert started Marc Weingarten's Thirsty continues Illuminating the complexities of the Los Angeles aqueduct system the politics behind supplying America's second largest city with water from hundreds of mile away and the disaster that haunted William Mulholland until his final days Publisher's description Those Kids Deserve Water Too: A History of the Patoka Lake

Regional Water and Sewer District David L. Dahl, 2019-06-10 Fifty years ago as America sent men to the moon thousands in southern Indiana relied on water supplies little changed from pioneer days cisterns or shallow wells often poor in quality high in sulfur or otherwise contaminated During droughts when tanks ran dry and wells failed water for drinking cooking and bathing was trucked from springs or nearby towns For decades local leaders struggled to quench their communities thirst In 1975 that all changed with the creation of the Patoka Lake Regional Water and Sewer District which provides drinking water to thirty three water utilities and thousands of residential and commercial customers scattered across eleven counties in southwestern Indiana an area that uniquely lacked readily available water A new generation has grown accustomed to a ready supply of clean water In Those Kids Deserve Water Too author David L Dahl tells how the district changed life for thousands of Hoosiers

The Metaphysical City Rob Sullivan, 2019-01-15 The Metaphysical City examines the metaphorical existence of the city as an entity to further understand its significance on urban planning and geography It encourages an open minded approach when studying cities so as to uncover broader connecting themes that may otherwise be missed Case studies of New York Paris Cairo Mumbai Tokyo and Los Angeles explore a metaphor specific to each city This multidisciplinary analysis uses philosophical treatises geographical analysis and comparative literature to uncover how each city corresponds to the metaphor As such it allows the reader to understand the city from six differing points of view This book would be beneficial to students and academics of urban planning geography and comparative literature in particular those with an interest in a metaphysical examination of cities

Water and Los Angeles William Deverell, Tom Sitton, 2017 A free ebook version of this title is available through Luminos University of California Press's Open Access publishing program for monographs Visit www.luminosoa.org to learn more Los Angeles rose to significance in the first half of the twentieth century by way of its complex relationship to three rivers the Los Angeles the Owens and the Colorado The remarkable urban and suburban trajectory of southern California since then cannot be fully understood without reference to the ways in which each of these three river systems came to be connected to the future of the metropolitan region This history of growth must be understood in full consideration of all three rivers and the challenges and opportunities they presented to those who would come to make Los Angeles a global power Full of primary sources and original documents

William Mulholland and the Rise of Los Angeles, 2000 William Mulholland presided over the creation of a water system that forever changed the course of southern California's history Mulholland a self taught engineer was the chief architect of the Owens Valley Aqueduct a project ranking in magnitude and daring with the Panama Canal that brought water to semi arid Los Angeles from the lush Owens Valley

Oakland's Chinatown William Wong, 2004 Oakland's Chinatown has a history every bit as compelling as its more famous neighbor across San Francisco Bay Chinese have been a presence in Oakland since the 1850s bringing with them a rich and complex tradition that survived legalized discrimination that lingered until the 1950s Once confined to a small area of downtown where restaurants stir fried laundries steamed and vegetable stands crowded the sidewalks Chinese gradually moved out into every area of Oakland and the stands evolved into corner groceries that cemented entire neighborhoods Chinese helped Oakland grow into a modern business and cultural center and have gained prominence in every aspect of the city's commerce politics and arts

Longtime Californ' Victor Nee, Brett de Bary Nee, 1981 Chinatown Declared a Nuisance!, 1880 Performing Chinatown William Gow, 2024-05-14 In 1938 China City opened near downtown Los Angeles Featuring a recreation of the House of Wang set from MGM's The Good Earth this new Chinatown employed many of the same Chinese Americans who performed as background extras in the 1937 film Chinatown and Hollywood represented the two primary sites where Chinese Americans performed racial difference for popular audiences during the Chinese exclusion era In Performing Chinatown historian William Gow argues that Chinese Americans in Los Angeles used these performances in Hollywood films and in Chinatown for tourists to shape widely held understandings of race and national belonging during this pivotal chapter in U S history Performing Chinatown conceives of these racial representations as intimately connected to the restrictive immigration laws that limited Chinese entry into the U S beginning with the 1875 Page Act and continuing until the passage of the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1965 At the heart of this argument are the voices of everyday people including Chinese American movie extras street performers and merchants Drawing on more than 40 oral history interviews as well as research in more than a dozen archival and family collections this book retells the long overlooked history of the ways that

Los Angeles Chinatown shaped Hollywood and how Hollywood in turn shaped perceptions of Asian American identity

Longtime Californ' Victor Nee, Brett De Bary, 2014-10-29 Beginning with the immigrants who left poverty ridden villages in China to try for a better livelihood in America the narratives and extensive interviews of Longtime Californ tell the true story of the Chinese in America A young Chinese girl tells of being sold into slavery brought to America and rescued by a missionary men of Chinatown recall the awful conditions and long waits on Angel Island before being allowed into the country and remember the backbreaking experience of building the railroads that opened the West The young Chinese are also here some are angry and frustrated spending their time on street corners and in gang fights other are Marxist radicals trying to create social political and economic change in Chinatown ghetto And there are the workers who go back and forth each day to the garment factories and the shops each with his or her own story to tell each contributing his or her share to the country that is San Francisco Chinatown Throughout these and other stories the intricate patterns of Chinese life emerge as Chinese traditions and American customs combine to create the unique experience of Chinese Americas Longtime Californ goes beyond the hand laundries and restaurants with which Americans often associate the Chinese and unveils the secret societies the powerful family associations and the daily lives of the people of Chinatown Lights and Shadows of

Chinatown William Walter Bode, 1896 Marysville's Chinatown Brian Tom, Lawrence Tom, Chinese American Museum of Northern Cali, 2008-10-01 Marysville's Chinatown was once one of the most important Chinatowns in America The early Chinese settlers called Marysville Sanfow or the third city meaning the third city by river to the goldfields Two of the first four Chinese American judges in California were from Marysville as was the first Chinese American elected to the San Francisco Board of Education The Marysville Chinatown was among the first Chinatowns built in California's Gold Country and is the only one to survive to this day Because of this it is possible to view the full panorama of Chinese American history through the viewpoint of this one Chinatown Chinatown in Los Angeles Jenny Cho, Chinese Historical Society of Southern C, 2009-05 The history of Chinatown in Los Angeles is as vibrant as the city itself In 1850 the U S Census recorded only two Chinese men in Los Angeles who worked as domestic servants During the second half of the 19th century a Chinese settlement developed around the present day El Pueblo de Los Angeles Historical Monument Chinese Americans persevered against violence racism housing discrimination exclusion laws unfair taxation and physical displacement to create better lives for future generations When Old Chinatown was demolished to make way for Union Station community leader Peter SooHoo Sr and other Chinese Americans spearheaded the effort to build New Chinatown with the open air Central Plaza Unlike other Chinese enclaves in the United States New Chinatown was owned and planned from its inception by Chinese Americans New Chinatown celebrated its grand opening with dignitaries celebrities community members and a dedication by California governor Frank Merriam on June 25 1938 Sacramento's Chinatown Lawrence Tom, Brian Tom, Chinese American Museum of Northern Cali, 2010-05 Sacramento's Chinatown has played a central role in the history of the Chinese in America

since the Gold Rush It was named Yee Fow Second City by the early Chinese pioneers because it was the second stop by steamboat on the way to the gold country In the 1960s Sacramento s Chinatown one of the oldest Chinatowns in America was largely torn down by redevelopment but today Chinese Americans in the capital city are planning a Yee Fow Center for History Culture and Trade as they seek to remember the past and look to the future Chinatown Gary D. Libecap,2014 In this Article I examine the notorious Owens Valley water transfer to Los Angeles Not only was it one of the largest private water exchanges in U S history but it remains pivotal in the political economy of western water reallocation It involved negotiations over land and water rights between representatives of the city of Los Angeles and approximately eighteen hundred farmers and town lot owners between 1905 and 1935 By 1935 Los Angeles had acquired 95 percent of the farm acreage and 88 percent of the town properties in the valley The water transferred from Owens Valley a marginal agricultural area made possible the growth of Los Angeles and Owens Valley remains the largest single source of water for the Los Angeles Basin Yet the Owens Valley transfer has a very negative legacy and has hindered subsequent efforts to reallocate water from agriculture to urban and environmental uses The negotiations for water rights and land took thirty years to complete and were often acrimonious I analyze the negotiations between representatives of Los Angeles and Owens Valley farmers to determine the sources of bargaining conflicts I also evaluate the economic impact of the exchange on both parties to show that each party was made substantially better off Yet the notion of theft remains To explain this I examine the distribution of the economic benefits of the water and land sale Distributional issues take on greater importance when there are valuation disputes and the gains from trade are shared very unequally With these insights I conclude with lessons for contemporary western water reallocation Chinatown Neill Compton Wilson,William Wilke,Kennedy-TenBosch Company,1928
