Injustice examines the mobilization efforts of communities and environmental organizations in response to the construction of a cross country oil pipeline in Ecuador. Local mobilization efforts gave rise to the establishment of two transnational campaigns: one of opposition and one of negotiation, which emphasized calls for greater conservation while diluting local demands for environmental justice and community participation in national and global decisions. These Ecuadorian cases suggest that the majority of community activists and NGOs, alongside their transnational advocates, were forced to seek local change rather than attempt to defeat a global unequal and disabling system. In his twenty-two years as an Illinois congressman and in the years since he left office, Paul Findley has fought to eradicate famine, end wars, and eliminate bigotry in U.S. foreign policy. This sweeping political memoir opens with Findley's early days in rural Pittsfield, Illinois, and chronicles his service during six administrations in Washington. His many accomplishments in Congress include authoring the Famine Prevention Act, coauthoring the 1973 War Powers Resolution, leading agricultural trade missions to the Soviet Union and China, and strongly opposing the Vietnam War. This autobiography is also a no-holds-barred critique of Israel's lobby and its toll on the national interests of the United States. Few politicians are so openly critical of their government, and Findley's opinions on what he believes to be disastrous foreign policy provide a unique behind-the-scenes perspective on the shaping of these policies in the latter half of the twentieth century. Annual Report of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System Covering Operations for the Year ... Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (U.S.), 1918.
