Inventing Stanley Park Sean Kheraj,2013-05-15 In early December 2006 a powerful windstorm ripped through Vancouver s Stanley Park The storm transformed the city s most treasured landmark into a tangle of splintered trees and shattered a decades old vision of the park as timeless virgin wilderness In Inventing Stanley Park Sean Kheraj traces how the tension between popular expectations of idealized nature and the volatility of complex ecosystems helped transform the landscape of one of the world s most famous urban parks This beautifully illustrated book not only depicts the natural and cultural forces that shaped the park s landscape it also examines the roots of our complex relationship with nature The factory in a garden Helena Chance,2017-02-28 When we think about Victorian factories Dark Satanic Mills might spring to mind images of blackened buildings and exhausted exploited workers struggling in unhealthy and ungodly conditions But for some employees this image was far from the truth and this is the subject of The Factory in a Garden which traces the history of a factory gardens movement from its late eighteenth century beginnings in Britain to its twenty first century equivalent in Google s vegetable gardens at their headquarters in California The book is the first study of its kind examining the development of parks gardens and outdoor leisure facilities for factories in Britain and America as a model for the reshaping of the corporate environment in the twenty first century This is also the first book to give a comprehensive account of the contribution of gardens gardening and recreation to the history of responsible capitalism and ethical working practices

Magnificent Gardens Roderick Floud,2021-06-15 An altogether different kind of book on English gardens the first of its kind a look at the history of England's magnificent gardens as a history of Britain itself from the seventeenth century gardens of Charles II to those of Prince Charles today In this rich revelatory history Sir Roderick Froud one of Britain's preeminent economic historians writes that gardens have been created in Britain since Roman times but that their true growth began in the seventeenth century by the eighteenth century nurseries in London took up 100 acres with ten million plants that were worth more than all of the nurseries in France combined Froud's book takes us through more than three centuries of English history as he writes of the kings queens and princes whose garden obsessions changed the landscape of England itself from Stuart Georgian and Victorian England to today's Windsors Here are William and Mary who brought Dutch gardens and bulbs to Britain William who twice had his entire garden lowered in order to see the river from his apartments and his successor Queen Anne who like many others since vowed to spend little on her gardens and instead spent millions Froud also writes of Frederick Prince of Wales the founder of Kew Gardens who spent more than 40 000 on a single twenty five foot tulip tree for Carlton House Queen Victoria who built the largest most advanced and most efficient kitchen garden in Britain and Prince Charles who created and designed the gardens of Highgrove inspired by his boyhood memories of his grandmother's gardens We see Sarah Duchess of Marlborough who created a magnificent garden at Blenheim Palace only to tear it apart and build a greater one Deborah Duchess of Devonshire the savior of Chatsworth's 100 acre garden in the midst of its 35 000 acres and the gardens of lesser mortals among them Gertrude Jekyll and Vita Sackville West both notable garden designers and writers We see the designers of royal estates among them Henry Wise William Kent Humphrey Repton and the greatest of all English gardeners Capability Brown who created the 150 acre lake of Blenheim Palace earned millions annually and designed more than 170 parks many still in existence today We learn how gardening became a major catalyst for innovation central heating came from experiments to heat greenhouses with hot water pipes how the new iron industry of industrializing Britain supplied a myriad of tools mowers pumps and the boilers that heated the greenhouses and finally Froud explores how gardening became an enormous industry as well as an art form in Britain and by the nineteenth century was unrivaled anywhere in the world Landscape Architecture: A Very Short Introduction Ian Thompson, 2014-05-29
