An Army Transformed Suzanne C. Nielsen, 2010 During the 2 decades preceding the Persian Gulf War in 1991 the U S Army went through tremendous reform and rejuvenation In explaining this important case of military change this paper makes four central arguments First leaders within military organizations are essential external developments most often have an indeterminate impact on military change Second military reform is about more than changing doctrine To implement its doctrine an organization must have appropriate training practices personnel policies organizations equipment and leader development programs Third the implementation of comprehensive change requires an organizational entity with broad authority able to craft evaluate and execute an integrated program of reforms In the case of the U S Army in the 1970s and 1980s this organization was the U S Army Training and Doctrine Command TRADOC To an unprecedented degree TRADOC was able to ensure that changes in personnel policies organizations doctrine training practices and equipment were integrated and mutually reinforcing Fourth and finally the process of developing implementing and institutionalizing complementary reforms can take several decades While today s demands differ from those of the past this report suggests questions that may be useful in thinking about change today Knowing the answers to these questions would enable informed judgment about the prospects for the successful implementation of a program of reforms The consequences for good or for ill could be quite significant in terms of resources lives and the national interest New Roles of Military Forces Bertel Heurlin, 2003 Records of Civilization, Sources and Studies , 1920 Colburn's United Service Magazine and Naval Military Journal , 1871 Military Expenditure and Arms Trade Nancy Happe, John Wakeman-Linn, 1994 Colburn's United Service Magazine and Naval and Military Journal , 1871 Introduction to the American Official Sources for the Economic and Social History of the World War Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.
