The Straits Of Malacca Gateway Or Gauntlet:

Straits of Malacca Donald B. Freeman, 2003 For centuries the Straits of Malacca a narrow waterway between the Malay peninsula and the island of Sumatra has been both a major conduit for long distance trade between Asia and the West and one of the most dangerous areas for commercial shipping Casting a broad net across several disciplines particularly geography and political economy Donald Freeman examines the significance of the Straits as both a trade gateway and a choke point that has forced generations of sailors to run the gauntlet Rather than the more conventional historical narrative approach he offers an innovative adoption of an interdisciplinary analytical perspective through his use of detailed case studies of trading systems and shipping hazards

Global Responses to Maritime Violence Paul Shemella, 2016-04-13 Global Responses to Maritime Violence is a full discussion of maritime security short of war that goes beyond the current literature in both scope and perspective The chapters in this volume examine terrorism piracy armed robbery at sea illegal maritime trafficking illegal fishing and other maritime crimes Contributors uncover both threats and responses as a complex ecosystem that challenges even the strongest national and regional institutions Managing this system is a wicked problem that has no ultimate solution But the book offers strategic precepts to guide the efforts of any government that seeks to improve its responses to maritime violence The bottom line is that maritime violence can be managed effectively enough to protect citizens and national economies that depend on the sea Comprehensive in scope the volume coheres around the premise that good governance in the maritime domain though difficult is worth the considerable resources required

Negotiating Abolition Shawna Herzog, 2020-12-10 Negotiating Abolition The Antislavery Project in the British Straits Settlements 1786 1843 explores how sex and gender complicated the enforcement of colonial anti slavery policies in the region the challenges local officials faced in identifying slave populations and how European reclassification of slave labor to systems of indenture or free labor created a new illicit trade for women and girls to the Straits Settlements of Southeast Asia Through a history of early 19th century slavery and abolition in this often overlooked region in British imperial history Herzog bridges a historiographical gap between colonial and modern slave systems She discusses the dynamic intersectionality between perceptions of race class gender and civilization within the Straits and how this informed behavior and policy regarding slavery abolition and prostitution within the settlement This book provides an important new perspective for scholars of slavery interested in Southeast Asia British imperialism in the Indian Ocean world and Asia the East India Company in the Straits and gender and sexuality in the context of empire
