The Subject Of Childhood Rethinking Childhood:

Rethinking Childhood Peter B. Pufall, Richard P. Unsworth, 2004 Being a child in American society can be problematic In Rethinking Childhood 20 contributors from such disciplines as anthropology government education and religion provide a multidisciplinary view of childhood by listening and understanding the ways children shape their own futures Rethinking Childhood Peter B. Pufall, Richard P. Unsworth, 2003-11-21 Being a child in American society can be problematic Twenty percent of American children live in poverty parents are divorcing at high rates and educational institutions are not always fulfilling their goals Against this backdrop children are often patronized or idealized by adults Rarely do we look for the strengths within children that can serve as the foundation for growth and development In Rethinking Childhood twenty contributors coming from the disciplines of anthropology government law psychology education religion philosophy and sociology provide a multidisciplinary view of childhood by listening and understanding the ways children shape their own futures Topics include education poverty family life divorce neighborhood life sports the internet and legal status In all these areas children have both voice and agency They construct their own social networks and social reality sort out their own values and assess and cope with the perplexing world around them The contributors present ideas that lead not only to new analyses but also to innovative policy applications Taken together these essays develop a new paradigm for understanding childhood as children experience these years This paradigm challenges readers to develop fresh ways of listening to children s voices that enable both children and adults to cross the barriers of age experience and stereotyping that make communication difficult A volume in the Rutgers Series in Childhood Studies edited by Myra Bluebond Langner The Subject of Childhood Michael O'Loughlin, 2009 The Subject of Childhood is a collection of essays on early childhood education childhood studies that brings critical psychological psychoanalytic and cultural studies perspectives to bear on understanding the lives children live Central concerns running through these essays are the emergence of subjectivity in the child the complexity of conceptualizing the relationship between external cultural and social forces and the internal sense of agency that we know that each child possesses Together the volume is a blending of interdisciplinary theoretical writing personal autobiographical inquiry and concrete examples from the author s work with teachers in schools and from his clinical practice as a child psychoanalyst Written for advanced undergraduate and graduate students and professionals across the English speaking world in early childhood education childhood education educational foundations and cultural studies in education this book functions as a core text for advanced undergraduate and graduate courses in child development child psychology sociology of education childhood studies and early childhood education The Children's Table Anna Mae Duane, 2013-06-01 This collection brings together an eclectic range of prominent scholars in architecture education history law literary criticism and cultural studies to explore how the field of childhood studies questions some of the most basic tenets of humanities scholarship and to consider how these questions can bridge disciplines Each essay pairs childhood studies with another field of inquiry to ask explicitly how foregrounding the child reorients long established scholarly foundations in that field Childhood studies insistence that we need to rethink the symbolic work of the child necessarily realigns a host of other fields that often uncritically draw upon the false dichotomy separating the vulnerable dependent child from the allegedly independent and autonomous adult By complicating our assumptions about the child we are also providing a new way of thinking through some of the most basic tenets of the humanities Anna Mae Duane notes that much of the exciting work in the humanities seeks to recover the voices of those who have been infantilized including women people of color and the GLBT community This volume features thirteen essays by leading scholars who reveal how childhood studies offers a vital methodological and theoretical roadmap for engaging issues that are among the most important and provocative in the humanities the recovery of colonized voices the definition of agency the performance of identity and the construction of gender and race to name a few Each of the essays seeks to understand how rhetorical views of childhood shape views of power politics knowledge and sociality

Young Children Becoming Curriculum Marg Sellers, 2013-07-31 This book contests a tradition and convention in educational thinking that dichotomises children and curriculum by developing the notion of reconceiving children in curriculum By presenting an innovative research project in which she worked with children to share their understandings of the internationally renowned Te Whāriki curriculum Marg Sellers explores what the curriculum means to children and how it works as demonstrated in games they played In generating different ways for thinking the author draws upon her work with the philosophical imaginaries of Gilles Deleuze and Felix Guattari whose ideas shape both the content and the non linear structure of this book Topics covered include Rhizomes rhizo methodology and rhizoanalysis Plateaus De-territorialising lines of flight Dynamic spaces The notion of empowerment This assemblage of Deleuzo-Guattarian imaginaries generates ways for thinking differently about children's complex interrelationships with curriculum and opens possibilities for reconceiving both reconceiving and receiving children's understandings within adult conceptions of how curriculum works for young children This book will be of interest to early childhood students scholars and practitioners alike also appealing to those interested in philosophical theoretical and practical understandings of curriculum in general
