Research in Education, 1974 Guide to Advanced Empirical Software Engineering Forrest Shull, Janice Singer, Dag I. K. Sjøberg, 2007-11-21 Empirical studies have become an important part of software engineering research and practice Ten years ago it was rare to see a conference or journal article about a software development tool or process that had empirical data to back up the claims Today in contrast it is becoming more and more common that software engineering conferences and journals are not only publishing but eliciting articles that describe a study or evaluation Moreover a very successful conference International Symposium on Empirical Software Engineering and Measurement journal Empirical Software Engineering and organization International Software Engineering Research Network have all evolved in the last 10 years that focus solely on this area As a further illustration of the growth of empirical software engineering a search in the articles of 10 software engineering journals showed that the proportion of articles that used the term empirical software engineering doubled from about 6% in 1997 to about 12% in 2006 While empirical software engineering has seen such substantial growth there is not yet a reference book that describes advanced techniques for running studies and their application This book aims to fill that gap The chapters are written by some of the top international empirical software engineering researchers and focus on the practical knowledge necessary for conducting reporting and using empirical methods in software engineering The book is intended to serve as a standard reference Farmers' Attitudes and Adoption of Improved Maize Varieties and Chemical Fertilizers in the Manica District, Mozambique Eunice Paula Armando Cavane, 2007 Online Panel Research Mario Callegaro, Reginald P. Baker, Jelke Bethlehem, Anja S. Göritz, Jon A. Krosnick, Paul J. Lavrakas, 2014-04-14 Provides new insights into the accuracy and value of online panels for completing surveys Over the last decade there has been a major global shift in survey and market research towards data collection using samples selected from online panels Yet despite their widespread use remarkably little is known about the quality of the resulting data This edited volume is one of the first attempts to carefully examine the quality of the survey data being generated by online samples It describes some of the best empirically based research on what has become a very important yet controversial method of collecting data Online Panel Research presents 19 chapters of previously unpublished work addressing a wide range of topics including coverage bias nonresponse measurement error adjustment techniques the relationship between nonresponse and measurement error impact of smartphone adoption on data collection Internet rating panels and operational issues The datasets used to prepare the analyses reported in the chapters are available on the accompanying website www.wiley.com/go/online_panel Covers controversial topics such as professional respondents speeders and respondent validation Addresses cutting edge topics such as the challenge of smartphone survey completion software to manage online panels and Internet and mobile ratings panels Discusses and provides examples of comparison studies between online panels and other surveys or benchmarks Describes adjustment techniques to improve sample representativeness Addresses coverage nonresponse attrition and the relationship between nonresponse and measurement error with examples using data from the United States and Europe Addresses practical questions such as motivations for joining an online panel and best practices for managing communications with panelists Presents a meta analysis of determinants of response quantity Features contributions from 50 international authors with a wide variety of backgrounds and expertise This book will be an invaluable resource for opinion and market researchers academic researchers relying on web based data collection governmental researchers statisticians psychologists sociologists and other research practitioners
