Wooden Fish Songs A Novel:

Wooden Fish Songs Ruthanne Lum McCunn, 1995 Lue's story is told by the three women who knew him best. These three voices give a moving multifaceted picture of three very different nineteenth-century women each from different cultures all battling the odds against fulfillment in her own way.

Negotiating Identities Helen Grice, 2002-10-11 Negotiating Identities is a study of the development of writing by Asian American women in the 20th century with particular emphasis on the successful late 20th-century writers such as Maxine Hong Kingston, Amy Tan, Joy Kogawa, Bharati Mukherjee, and Gish Jen. It relates the development of Asian writing by women in America with a comparative element incorporating Britain to a series of theoretical preoccupations: the mother-daughter dyad, biracialism, ethnic histories, citizenship, genre, and the idea of home.

A General History of Chinese Art Xifan Li, 2022-10-03 This volume investigates the artistic development during the Qing Dynasty, the last of imperial Chinese dynasties, and shows the importance of opera and playwriting during this time period. Further analysis is dedicated to the development of scroll painting and the revival of calligraphy and seal carving. A General History of Chinese Art comprises six volumes with a total of nine parts spanning from the Prehistoric Era until the 3rd year of Xuantong during the Qing Dynasty 1911. The work provides a comprehensive compilation of in-depth studies of the development of art throughout the subsequent reign of Chinese dynasties and explores the emergence of a wide range of artistic categories such as, but not limited to, music, dance, acrobatics, singing, story telling, painting, calligraphy, sculpture, architecture, and crafts. Unlike previous reference books, A General History of Chinese Art offers a broader overview of the notion of Chinese art by asserting a more diverse and less material understanding of arts as has often been the case in Western scholarship.

The Book Worlds of East Asia and Europe, 1450-1850 Joseph P. McDermott, Peter Burke, 2015-10-01 This volume provides the first comparative survey of the relations between the two most active book worlds in Eurasia between 1450 and 1850. Prominent scholars in book history explore different approaches to publishing, printing, and book culture. They discuss the extent of technology transfer and book distribution between the two regions and show how much book historians of East Asia and Europe can learn from one another by raising new questions, exploring remarkable similarities and differences in these regions' production, distribution, and consumption of books. The chapters in turn show different ways of writing transnational comparative history. Whereas recent problems confronting research on European books can instruct researchers on East Asian book production, so can the privileged role of noncommercial publications in the East Asian textual record highlight for historians of the European book the singular contribution of commercial printing and market demands to the making of the European printed record Likewise although production growth was accompanied in both regions by a wider distribution of books woodblock technology's simplicity and mobility allowed for a shift in China of its production and distribution sites farther down the hierarchy of urban sites than was common in Europe And the different demands and consumption practices within these two regions expanding markets led to different genre preferences and uses as well as to the growth of distinctive female readerships A substantial introduction pulls the work together and the volume ends with an essay that considers how these historical developments shape the present book worlds of Eurasia This splendid volume offers expert new insight into the ways of producing financing distributing and reading printed books in early modern Europe and East Asia This is comparative history at its best which leaves us with a better understanding of each context and of the challenges common to book cultures across space and time

Ann Blair author of Too Much to Know Managing Scholarly Information before the Modern Age and professor of history Harvard University This engrossing account of the history of the book by leading specialists on the European and East Asian publishing worlds takes stock of what we know and how much we still need to know about the places that books had in the lives of our early modern forebears Each chapter is masterful state of the field coverage of its subject and together they set a new standard for future studies of the book East and West Timothy Brook author of The Troubled Empire China in the Yuan and Ming Dynasties

American Historical Fiction Lynda G. Adamson, 1998-10-21 This publication will fill a gap in the bibliographic reference shelf by identifying historical novels for both adult and young adult readers American Historical Fiction R contains over 3 000 titles set in states and historical regions of the United States Entries are organized by time period The newest titles as well as old favorites are covered The volume is indexed by author title genre subject and geographic setting

The Chinese in Latin America and the Caribbean Walton Look Lai, Chee Beng Tan, 2010 The Chinese migration to the Latin America Caribbean region is an understudied dimension of the Asian American experience There are three distinct periods in the history of this migration the early colonial period pre 19th century when the profitable three century trade connection between Manila and Acapulco led to the first Asian migrations to Mexico and Peru the classic migration period 19th to early twentieth centuries marked by the coolie trade known to Chinese diaspora studies and the renewed immigration of the late 20th century to the present Written by specialists on the Chinese in Latin America and the Caribbean this book tells the story of Asian migration to the Americas and contributes to a more comprehensive understanding of the Chinese in this important part of the world
