The Surreptitious Speech Presence Africaine And The Politics Of Otherness 1947 1987:

The Surreptitious Speech V. Y. Mudimbe, 1992-09 Distinguished scholar V Y Mudimbe assembles a lively tribute to Presence Africaine the landmark African studies journal begun in 1947 Paris While it celebrates the project's forty year history The Surreptitious Speech does not naively canonize the journal but rather offers a vibrant discussion and critical reading of its context characteristics and significance Anticolonial Form Alexandra Reza, 2024-01-24 Anticolonial Form Literary Journals at the End of Empire addresses the relationship between culture and politics in two journals published in Europe by African writers Presence Africaine launched in Paris in 1947 and Mensagem published between 1948 and 1964 in Lisbon Grounded in extensive archival work the book argues for a comparative and transnational approach to postcolonial literary studies for the significance of the literary journal as a key form in the development of African writing in French Portuguese and English and for a historically and geographically contingent understanding of the relationships between literature culture and politics This book takes up the idea of articulation to bring forward the contingent and fugitive connections that networks of literary journals fostered between francophone anglophone and lusophone writers in the conjuncture of decolonization in the 1950s and 1960s It argues that comparison as a praxis and a method was central to the anticolonial charge of those journals on whose pages we see an iterative back and forth between writing from and about different parts of the colonial world a recursive effort to establish how ideas and analyses developed in one part of the colonial world could travel and be adopted and adapted in others Many scholars have argued convincingly that the institutionalized practice of comparison in the academic field of comparative literature is itself imbricated with histories of colonialism Reza's argument takes on a particular significance in the context of that critique as the anticolonial comparison on which she focuses offers a different tradition of relational praxis from which to think about connection and comparison itself Mapping Africa in the English Speaking World Sibonile Edith Ellece, Kemmonye Collete Monaka, Owen S Seda, 2010-10-12 Mapping Africa in the English Speaking World addresses issues of representations of Africa in the English speaking world English has become a global language which has turned the world into a global village and as Graddol 2008 states it is now redefining national and individual identities worldwide shifting political fault lines creating new global patterns of wealth and social exclusion and suggesting new notions of human rights and responsibilities of citizenship This book grapples with the relationship between Africa and the rest of the English speaking world and touches on issues of Euro American misrepresentations of the continent in literary works and films misrepresentations which are nevertheless passed as true and infallible knowledge of Africa marginalization of Africans African languages and culture African scholarship language policy language diglossia African theatre in post colonial Africa identity negotiations in post colonial Africa and relations between gender and language among other issues These issues are bound to stimulate debates on Africa and its representation s in the English speaking world The Cambridge History of Modern European Thought: Volume 2,
