Womens Bodies As Battlefield Christian Theology And The Global War On Women:

Women's Bodies as Battlefield Susan Brooks Thistlethwaite, 2016-02-05 Christian theology has been complicit in justifying the war on women but it also has resources to help finally declare peace in the war on women War itself has come to resemble the war on women and thus strategies to end the war on women supported by new Christian theological interpretations will also help end today's endless wars

A Theology of Women's Bodies as Battlefield Susan Brooks Thistlethwaite, 2015-07-15 This book demonstrates that the war on women is not a metaphor but rather a global pandemic of violence against women that constitutes an actual war with female bodies serving as places of battle The author shows that of the many societal structures that enable both the violence of literal war and violence against women the three most crucial factors are the desire for power hierarchical authority structures and contempt for the body Not only do war and violence against women have some of the same social cultural and religious roots but these roots are also mutually reinforcing The book critiques paradigms designed to limit or prevent war pacifism just peace and just war from the perspective of violence against women and proposes changes to these paradigms

A Christian Exploration of Women's Bodies and Rebirth in Shin Buddhism Kristin Johnston Largen, 2020-10-05 Jodo Shinshu Buddhism inherited many negative doctrines around women's bodies which in some early Buddhist texts were presented as an obstacle to rebirth and a hindrance to awakening in general Beginning with an examination of these doctrines the book explores Shin teachings and texts as well as the Japanese context in which they developed with a focus on women and rebirth in Amida's Pure Land These doctrines are then compared to similar doctrines in Christianity and used to suggest fruitful avenues of Christian theological reflection

A Transpacific Imagination of Theology, Ethics, and Spiritual Activism Keun-joo Christine Pae, 2023-11-23 Despite prolific feminist voices in Christian ethics transnational perspectives are still underdeveloped Similarly secular transnational feminist scholarship often overlooks religious faith rituals and spirituality crucial to many women's liberation movements across the globe This book aims to fill these gaps in Christian and secular feminist scholarships by constructing a transnational feminist theo ethics Furthermore by bringing the theological and the transnational together the book offers an alternative tool in analyzing social identities beyond intersectionality i.e. interstitial approach and interstitial integrity and thus renews feminist theological understandings especially of time memories and healing beyond linear approaches A renewed analytical tool would help the readers critically reinterrogate the global power structure buttressed by empire militarized capitalism and heteropatriarchal religious ideologies at the cost of raced sexed and classed bodies At the same time the book would create space where readers create and recreate theo ethical visions for global peace and justice constructed upon transnational feminist praxis of solidarity and spiritual activism Case studies offer concrete sites to inform readers about how to use transnational feminist theories at a micro and macropolitical levels and produce transnational feminist knowledge of God spiritual activism and solidarity This book is written for graduate and advanced undergraduate students in religion gender studies and Asian American studies to critically engage in the political the theological and the spiritual from transnational perspectives not as observers but as active participants in global politics
