Thinking Big How The Evolution Of Social Life Shaped The Human Mind:

Thinking Big: How the Evolution of Social Life Shaped the Human Mind Robin Dunbar, Clive Gamble, John Gowlett, 2014-06-17 A closer look at genealogy incorporating how biological anthropological and technical factors can influence human lives We are at a pivotal moment in understanding our remote ancestry and its implications for how we live today The barriers to what we can know about our distant relatives have been falling as a result of scientific advance such as decoding the genomes of humans and Neanderthals and bringing together different perspectives to answer common questions These collaborations have brought new knowledge and suggested fresh concepts to examine The results have shaken the old certainties The results are profound not just for the study of the past but for appreciating why we conduct our social lives in ways and at scales that are familiar to all of us But such basic familiarity raises a dilemma When surrounded by the myriad technical and cultural innovations that support our global urbanized lifestyles we can lose sight of the small social worlds we actually inhabit and that can be traced deep into our ancestry So why do we need art religion music kinship myths and all the other facets of our over active imaginations if the reality of our effective social worlds is set by a limit of some one hundred and fifty partners Dunbar's number made of family friends and useful acquaintances How could such a social community lead to a city the size of London or a country as large as China Do we really carry our hominin past into our human present It is these small worlds and the link they allow to the study of the past that forms the central point in this book

Canvi lingüístic, estandardització i identitat en català / Linguistic Change, Standardization and Identity in Catalan Hans-Ingo Radatz, 2020-05-15 The multiplicity of parallel identities that make up our personalities is a phenomenon in which our individual identity choices merge with diverse collective identities The present volume is a contribution to the field of Identity Studies but from a clearly linguistic perspective It unites several contributions which analyze discourses centered on national or regional identities as for instance the Catalanity of the frontier city of Lleida the connection between the natural environment and the conceptualization of deictic space or the dialectics between center and periphery Other chapters try to shed light on problems arising from the particular situation of Catalan as a non state language The contributions thus range from aspects of Cultural Studies on identities and their constituting discourses to Catalan linguistics and sociolinguistics

Desired Language Francesc Feliu, 2023-01-15 National linguistic ideology has been at the base of most historical processes that whether they are complete or not have brought us to the current reality a world of languages that represent with greater or lesser exactitude the diversity and convergences of human groups Various of today's thinkers have predicted the decline or even the end of national ideologies In the area of language postmodernism would make the linguistic affiliation of the community individuals irrelevant de ideologise language use and extend plurilingualism and language alternation in association with a new distribution of physical or functional spaces of linguistic practice But is this true everywhere Are languages now nowhere the core of collective identity Or are we witnessing a distinction between languages that because of their magnitude status strategic position etc can continue to exercise the function of national languages and languages that have to renounce this function Has national linguistic ideology really ceased to make sense What other strategies should the historic language of a given geographic area employ if it wants to continue forming part of the life of the community that is set up there What kinds of languages are desired by politicians intellectuals and philologists This book aims to bring some thoughts about these questions

Crossing the Human Threshold Matt Pope, John McNabb, Clive Gamble, 2017-11-22 When was the human threshold crossed What is the evidence for evolving humans and their emerging humanity This volume explores in a global overview the archaeology of the Middle Pleistocene 800 000 to 130 000 years ago when evidence for innovative cultural behaviour appeared The evidence shows that the threshold was crossed slowly by a variety of human ancestors and was not confined to one part of the Old World Crossing the Human Threshold examines the changing evidence during this period for the use of place landscape and technology It focuses on the emergence of persistent places and associated developments in tool use hunting strategies and the control of fire represented across the Old World by deeply stratified cave sites These include the most important sites for the archaeology of human origins in the Levant South Africa Asia and Europe presented here as evidence for innovation in landscape thinking during the Middle Pleistocene The volume also examines persistence at open locales through a cutting edge review of the archaeology of Northern France and England Crossing the Human Threshold is for the worldwide community of students and researchers studying early hominins and human evolution It presents new archaeological data It frames the evidence within current debates to understand the differences and similarities between ourselves and our ancient ancestors

From Object to Experience Harry Francis Mallgrave, 2018-06-28 Harry Francis Mallgrave combines a history of ideas about architectural experience with the latest insights from the fields of neuroscience cognitive science and evolutionary biology to make a powerful argument about the nature and future of architectural design Today the sciences have granted us the tools to help us understand better than ever before the precise ways in which the built environment can affect the building user's individual experience Through an understanding of these tools architects should be able to become better designers prioritizing the experience of space the emotional and aesthetic responses and the sense of homeostatic well being of those who will occupy any designed environment In From Object to Experience Mallgrave goes further arguing that it should also be possible to build an effective new cultural ethos for architectural practice Drawing upon a range of humanistic and biological sources and emphasizing the far reaching implications of new neuroscientific discoveries and models this book brings up to date insights and theoretical clarity to a position that was once considered revolutionary but is fast becoming accepted in architecture

The Earliest Europeans Robert Hosfield, 2020-05-31 The Earliest Europeans explores the early origins of man in Europe through the perspective of a year in the life how hominins in the Lower Palaeolithic coped with the year round practical challenges of mid latitude Europe with its distinctive temperatures seasonality patterns and available resources Current research has provided increasingly robust archaeological and Quaternary Science records but there are ongoing uncertainties as to both the earliest Europeans specific survival strategies and behaviours and the character of their dispersals into Europe In short how sustained and successful were the individual phases of European occupation by Lower Palaeolithic hominins and what sorts of human where they Using a season by season chapter structure to explore for example the contrasting demands and opportunities of winter versus summer survival Hosfield explores how foods and other resources would vary across the four seasons in quantity and quality and the resulting implications for hominin behaviours Text boxes provide the background on key issues and the book draws on a range of supporting evidence including technology e g the nature of Lower Palaeolithic stone tools the evidence for organic tools hominin life history e g the length of infant dependency the nature of parenting the implications of different mating models the Social Brain Hypothesis cognitive studies e g brain scanning research into possible planning capabilities and potential bias in the archaeological record e g in terms of what is and isn't preserved By testing the likelihood of different scenarios by comparing short term site based insights with long term regional trends Hosfield is able to out forward ideas on how our earliest European ancestors survived and what their lives were like

A Pedagogical Design for Human Flourishing Cynthia McCallister, 2022-03-28 In A Pedagogical Design for Human Flourishing Transforming Schools with the McCallister Model Cynthia McCallister presents a revolutionary paradigm for education that is practical conceptually convincing and grounded in contemporary behavioral science theory Beginning with the assertion that equality of educational opportunity depends on access to experiences that are sufficiently appropriate and rich to enable the achievement of diverse human potentials she provides a comprehensive school design for intervention that demonstrates how to achieve it Grounded in recent advances in learning science McCallister asserts three necessary conditions for learning the need for learners to have access to diverse rich environmental experiences the need for them to enjoy fundamental freedom and autonomy to direct their own learning and access to full and free forms of association In her model these conditions provide what is necessary for learners to coordinate their minds with others to develop their identities personalities and talents These conditions are animated in concrete procedures that can be adapted to a wide variety of populations in formal informal and remote educational settings The procedures take the form of rules that learners comply with in the exercise of their freedom When they are followed the rules provide a grammar for the social norms that govern the moral worlds of learners and compel them to flourish Tested over two decades in her work as a teacher scholar and school reformer in more than 20 NYC public schools the McCallister Method has delivered an innovative and disruptive approach to schooling that has proven successful in finally transforming low performing industrial schools into 21st century learning organizations Online support material includes assessments records surveys and more to be used in school design and classroom settings

Twelve Years of Studying Religious Contact at the Käte Hamburger Kolleg Bochum, 2023-09-04 This book includes a collection of articles by leading researchers on the topic of religious contact in the study of religion. Resulting from the final conference of the Käte Hamburger Kolleg Dynamics in the History of Religions, one of the largest research initiatives in the interdisciplinary study of religion worldwide in recent years. 2008-2020, this book encapsulates the twofold aim of this conference: first to step back and reflect upon the merits and challenges of studying religious dynamics as a result of intra-inter and extra-religious contact and second to look beyond and pave ways for future approaches to study religion as a social phenomenon. The True Creator of Everything Miguel Nicolelis, 2020-01-07 A radically new cosmological view from a groundbreaking neuroscientist who places the human brain at the center of humanity's universe. Renowned neuroscientist Miguel Nicolelis introduces a revolutionary new theory of how the human brain evolved to become an organic computer without rival in the known universe. He undertakes the first attempt to explain the entirety of human history, culture and civilization based on a series of recently uncovered key principles of brain function. This new cosmology is centered around three fundamental properties of the human brain: its insurmountable malleability to adapt and learn, its exquisite ability to allow multiple individuals to synchronize their minds around a task, goal or belief, and its incomparable capacity for abstraction. Combining insights from such diverse fields as neuroscience, mathematics, evolution, computer science, physics, history, art and philosophy, Nicolelis presents a neurobiologically based manifesto for the uniqueness of the human mind and a cautionary tale of the threats that technology poses to present and future generations. Brain Beat PhD Michael Hoffmann MD, 2015-10-01 Brain Beat: A Scientific and Evolutionary Perspective of Brain Health examines the origins of the pillars of brain health, expounding the current scientific basis for recommending physical exercise, cognitive exercises, sleep, hygiene, socialization and brain foods. However, in addition to the how question, the more important why question is addressed from a neuroarchaeological and evolutionary standpoint. The clinical and laboratory brain sciences are replete with ever-increasing numbers of p. Human Diversity Charles Murray, 2020-01-28 All people are equal but as Human Diversity explores, all groups of people are not the same. A fascinating investigation of the genetics and neuroscience of human differences. The thesis of Human Diversity is that advances in genetics and neuroscience are overthrowing an intellectual orthodoxy that has ruled the social sciences for decades. The core of the orthodoxy consists of three dogmas: Gender is a social construct, Race is a social construct, Class is a function of privilege. The problem is that all three dogmas are half-truths.

They have stifled progress in understanding the rich texture that biology adds to our understanding of the social political and economic worlds we live in It is not a story to be feared There are no monsters in the closet Murray writes no dread doors we must fear opening But it is a story that needs telling Human Diversity does so without sensationalism drawing on the most authoritative scientific findings celebrating both our many differences and our common humanity

Hidden Depths Penny Spikins,2022-08-23 n Hidden Depths Professor Penny Spikins explores how our emotional connections have shaped human ancestry Focusing on three key transitions in human origins Professor Spikins explains how the emotional capacities of our early ancestors evolved in response to ecological changes much like similar changes in other social mammals For each transition dedicated chapters examine evolutionary pressures responses in changes in human emotional capacities and the archaeological evidence for human social behaviours Starting from our earliest origins in Part One Professor Spikins explores how after two million years ago movement of human ancestors into a new ecological niche drove new types of collaboration including care for vulnerable members of the group Emotional adaptations lead to cognitive changes as new connections based on compassion generosity trust and inclusion also changed our relationship to material things Part Two explores a later key transition in human emotional capacities occurring after 300 000 years ago At this time changes in social tolerance allowed ancestors of our own species to further reach out beyond their local group and care about distant allies making human communities resilient to environmental changes An increasingly close relationship to animals and even to cherished possessions appeared at this time and can be explained through new human vulnerabilities and ways of seeking comfort and belonging Lastly Part Three focuses on the contrasts in emotional dispositions arising between ourselves and our close cousins the Neanderthals Neanderthals are revealed as equally caring yet emotionally different humans who might if things had been different have been in our place today This new narrative breaks away from traditional views of human evolution as exceptional or as a linear progression towards a more perfect form Instead our evolutionary history is situated within similar processes occurring in other mammals and explained as one in which emotions rather than intellect were key to our evolutionary journey Moreover changes in emotional capacities and dispositions are seen as part of differing pathways each bringing strengths weaknesses and compromises These hidden depths provide an explanation for many of the emotional sensitivities and vulnerabilities which continue to influence our world today

Prehistory: A Very Short Introduction Chris Gosden, 2018-06-18 Prehistory covers the period of some 4 million years before the start of written history when our earliest ancestors the Australopithecines existed in Africa But this is relatively recent compared to whole history of the earth of some 4.5 billion years A key aspect of prehistory is that it provides a sense of scale throwing recent ways of life into perspective Humans and their ancestors lived in many different ways and the cultural variety we see now is just a tiny fraction of that which has existed over millions of years Humans are part of the broader evolution of landscapes and communities of plants and animals but Homo sapiens is also the only species to have made a real impact on planetary systems To understand such an impact we need a grasp of our longest term development and ways of life In this new edition of his Very Short Introduction Chris Gosden invites us to think seriously about who we are by considering who we have been As he explains many new discoveries have been made in archaeology over the last ten years and a new framework for prehistory is emerging A greater understanding of Chinese and central Asian prehistory has thrown Eurasian prehistory in quite a different light with flows of the influence of culture over large areas now evident This has eaten away at the traditional view of human progress around the invention of agriculture the development of cities and much later the industrial revolution and given us new geographies to think about Chris Gosden explores the new landscape of our prehistory and considers the way the different geographical locations weave together ABOUT THE SERIES The Very Short Introductions series from Oxford University Press contains hundreds of titles in almost every subject area These pocket sized books are the perfect way to get ahead in a new subject quickly Our expert authors combine facts analysis perspective new ideas and enthusiasm to make interesting and challenging topics highly readable

Homo Sapiens Rediscovered: The Scientific Revolution Rewriting Our Origins (The Rediscovered Series) Paul Pettitt, 2023-02-07 A world renowned expert reveals how our understanding of the evolution of our species has been transformed by momentous discoveries and technological advancements Who are we How do scientists define Homo sapiens and how does our species differ from the extinct hominins that came before us In this accessible lushly illustrated account palaeoarchaeologist Paul Pettitt shows how the latest scientific advances especially in genetics are revolutionizing our understanding of human evolution Pettitt reveals the extraordinary story of how our ancestors adapted to unforgiving and relentlessly changing climates leading to remarkable innovations in art technology and society that we are only now beginning to comprehend Drawing on twenty five years of experience in the field Pettitt takes readers from the caves and rock shelters that provide evidence of our African origins to the far reaches of Eurasia Australasia and ultimately the Americas Popular accounts of the evolution of Homo sapiens emphasize biomolecular research notably genetics but this volume also draws from the wealth of information from specific excavations and artifacts including the author's own investigations into the origins of art and how it evolved over its first 25 000 years Drawn from cutting edge research in this field with a unique perspective from Pettitt's own studies focusing on human behavior this immersive and surprising book paints the clearest picture we have ever had of our own evolution Alcohol and Humans Kimberley Hockings, Robin Dunbar, 2019-12-05 Alcohol use has a long and ubiquitous history The prevailing tendency to view alcohol merely as a social problem or the popular notion that alcohol only serves to provide us with a hedonic high masks its importance in the social fabric of many human societies both past and present To understand alcohol use as a complex social practice that has been exploited by humans for thousands of years requires cross disciplinary insight from social cultural anthropologists archaeologists historians psychologists primatologists and biologists This multi disciplinary volume examines the broad use of alcohol in the human lineage and its wider relationship to social contexts such as feasting sacred rituals and social bonding Alcohol abuse is a small part of a much more complex and social pattern of widespread alcohol use by humans This alone should prompt us to explore the evolutionary origins of this ancient practice and the socially functional reasons for its continued popularity The objectives of this volume are 1 to understand how and why nonhuman primates and other animals use alcohol in the wild and its relevance to understanding the social consumption of alcohol in humans 2 to understand the social function of alcohol in human prehistory 3 to understand the sociocultural significance of alcohol across human societies and 4 to explore the social functions of alcohol consumption in contemporary society Alcohol in Humans will be fascinating reading for those in the fields of biology psychology anthropology archaeology as well as those with a broader interest in addiction
