Interreligious Education explores multiple injustices focusing on the lived experience unaddressed grief and acts of resistance and resilience of populations most impacted by coloniality and white supremacy It lifts up the voices of those speaking from embodied experience of suffering multiple oppressions based on negative constructs of race religion skin color nationality etc Engaging ideological critique construction of knowledge beyond dominant lenses and acts of resistance are presented from the perspective of those most impacted by systemic injustice It challenges interreligious education to frame encounters where the impact of intergeneration trauma and the realities of power differentials are recognized and the contributions of all voices are truly integrated It challenges the fields of religious and interreligious education to imagine a broadened view that includes recognition of the role played by religion in harm done and to take a leadership role in engaging processes of accountability and redress National Parks, Native Sovereignty Christina Gish Hill, Matthew J. Hill, Brooke

Neely, 2024-03-12 The history of national parks in the United States mirrors the fraught relations between the Department of the Interior and the nation's Indigenous peoples But amidst the challenges are examples of success National Parks Native Sovereignty proposes a reorientation of relationships between tribal nations and national parks placing Indigenous peoples as co stewards through strategic collaboration More than simple consultation strategic collaboration as the authors define it involves the complex process by which participants come together to find ways to engage with one another across sometimes conflicting interests In case studies and interviews focusing on a wide range of National Park Service sites the authors and editors of this volume scholars as well as National Park Service staff and tribal historic preservation officers explore pathways for collaboration that uphold tribal sovereignty These efforts serve to better educate the general public about Native peoples consider new ways of understanding and interpreting the peoples Native and non Native connected to national park lands and recognize alternative ways of knowing and using park lands based on Native peoples expertise National Parks Native Sovereignty emphasizes emotional commitment mutual respect and patience rather than focusing on land back solutions in the cocreation of a socially sensible public lands policy Ultimately it succeeds in promoting the theme of strategic collaboration highlighting how Indigenous peoples assert agency and sovereignty in reconnecting with significant landscapes and how non Native scholars and park staff can incrementally assist Native partners in this process
