

Great Debates in Philosophy
Series Editor: Ernest Sosa

Dialogue has always been a powerful means of philosophical exploration and exposition. By presenting important current issues in philosophy in the form of a debate, this series attempts to capture the flavour of philosophical argument and to convey the excitement generated by the exchange of ideas. Each author contributes a major, original essay. When these essays have been completed, the authors are each given the opportunity to respond to the opposing view.

Global Health and International Community John Coggon, Swati Gola, 2013-09-12 Global health arguably represents the most pressing issues facing humanity Trends in international migration and transnational commerce render state boundaries increasingly porous Human activity in one part of the world can lead to health impacts elsewhere Animals viruses and bacteria as well as pandemics and environmental disasters do not recognize or respect political borders It is now widely accepted that a global perspective on the understanding of threats to health and how to respond to them is required but there are many practical problems in establishing such an approach This book offers a foundational study of these urgent and challenging problems combining critical analysis with practically focused policy contributions The contributors span the fields of ethics human rights international relations law philosophy and global politics They address normative questions relating to justice equity and inequality and practical questions regarding multi organizational cooperation global governance and international relations Moving from the theoretical to the practical Global Health and International Community is an essential resource for scholars students activists and policy makers across the globe Washington Education Journal ,1928 The Philosophical Review ,2000 Debating on Ethics.
