Trade Liberalization and Tax Reform in the Southern Mediterranean Region Mr. George T. Abed, 1998-04-01 The European Union's Association Agreements with several countries in the Southern Mediterranean Region SMR aim to promote deeper economic integration between the SMR and the EU by establishing a free trade area in twelve years. Because a large share of the SMR countries' total imports comes from the EU, the removal of import tariffs could reduce budgetary revenue by the equivalent of 1 percent to 4 percent of individual countries' GDP. This paper proposes tax and tariff reforms that would help generate the needed compensatory revenue and more important in the long run reduce the distortionary effects of the tax and tariff systems and underpin higher rates of sustainable growth. World Economic Outlook and International Capital Markets Interim Assessment, 1998 International Monetary Fund, 1999-01-29 This interim update of the IMF's latest regular reports on the World Economic Outlook published in October 1998 and International Capital Markets September 1998 provides a preliminary assessment of the unusual turbulence in international financial markets during much of the period August–November 1998 and its implications for the global economic outlook and for policy. The survey of prospects and policies is the product of a comprehensive interdepartmental review of world economic developments which draws primarily on information the IMF gathers through its consultations with member countries. For its evaluation of developments in financial markets, the report also draws in part on informal discussions with commercial and investment banks, securities firms, stock and futures exchanges, and regulatory and monetary authorities.

Trade Policy Developments in the Middle East and North Africa Bernard M. Hoekman, Han?? Khayr al-D??n, 2000-01-01 While very diverse in many respects, the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) countries nevertheless also share some common characteristics, including a number of important shared challenges for policymakers. The Middle East and North Africa region has great potential for economic growth and prosperity in the 21st century. Yet this potential will not be realized unless governments and private sector leaders in the region forge partnerships for development. An indispensable resource for all those working within the international development community, especially within the Middle East and North Africa region, Trade Policy Developments in the Middle East and North Africa offers policy and institutional alternatives to help both parties achieve that goal. This volume describes and analyzes recent trade policy developments in the Middle East and North Africa. Contributors, almost all economists from the region, review recent trends in trade performance, assess current trade and investment regimes, and discuss some of the emerging microeconomic policy challenges that confront governments and firms seeking to export and trade. Topics addressed include the need and scope for using regional integration and economic free zones as a tool of development, mobilization of non-trade tax bases, efficient enforcement of product standards to ensure health and safety of citizens, and implementation of modern information technologies to facilitate customs clearance.
