Trading Voices The European Union In International Commercial Negotiations:

Trading Voices Sophie Meunier, 2007-01-28 Sophie Meunier explores how the pooling of trade policy making and external representation by national member states to the supranational level affects the bargaining power of the EU in international commercial negotiations and consequently the shape of international political economy Trading Voices Sophie Meunier, 2021-01-12 The European Union the world's foremost trader is not an easy bargainer to deal with Its twenty five member states have relinquished most of their sovereignty in trade to the supranational level and in international commercial negotiations such as those conducted under the World Trade Organization the EU speaks with a single voice This single voice has enabled the Brussels based institution to impact the distributional outcomes of international trade negotiations and shape the global political economy Trading Voices is the most comprehensive book about the politics of trade policy in the EU and the role of the EU as a central actor in international commercial negotiations Sophie Meunier explores how this pooling of trade policy making and external representation affects the EU's bargaining power in international trade talks Using institutionalist analysis she argues that its complex institutional procedures and multiple masters have more than once forced its trade partners to give in to an EU speaking with a single voice Through analysis of four transatlantic commercial negotiations over agriculture public procurement and civil aviation Trading Voices explores the politics of international trade bargaining It also addresses the salient political question of whether efficiency at negotiating comes at the expense of democratic legitimacy Finally this book looks at how the EU with its recent enlargement and proposed constitution might become an even more formidable rival to the United States in shaping globalization The EU in International Negotiations Magdalena Frennhoff Larsén, 2023-02-24 This book which is aimed at scholars practitioners advanced under graduate and post graduate students seeks to contribute to the understanding of the EU as an international negotiator by analysing a number of external policy areas where the EU to a great extent engages internationally through negotiations including development trade enlargement and withdrawal The EU as International Environmental Negotiator Tom Delreux, 2011 This examination of the EU's participation in international environmental negotiations reveals the internal decision making process behind multilateral environmental agreements The book's empirical evidence is based on an extensive review of existing literature primary and semi confidential document research as well as interviews with EU decision makers It is a valuable resource for readers interested in EU politics and decision making global multilateral governance environmental policy science and methodological development of Qualitative Comparative Analysis Trade Policy in Multilevel Government Christian Freudsperger, 2020 This book investigates how multilevel polities organize openness in a globalizing political and economic environment It tests its theory's explanatory power on the understudied case of international procurement liberalization in extensive studies of three systems of multilevel government Canada the European Union and the United States The European Union with(in) International Organisations Amandine

Orsini,2016-03-16 Since its creation the European Union EU has been a participant in the activities of other International Organisations IOs or has been working together with them Still little information is available on what this long term involvement with in IOs means for International Relations and European Studies Why has the EU been involved with in IOs on such a long term basis How With what impact These three key research questions are addressed in this innovative volume in a bid to explore the continuity of EU action with in IOs While written by a diversity of authors from European Studies or from International Relations Europeans or non Europeans and from a diversity of disciplines in particular Law and Political Science each chapter of the volume elaborates on three common political concepts derived from three fold questioning commitment for the why question consistency for the how question and effects for the question of impact Consisting of a two part structure the book is focussed in Part I on more general trends of the EU s long term participation with in IOs with contributions by A Wetzel P Debaere F De Ville J Orbie B Saenen and J Verschaeve and P Nedergaard and M D Jensen and in Part II on more precise case studies on labour standards public services flexicurity human trafficking and security with contributions by R Kissack A Crespy E Xiarchogiannopoulou and D Tsarouhas B Simmons and A DiSilvestro and N Gr ger Highly useful for students academics and experts this volume combines a clear and easy to use framework with new empirical data

Lobbying the European Union David Coen,Jeremy Richardson,2009-06-04 It is universally accepted that there has been a huge growth in EU lobbying over the past few decades There is now a dense EU interest group system This entirely new volume inspired by Mazey Richardson s 1993 book Lobbying in the European Community seeks to understand the role of interest groups in the policy process from agenda setting to implementation. Specifically, the book is interested in observing how interest groups organise to influence the EU institutions and how they select different coalitions along the policy process and in different policy domains. In looking at 20 years of change, the book captures processes of institutional and actor learning, professionalisation of lobbying and the possible emergence of a distinct EU public policy style. More specifically, from the actors' perspective, the editors are interested in assessing how the rise of direct lobbying and the emergence of fluid issue-based coalitions has changed the logic of collective action and what is the potential impact of venue shopping on reputation and influence. From an institutional perspective, the contributors explore resource and legitimacy demands and the practical impact of consultation processes on the emergence of a distinct EU lobbying relationship. It will be essential reading for academics and practitioners alike.

Commercial Realism and EU Trade Policy Katharina L. Meissner, 2018-06-13. The European Union (EU) is at the forefront of engaging in external trade relations outside of the World Trade Organization (WTO) with entire regions and economic powerhouses. Understanding why and how the EU engages in one of the most active fields of external relations is crucial. This book fills a gap in the literature by analysing motives on the modes: bilateralism, inter-regionalism or multilateralism of EU external trade relations towards regional organizations in Asia and Latin America outside of the WTO. In particular, it examines why the EU turned from interregional to bilateral external trade relations towards these world regions, a question that is to date under-researched. By developing and testing an original approach rooted in realist theorizing, coined commercial realism, it examines systematically the explanatory power of commercial realism against liberal institutionalist approaches dominant in the literature on EU external relations through five in-depth case studies. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students in EU Politics Studies, EU external relations, inter-regionalism and more broadly to International Relations and International Political Economy.
