Michael Hall, Freya Higgins-Desbiolles, 2015-12-14 Tourism in Palestine has been receiving an increasingly important profile given its economic and religious importance and the significant role it plays in Israeli Palestinian relations representation of Palestinian statehood and identity and wider Middle Eastern politics Nevertheless Palestine like much of the Middle East as a whole remains extremely underrepresented in tourism literature This title aims to fill this void by being the first book dedicated to exploring the significance of tourism in relationship to Palestine The book examines the role of tourism in Palestine at three main levels First it provides an overview of destination management and marketing issues for the tourism industry in Palestine and addresses not only the visitor markets and the economic significance of tourism but also the realities of the difficulties of destination management marketing and promotion of the Palestinian state Second it provides a series chapters and case studies that interrogate not only the various forms of tourism in Palestine but also its economic social environmental and spiritual importance This section also conveys a dimension to tourism in Palestine that is not usually appreciated in the Western mainstream media The third section indicates the way in which tourism in Palestine highlights broader questions and debates in tourism studies and the way in which travel in the region is framed in wider discourses. A significant dimension of the book is the attention it gives to the different voices of stakeholders in Palestinian tourism at varying levels of scale. Tourism and Citizenship Raoul Bianchi, Marcus Stephenson, 2014-02-24. More than sixty years since the 1948 Universal Declaration of Human Rights first enshrined the right to freedom of movement in an international charter of human rights, the issue of mobility and the right to tourism itself have become increasingly significant areas of scholarly interest and political debate. However, despite the fact that cross border travel implies certain citizenship rights as well as the material capacity to travel, the manifold intersections between tourism and citizenship have not received the attention they deserve in the literature. This book endeavours to fill this gap by being the first to fully examine the role of tourism in wider society through a critically informed sociological reflection on the unfolding relationships between international tourism and distinct renderings of citizenship, with particular emphasis on the ideological and political alignments between the freedom of movement and the right to travel. The text weaves its analysis of citizenship and travel in the context of addressing large scale societal transformations engendered by globalization, neoliberalism and the geopolitical realignments between states as well as comprehending the internal reconfiguring of the relationship between citizens and states themselves. By doing so, it focuses on key themes including tourism and social citizenship, rights, race, culture and minority rights, states, markets and the freedom of movement, tourism, peace and geo politics, consumerism and class and ethical tourism, global citizenship and cosmopolitanism. The book concludes that the advancement of genuinely democratic and just forms of tourism must be commensurate with demands for distributive justice and a democratic politics of mobility encompassing all of humanity. This timely and significant contribution to the sociology and politics of international tourism through the lens of citizenship is a must read for students and scholars in both the fields of tourism and social science. The royalties received from this book will be donated to the International Porter Protection Group.

The Changing Policy-Making Process in Greater China Bennis Wai Yip So, Yuang-kuang Kao, 2014-04-24. It considers the overall background conditions, the need to rebalance in mainland China after years of hectic economic growth, governance transition and democratic consolidation in Taiwan and governance crisis in Hong Kong under a regime of uncertain legitimacy. It examines the various actors in the policy making process, the civic engagement of ordinary people and the roles of legislators, mass media and bureaucracy and discusses how these actors interact in a range of different policy cases.
