empirical study is now possible and desirable In more recent years the conceptual models have been applied to analyse specific destinations or tourism markets But one of the most pressing research needs is to understand better the relative importance of the attributes of competitiveness Strategies for improving destination competitiveness must make decisions about where and how limited resources should be directed Therefore information which helps to identify which attributes are likely to influence competitiveness most effectively are of considerable value Publisher Positioning of Destinations Tamara Mayerhofer, 2010-05 Scientific Essay from the year 2010 in the subject Tourism University of Innsbruck Tourism Service Industry language English abstract This Paper focuses on the importance of strategic positioning of destinations and its stakeholders in a globalised competitive environment The theoretical background is based on the research on destinations and destination management strategic marketing strategy development and positioning strategies and positioning models A new theoretic framework from a RBV was developed to identify the most important elements of the successful positioning of destinations and its organizations from a stakeholder perspective An empirical study was applied to all stakeholders who form a destination by the example of three very successful positioned destinations in the Austrian Alps The theoretical model was tested by the application of frequency distribution and multiple linear regression analysis Most of the points were confirmed but also a few rejected which asks for further research However the applied model gives a great insight in how stakeholders can successful and sustainable position their organizations and the destination as a whole It further can be used as a tool to find an efficient positioning strategy for young entrepreneurs or gives helpful advice for stagnating or decreasing businesses to formulate a new positioning strategy or aim for a relaunch Multilevel Approach to Competitiveness in the Global Tourism Industry Teixeira, Sérgio Jesus, Ferreira, João Matos, 2019-10-25 Companies compete to gain public notoriety every day and use creativity and innovation to get ahead of their competition In oversaturated industries such as the tourism sector smart strategies and global network capabilities must be adopted and improved in order to increase competitiveness Multilevel Approach to Competitiveness in the Global Tourism Industry contains crucial reference material that discusses new intelligent practices to increase business competitiveness in the tourism sector Featuring research on topics such as networking artificial intelligence and regional competitiveness this book is ideally designed for program directors event coordinators tour developers hotel managers restaurateurs travel agents policymakers academics researchers advanced students entrepreneurs government officials and professionals in the tourism and hospitality industry Marketing Tourist Destinations in Emerging Economies Ishmael Mensah, Kandappan Balasubramanian, Mohd Raziff Jamaluddin, Gina Alcoriza, Vanessa Gaffar, S. Mostafa Rasoolimanesh, 2021-11-27 While tourism is a key economic generator for many countries emerging economies are confronted with additional challenges that those well established destinations in North America Australia and Europe normally don't have to contend with The potential for terrorism political unrest natural disasters accidents not to mention epidemics have the potential to derail tourism in emerging economies To mitigate these risks emerging destinations need well coordinated management and marketing strategies However most texts on tourism destination marketing reflect destinations in more advanced countries This book acknowledges the fact that emerging tourist destinations have unique characteristics and challenges which have implications for destination marketing Highlighting the marketing challenges best practices and strategies relevant to emerging economies this book covers core topics such as image creation and branding destination marketing during crises and pandemics market segmentation and the travel decision making process among others Providing up to date knowledge on an otherwise under explored topic this collection is ideal reading for upper level students researchers and policymakers
