Villa Garbald Gottfried Semper Maranta:

Iteration Robin Schuldenfrei, 2020-04-08 This edited volume considers the ways in which multiple stages phases or periods in an artistic or design process have served to arrive at the final artifact with a focus on the meaning and use of the iteration To contextualize iteration within artistic and architectural production this collection of essays presents a range of close studies in art architectural and design history using archival and historiographical research media theory photography material studies and critical theory It examines objects as unique yet mutable works by examining their antecedents successive exemplars and their afterlives and thus their role as organizers or repositories of meaning Key are the roles of writing the use of media and relationships between object image and reproduction This volume asks how a closer look at iteration reveals new perspectives into the production of objects and the production of thought alike Written by an international team of contributors offering a range of perspectives it looks broadly at meaning and insight offered by the iteration for processes of design for historical research and for the reception of creative works Villa Garbald Gottfried Semper - Miller & Maranta Sonja Hildebrand, 2015-08 Open/close Jan-Hendrik Hafke, Anette Hochberg, Joachim Raab, 2010 In this first volume in the SCALE series Open Close a simple yet significant part of any building the opening is illustrated in all its different aspects from idea to implementation As well as the different types of component windows doors gates loggias filters this volume deals with building structures It is also concerned with the significance of the opening in building design Openings define the relationship between a building and the space outside it helping to characterize a location In this book all of the elements that mediate between interior and exterior spaces are classified both in terms of construction and design Each of them is described and dealt with in detail All the internationally renowned projects used here as examples are both practical and generally applicable The projects have not been chosen for their homogeneous architectural language but for the high quality of their architecture Book Jacket Illuminating Michelle Corrodi, Klaus Spechtenhauser, 2014-03-12 The image of open working and living spaces flooded with light has more than any other become fixed in our minds as a symbol of modernity and the spirit of the times While the workplace has always been the focus of ergonomic studies and optimization with respect to a good provision of daylight large glass surfaces have now become the order of the day for living spaces as well But does this automatically make for better illumination Taking this question as its starting point the publication Illuminating thematizes central aspects of light planning including the connection between the provision of daylight and architectural design building orientation the nature of the facade the ground plan comfort and the proportions and atmosphere of rooms In the process general characteristics and fundamental principles as well as subtle facets of an intelligent treatment of daylight are discussed and critically examined within an expanded architecture and culture historical context Swiss Sensibility Anna Roos, 2017-04-24 Contemporary architecture in Switzerland is influenced by Peter Zumthor and Herzog de Meuron recipients of the Swiss Pritzker Prize as well as a number of other prominent architects The book presents 25 buildings in Switzerland designed by 16 influential Swiss architects The range covers high density urban developments through to rural sites in the alpine environment with examples of traditional craftsmanship and materials and modern construction technology and engineering Large format photographs illustrate the buildings proportions materials and details Four authors analyze the Swiss building culture and its high architectural quality from an insider's and an outsider's point of view In a detailed interview Peter Zumthor explains his approach to architectural design

Building Skins Christian Schittich, 2012-12-17 The external facades of a building are more than a protective mantle or an intelligent skin regulating temperature and light they also determine its very appearance By unusual choices of materials and the use of complex technology facades have become increasingly significant in recent years External surfaces are being perceived as an integral part of the building and are therefore being designed as such This volume focuses on the wide ranging aspects of facade design from the selection and use of materials to the advanced technical possibilities now open to the architect A wide array of carefully selected international examples show the theory in the practice All plans details and large scale sections of the facades have been researched with the high degree of competence typical of the editorial staff from the review Detail Expert authors provide the essential information needed to plan and design facades and elucidate on the latest developments in technology and materials
