what strategies it has used for these purposes and the counter campaign strategies authorities have pursued But from 2009 to 2018 Boko Haram has pursued high intensity violence assassinations bombing kidnappings beheading or threats of violence conscriptions and territorial occupation This makes it imperative to deepen and broaden our understanding of the groups activities toward a problem solving and policy relevant analysis Previously published in Security Journal Volume 33 issue 3 September 2020 Homeland Security and Terrorism in Nigeria Sheriff Folarin, Abiodun Raufu, Godwyns Agbude, 2024-10-15 As Nigeria grapples with critical homeland security challenges Homeland Security and Terrorism in Nigeria Crises Climate Change and Counterterrorism analyzes these crises to deepen understanding of the Nigerian security dilemma and to seek pathways to a more secure homeland This book examines the nature and dimensions of the security challenges focusing on terrorism and its stranglehold on Nigeria's peaceful existence Leveraging a multi disciplinary approach this study combines a range of perspectives cutting across criminology political science sociology history international relations and strategic studies to dissect the subject and problem Sheriff Folarin Abiodun Raufu Godwyns Agbude and the contributors explore the origins dynamics and character of terrorism in Nigeria They also examine the changing nature of Nigeria's security architecture as well as adaptive coping mechanisms and counterterror measures in the homeland This book is a treasure for strategic and security analysts Nigerian and African security governance scholars political scientists and other students and scholars interested in researching Nigeria Boko Haram's Terrorist Campaign in Nigeria Temitope B Oriola, Freedom Onuoha, Samuel Oyewole, 2021-11-30 This book investigates the devastating impacts of the Boko Haram terrorist campaign in Nigeria reflecting on the group's historical context organizational dynamics and emerging trajectories Since its inception in 2002 Boko Haram's terrorist campaign has become one of the major threats to security and human development in West Africa killing tens of thousands of people and displacing many more This book reflects on the origins and development of Boko Haram contextualizing it in the global trend of militant Islamist movements It delves into the tactics of the organisation their deployment of sexual and gender based violence against women and human rights abuses in the war against them The war against Boko Haram has seen engagement from the international community national and regional military operations and also a range of civilian led movements This book reflects on the roles of these different actors and the emerging trajectories that need to be considered in order to eradicate Boko Haram Drawing on a range of disciplinary perspectives this book will be of interest to researchers across the fields of sociology political science African studies and peace and conflict studies Violence in Nigeria Marc-Antoine Pérouse de Montclos, 2016 Most of the academic literature on violence in Nigeria is qualitative It rarely relies on quantitative data because police crime statistics are not reliable or not available or not even published Moreover the training of Nigerian social scientists often focuses on qualitative cultural and political issues There is thus a need to bridge the qualitative and quantitative approaches of conflict studies This book represents an innovation and fills a gap in this regard It is the first to introduce a discussion on such issues in a coherent manner relying on a database that fills the lacunae in data from the security forces The authors underline the necessity of a trend analysis to decipher the patterns and the complexity of violence in very different fields from oil production to cattle breeding radical Islam to motor accidents land conflicts to witchcraft and so on In addition they argue for empirical investigation and a complementary approach using both qualitative and quantitative data The book is therefore organized into two parts with a focus first on statistical studies then on fieldwork Managing Violent Religious Extremism in Fragile States Abosede Omowumi Babatunde, Mahfouz A. Adedimeji, Shittu Raji, Jacinta Mwendu Maweu, John Mwangi Githigaro, 2021-09-30 This book examines how African states can build the institutional capacity to better prevent manage and cope with the new security challenges posed by violent religious extremism Despite the evidence that violent religious extremism is exacerbated by underlying social political economic and governance factors many states have focused their efforts only on reactive and coercive response strategies overlooking more long term measures This comparative study of Nigeria and Kenya reflects on why insurgency in Kenya has not escalated to full blown terrorism as it has with Boko Haram in Nigeria in spite of the similarities in relatively weak institutions of governance and colonial legacies across the two countries The book interrogates the policy and institutional responses that have been put in place in both countries to address security challenges and the extent of their efficacy in light of the intricate networks of politics governance corruption poverty and violence and the relative fragility of state institutions The authors highlight the areas of convergence and divergence in institutional capacities and recommend policies to enhance the capacity of institutions to manage violent religious extremism This book will be of interest to scholars of African Politics Security Peace Studies and Terrorism

Spiraling Violence Daniel Williams, Eric Guttuschuss, 2012 Boko Haram an armed Islamic group whose professed aim is to rid Nigeria of its corrupt and abusive government and institute what it describes as religious purity has committed horrific crimes across northern and central Nigeria Since 2009 suspected members of the group have killed at least 1 500 people including police officers and other government security agents Christians and Muslims who cooperate with government authorities In the name of ending the group's threat to the country's citizens government security forces have killed hundreds of Boko Haram suspects and random members of communities where attacks have occurred Clashes between the group and security personnel and extra judicial killings by the police and military have raised the death toll of those killed by Boko Haram and the security forces to more than 2 800 people since 2009 Meanwhile hundreds of people have been arrested across the north many of them detained incommunicado without charge or trial for months or even years Based on field research in Nigeria in July 2010 and in May and July 2012 and the continuous monitoring of media reports of Boko Haram attacks and statements Spiraling Violence explores the crimes committed by the Islamic group and sheds light on the underreported role of Nigeria's security forces whose actions in response to the violence have contravened international human rights standards and fueled further attacks Human Rights Watch's research suggests that crimes against humanity may have been committed both by state agents and members of Boko Haram Nigeria's government has a responsibility to protect its citizens from violence but also to respect international human rights law related to the use of force by its security forces the treatment of detainees the prohibition of torture and due process standards Nigerian authorities should prosecute without delay the perpetrators of crimes whether members of Boko Haram or government security forces and take meaningful measures to address corruption poverty and other underlying factors that have created a fertile ground for violent militancy in Nigeria P 4 of cover

Terrorism in Nigeria Bala Abdullahi Hassan, 2022 Terrorism is a universal enemy of mankind North eastern Nigeria has been facing terrorist activities perpetrated by Boko Haram in the past decade Researches into this area are mostly based on anecdotal sources However building on existing works this study explored the causes of Boko Haram its sources of funds and arms relationship with the other international terrorist groups and the localization of the group to only the North east of Nigeria It also investigated the effect of the group on Nigeria's national development and examined the counter and anti terrorism efforts of Nigeria's security forces and their efficacies The study adopted a descriptive research design Both primary and secondary data was used for the study Primary data was collected using the quantitative method validated questionnaire and qualitative technique In depth Interview IDI and Key Informant Interview KII Employing the purposive sampling technique the study involved 369 respondents 150 for the questionnaire survey while the rest 219 comprised respondents for the IDI and KII Secondary data was extracted from Police case files Document involving Boko Haram members in the police custody Quantitative data collected was analyzed using descriptive and inferential statistics The qualitative data was analyzed using content analysis and NVivo The findings of the study revealed that Boko Haram was not a result of politics but a multiplicity of poor socioeconomic factors with arms and funds sourced by direct criminal activities and dependence on foreign sources Further findings suggested that if anything the Sect had links with other international terrorists group and localization more pronounced to the North eastern Nigeria based on porous extensive borders and strong Islamic belief stemming from the frequent religious upsurge in the area The impact of Boko Haram on national development was negative as the insurgency affected food security disrupted educational activities scuttled industrial development putting domestic and foreign investment in limbo Specifically the finding prefigured the anti and counter terrorism strategies of the national security forces to be ineffective but now modified to include both soft and hard power approach The study thus portrayed Boko Haram as a domestic asymmetric conflict and a response mode to pains of frustration and poverty seething with strains of injustice only to be addressed not by conventional warfare approach but using a combination of both kinetic and non kinetic power strategies of the government Abstract Understanding Boko Haram Taylor & Francis Group,2018-11-10
