Daniela Bleichmar

Visible Empire Botanical Expeditions And Visual Culture In The Hispanic Enlightenment:

Visible Empire Daniela Bleichmar, 2012-10-08 Between 1777 and 1816 botanical expeditions crisscrossed the vast Spanish empire in an ambitious project to survey the flora of much of the Americas the Caribbean and the Philippines While these voyages produced written texts and compiled collections of specimens they dedicated an overwhelming proportion of their resources and energy to the creation of visual materials European and American naturalists and artists collaborated to manufacture a staggering total of more than 12 000 botanical illustrations Yet these images have remained largely overlooked until now In this lavishly illustrated volume Daniela Bleichmar gives this archive its due finding in these botanical images a window into the worlds of Enlightenment science visual culture and empire Through innovative interdisciplinary scholarship that bridges the histories of science visual culture and the Hispanic world Bleichmar uses these images to trace two related histories the little known history of scientific expeditions in the Hispanic Enlightenment and the history of visual evidence in both science and administration in the early modern Spanish empire As Bleichmar shows in the Spanish empire visual epistemology operated not only in scientific contexts but also as part of an imperial apparatus that had a long established tradition of deploying visual evidence for administrative purposes

The Early Modern Hispanic World

Kimberly Lynn, Erin Kathleen Rowe, 2017-01-31 Iberia stands at the center of key trends in Atlantic and world histories largely because Portugal and Spain were the first European kingdoms to go global The Early Modern Hispanic World engages with new ways of thinking about the early modern Hispanic past as a field of study that has grown exponentially in recent years It focuses predominantly on questions of how people understood the rapidly changing world in which they lived how they defined visualized and constructed communities from family and city to kingdom and empire To do so it incorporates voices from across the Hispanic World and across disciplines The volume considers the dynamic relationships between circulation and fixedness space and place and how new methodologies are reshaping global history and Spain's place in it

Explorations and Entanglements Hartmut Berghoff, Frank Biess, Ulrike Strasser, 2018-11-16 Traditionally Germany has been considered a minor player in Pacific history its presence there was more limited than that of other European nations and whereas its European rivals established themselves as imperial forces beginning in the early modern era Germany did not seriously pursue colonialism until the nineteenth century Yet thanks to recent advances in the field emphasizing transoceanic networks and cultural encounters it is now possible to develop a more nuanced understanding of the history of Germans in the Pacific The studies gathered here offer fascinating research into German missionary commercial scientific and imperial activity against the backdrop of the Pacific's overlapping cultural circuits and complex oceanic transits

Visual Cultures in Science and Technology Klaus Hentschel, 2014-10-30 This book offers a broad comparative survey of a booming field within the history of science the history generation use and function of images in scientific practice It explores every aspect of visuality in science arguing for the concept of visual domains What makes a good scientific image What cultural baggage is essential to it Is science indeed defined by its pictures This book aims to provide a synthesis of the history generation use and transfer of images in scientific practice It delves into the rich reservoir of case studies on visual representations in scientific and technological practice that have accumulated over the past couple of decades by historians sociologists and philosophers of science The main aim is thus located on the meta level It adopts an integrative view of recurrently noted general features of visual cultures in science and technology something hitherto unachieved and believed by many to be a mission impossible By systematic comparison of numerous case studies the purview broadens away from myopic microanalysis in search of overriding patterns The many different disciplines and research areas involved encompass mathematics technology natural history medicine the geosciences astronomy chemistry and physics The chosen examples span the period from the Renaissance to the late 20th century The broad range of visual representations in scientific practice is treated as well as schooling in pattern recognition design and implementation of visual devices and a narrowing in on the special role of illustrators and image specialists

Global Scientific Practice in an Age of Revolutions, 1750-1850 Patrick Manning, Daniel Rood, 2016-09-27 The century from 1750 to 1850 was a period of dramatic transformations in world history fostering several types of revolutionary change beyond the political landscape Independence movements in Europe the Americas and other parts of the world were catalysts for radical economic social and cultural reform And it was during this age of revolutions an era of rapidly expanding scientific investigation that profound changes in scientific knowledge and practice also took place In this volume an esteemed group of international historians examines key elements of science in societies across Spanish America Europe West Africa India and Asia as they overlapped each other increasingly Chapters focus on the range of participants in eighteenth and nineteenth century science their concentrated effort in description and taxonomy and advances in techniques for sharing knowledge Together contributors highlight the role of scientific change and development in tightening global and imperial connections encouraging a deeper conversation among historians of science and world historians and shedding new light on a pivotal moment in history for both fields

Aesthetic Science Alexander Wragge-Morley, 2020-04-20 The scientists affiliated with the early Royal Society of London have long been regarded as forerunners of modern empiricism rejecting the symbolic and moral goals of Renaissance natural history in favor of plainly representing the world as it really was In Aesthetic Science Alexander Wragge Morley challenges this interpretation by arguing that key figures such as John Ray Robert Boyle Nehemiah Grew Robert Hooke and Thomas Willis saw the study of nature as an aesthetic project To show how early modern naturalists conceived of the interplay between sensory experience and the production of knowledge Aesthetic Science explores natural historical and anatomical works of the Royal Society through the lens of the aesthetic By underscoring the importance of subjective experience to the communication of knowledge about nature Wragge Morley offers a groundbreaking reconsideration of scientific representation in the early modern period and brings to light the hitherto overlooked role of aesthetic experience in the history of the empirical sciences Building the French empire, 1600-1800 Benjamin Steiner, 2020-08-04 This study explores the shared history of the French empire from the perspective of material culture in order to re evaluate the participation of colonial Creole and indigenous agency in the construction of imperial spaces The decentred approach to a global history of the French colonial realm allows a new understanding of power relations in different locales Providing case studies from four parts of the French empire the book draws on illustrative evidence from the French archives in Aix en Provence and Paris as well as local archives in each colonial location The case studies in the Caribbean Canada Africa and India each examine building projects to show the mixed group of planners experts and workers the composite nature of building materials and elements of different global styles that give the empire its concrete manifestation Building the French empire gives a view of the French overseas empire in the early modern period not as a consequence or an outgrowth of Eurocentric state building but rather as the result of a globally interconnected process of empire building Natural Things in Early Modern Worlds Mackenzie Cooley, Anna Toledano, Duygu Yildirim, 2023-05-09 The essays and original visualizations collected in Natural Things in Early Modern Worlds explore the relationships among natural things ranging from pollen in a gust of wind to a carnivorous pitcher plant to a shell like skinned armadillo and the humans enthralled with them Episodes from 1500 to the early 1900s reveal connected histories across early modern worlds as natural things traveled across the Indian Ocean the Ottoman Empire Pacific islands Southeast Asia the Spanish Empire and Western Europe In distant worlds that were constantly changing with expanding networks of trade colonial aspirations and the rise of empiricism natural things obtained new meanings and became alienated from their origins Tracing the processes of their displacement each chapter starts with a piece of original artwork that relies on digital collage to pull image sources out of place and to represent meanings that natural things lost and remade Accessible and elegant Natural Things is the first study of its kind to combine original visualizations with the history of science Museum goers scholars scientists and students will find new histories of nature and collecting within Its playful visuality will capture the imagination of non academic and academic readers alike while reminding us of the alienating capacity of the modern life sciences Industrial Forests and Mechanical Marvels Teresa Cribelli, 2016-07-27 An account of modernization and technological innovation in nineteenth century Brazil that provides a distinctly Brazilian perspective Existing scholarship on the period describes the beginnings of Brazilian modernization as a European or North American import dependent on foreign capital transfers of technology and philosophical inspiration Promoters of modernization were considered few in number derivative in their thinking or thwarted by an entrenched slaveholding elite hostile to industrialization Teresa Cribelli presents a more nuanced picture Nineteenth century Brazilians selected among the transnational flow of ideas and technologies with care and attention to the specific conditions of their tropical nation Studying underutilized sources Cribelli illuminates a distinctly Brazilian vision of modernization that challenges the view that Brazil a nation dependent on slave labor for much of the nineteenth century was merely reactive in the face of the modernization models of the North Atlantic industrializing nations

Pictured Politics Emily Engel, 2020-03-23 The Spanish colonial period in South America saw artists develop the subgenre of official portraiture or portraits of key individuals in the continent's viceregal governments. Although these portraits appeared to illustrate a narrative of imperial splendor and absolutist governance, they instead became a visual record of the local history that emerged during the colonial occupation. Using the official portrait collections accumulated between 1542 and 1830 in Lima, Buenos Aires, and Bogotá as a lens, Pictured Politics explores how official portraiture originated and evolved to become an essential component in the construction of Ibero-American political relationships. Through the surviving portraits and archival evidence, including political treatises, travel accounts, and early periodicals, Emily Engel demonstrates that these official portraits not only belie a singular interpretation as tools of imperial domination but also visualize the continent's multilayered history of colonial occupation. The first stand-alone analysis of South American portraiture, Pictured Politics brings to light the historical relevance of political portraits in crafting the history of South American colonialism.

The Princeton Companion to Atlantic History Joseph C. Miller, Vincent Brown, Jorge Cañizares-Esguerra, Laurent Dubois, Karen Ordahl Kupperman, 2015-01-18 The first encyclopedic reference to Atlantic history. Between the fifteenth and nineteenth centuries, the connections among Africa, the Americas, and Europe transformed world history through maritime exploration, commercial engagements, human migrations, and settlements, political realignments, and upheavals, cultural exchanges, and more. This book, the first encyclopedic reference work on Atlantic history, takes an integrated, multicontinental approach that emphasizes the dynamics of change and the perspectives and motivations of the peoples who made it happen. The entries, all specially commissioned for this volume from an international team of leading scholars, synthesize the latest scholarship on central themes, including economics, migration, politics, war, technologies, and science, the physical environment, and culture. Part one features five major essays that trace the changes distinctive to each chronological phase of Atlantic history. Part two includes more than 125 entries on key topics from the seemingly familiar, viewed in unfamiliar and provocative ways: the Seven Years War, trading companies, to less conventional subjects: family networks, canon law, utopias. This is an indispensable resource for students, researchers, and scholars in a range of fields, from early American, African, Latin American, and European history to the histories of economics, religion, and science. The first encyclopedic reference on Atlantic history. Features five major essays and more than 125 alphabetical entries. Provides essential context on major areas of change: Economics, for example, the slave trade, marine resources, commodities, specie trading companies, Populations, emigrations, Native American removals, blended communities, Politics and law, the law of nations, royal liberties, paramount chiefdoms, independence struggles in Haiti, the Hispanic Americas, the United States, and France, Military actions, the African and Napoleonic wars, the Seven Years War, wars of conquest, Technologies and science, cartography, nautical science, geography, healing practices. The physical environment, climate and weather, forest resources, agricultural production, food, and
