You Can Afford to Stay Home with Your Kids Malia McCawley Wyckoff, Mary Snyder, 1999 A step by step guide for converting your family from two incomes to one

The Man who Mistook His Job for a Life Jonathon Lazear, 2001 At the end of the day what really matters Maybe it's been too long since you've asked yourself this question because the workday is never ending You just don't have time Indeed if you're like Jonathon Lazear was for years you don't seem to have time for much of anything besides work More recently Lazear a blindingly successful entrepreneur found himself lost burnt out and wondering not for the first time why But this time he did an extraordinary thing rather than sweep these uncertainties under his desk and get right back to work he made time to ask some of the biggest most important questions a man can ask questions he'd been avoiding since he started his career What really matters What are you afraid of What are your other dreams Who are you if you aren't your title and your paycheck How much money is enough money When was the last time you took a vacation and left work behind disconnected from your cell phone e mail pager fax and all the other toys that tell you you're important Gave someone you love a gift that cost more time than money What would you do on a Saturday if you weren't at the office or keeping tabs on work from home How will you reconnect with your family and face the fact that you checked out on your wife and kids for far too long Not only did Lazear confront these hard questions but with probing insight and deep sensitivity he found some answers and took them to heart And he wrote it all up so you can too No excuses So meet The Man Who Mistook His Job for a Life Short and to the point because no one knows better than he how busy you are thoughtful and wise yet eminently practical this book will remind you what really matters help you give up what you don't need and reclaim what you do Do you know what you're missing If you stopped to look at this book then at least somewhere deep down you probably do Or if you don't know exactly what at least you sense that you're missing something Certainly your family and friends miss you It s time to go home How do you end the workday or do you As a man who mistook his job for a life I have coped by remaining aloof even silent I have been an emotional isolationist fleeing a real and imagined ever present jury my coworkers my peers my family my wife even my children Sometimes I felt combative and aggressive but mostly I was lost unfeeling unresponsive And like you I felt like I didn t have a choice Downsizing rightsizing and just plain career terror had me clinging to my job for dear life If you ve picked up this book you re probably struggling with the same questions and doubts Your job has become such a big part of your life that it dwarfs everything else You ve spun a web that defines you but also conceals you It is your salvation and your damnation you re living inside the job and whether it makes you unhappy or fulfilled almost doesn t matter anymore because choice is not in the vocabulary of the man who mistakes his job for a life What happened to the dreams that used to keep us going From the Introduction The Transforming Habits of a Growing Christian William D. Watkins,2004 Watkins puts Christians on the road to developing life changing habits that enrich their love for God and their experience of God s love for them by encouraging them to embrace the spiritual disciplines including simplicity prayer study confession and service and make them part of everyday life No More Blue Mondays Robin A. Sheerer,1999 Feeling stuck victimized or unhappy at work Whether you are employed or unemployed contemplating a job change or loyally committed to where you are right now in this book Robin Sheerer shows you how to apply four powerful life principles to rediscover the satisfaction and fulfillment that can be derived from work Books Out Loud ,2007 Forthcoming Books Rose Army,2004
