

Your World

Poem by Georgia Douglas Johnson

Georgia Douglas Johnson (1880–1966) was one of the most famous African American women writers of the early 1900s. She is associated with the Harlem Renaissance—an African American literary and cultural movement of the 1920s and 1930s. Johnson wrote four volumes of poetry as well as plays and fiction.

SETTING A PURPOSE Sometimes a poem contains a message designed to inspire. As you read, consider the poet’s message and how it may inspire others to take risks.

Your world is as big as you make it
I know, for I used to abide
In the narrowest nest in a corner
My wings pressing close to my side.

- 5 But I sighted the distant horizon
Where the sky-line encircled the sea
And I throbbed with a burning desire
To travel this immensity.

I battered the cordons^[1]

- 10 And cradled my wings on the breeze
Then soared to the uttermost reaches
With rapture, with power, with ease!

COLLABORATIVE DISCUSSION In what ways does this poem teach a lesson about risk-taking? Share your ideas with other group members.
