

A reproduction of a painting by Winslow Homer, showing a man in a straw hat and dark jacket sitting in a small wooden boat on a choppy sea. The boat has the word 'CENTER' visible on its side. The sky is filled with soft, white clouds, and the water is a mix of dark and light greenish-blue. The overall mood is contemplative and serene.

Winslow Homer An American Vision:

Winslow Homer Randall C Griffin, 2017-05-07 The peerless and comprehensive survey of this important American artist now available in paperback for the first time This thoroughly researched immensely readable study on Winslow Homer one of America's most significant and prolific painters presents a full account of his life and work and offers a fresh and provocative reassessment of his place in the history of late nineteenth century art Homer's work is popular and accessible and Griffin's text with its solid documentation original research and fresh interpretations has become an essential survey of Homer and his creative output

American Vision Raymond Carney, 1986-10-31 Professor Carney analyses Frank Capra's life as well as the broad cultural context of his films

Homer, Eakins, and Anshutz: The Search for American Identity in the Gilded Age Randall C. Griffin, 2004 Randall Griffin's book examines the ways in which artists and critics sought to construct a new identity for America during the era dubbed the Gilded Age because of its leaders' taste for opulence Artists such as Winslow Homer Thomas Eakins and Thomas Anshutz explored alternative American themes and styles but widespread belief in the superiority of European art led them and their audiences to look to the Old World for legitimacy This rich never resolved contradiction between the native and autonomous on the one hand and on the other the European and borrowed serves as the armature of Griffin's innovative look at how and why the world of art became a key site in the American struggle for identity Not only does Griffin trace the interplay of issues of nationalism class and gender in American culture but he also offers insightful readings of key paintings by Eakins and other canonical artists Further Griffin shows that by 1900 the nationalist project in art and criticism had helped open the way for the formulation of American modernism Homer Eakins and Anshutz will be of importance to all those interested in American culture as well as to specialists in art history and art criticism

Winslow Homer and the Camera Frank H. Goodyear III, Dana E. Byrd, 2018-01-01 A revelatory exploration of Winslow Homer's engagement with photography shedding new light on his celebrated paintings and works on paper One of the greatest American painters of the 19th century Winslow Homer 1836-1910 also maintained a deep engagement with photography throughout his career Focusing on the important yet often overlooked role that photography played in Homer's art this volume exposes Homer's own experiments with the camera he first bought one in 1882 It also explores how the medium of photography and the larger visual economy influenced his work as a painter watercolorist and printmaker at a moment when new print technologies inundated the public with images Frank Goodyear and Dana Byrd demonstrate that photography offered Homer new ways of seeing and representing the world from his early commercial engravings sourced from contemporary photographs to the complex relationship between his late career paintings of life in the Bahamas Florida and Cuba and the emergent trend of tourist photography The authors argue that Homer's understanding of the camera's ability to create an image that is simultaneously accurate and capable of deception was vitally important to his artistic practice in all media Richly illustrated and full of exciting new discoveries Winslow Homer and the Camera is a long overdue
