Verschillende ouwe heeren Arnold Weruméus Buning, 1886 The Humour of Holland Various, 2021-11-05 The Humour of Holland is a delightful anthology that presents a rich tapestry of Dutch humor ranging from witty anecdotes to satirical commentaries on societal norms This collection showcases the unique literary style inherent in Dutch comedy characterized by its blend of dry wit and playful irreverence The authors draw upon the rich cultural context of the Netherlands juxtaposing historical references with contemporary observations thereby creating a humorous lens through which readers can explore the complexities of Dutch life and identity The anthology features contributions from various eminent Dutch authors and comedians some of whom have had long standing careers in literature and theater Their backgrounds steeped in the nuances of Dutch culture and everyday experiences inform their creative works This compilation reflects both the authors understanding of humor s role in society and their desire to highlight the quirks that define the human condition in the Netherlands making it a vibrant language of laughter and insight The Humour of Holland is not only a joy to read but serves as an essential reference for anyone wishing to understand the cultural fabric of the Netherlands It invites readers both connoisseurs of humor and curious newcomers to revel in the laughter that transcends borders making it a highly recommended addition to literary collections Berschillende ouwe heeren Johan Willem Frederik Werumeus Buning, 1939

The Humour of Holland Anonymous, There appears to be an idea abroad to the effect that the Humour of Holland could be most satisfactorily dealt with in a chapter resembling the famous one Of Snakes in Ireland As the average English reader in the most favourable instances knows little more of Dutch literature than a name or two Rembrandt has introduced us to the poet Vondel and if Southey were not so little read in these days Bilderdijk and Cats would not be so unfamiliar the subject offers a free field to the constructive imagination Yet even so one would think it must be obvious that the nation which has produced a Teniers a Jan Steen and in some of his moods a Rembrandt could not be entirely destitute of humour The estimate of its quality may be a question of taste but though many people practically do adopt this form of logic we cannot make the fact of our not finding it to our liking a ground for denying its existence Of course before determining what the humour of a nation is like we need to know what is that nation s intellectual bent as a whole and what forces have been at work to determine its character On this point we may quote a paragraph or two from a Dutch writer J H Hooijer whom we shall meet again in the course of these pages He is describing a village in North Holland in the heart of the fat meadow lands famous for the production of Dutch cheeses The same village which you find so depressing this November day so damp so clammy so dripping with water makes a very different impression when Spring with full hands has showered her blossom snow over the orchards or in the autumn when the trees are hanging full of golden pears or rosy apples Greener meadow land is nowhere on earth unless it be in the Emerald Isle itself The rich green pastures have velvety lights in the sunshine and the splendid cattle their dappled skins smooth and shining as silk show out to advantage against it colour on colour At such times there is a glow of colour in the whole landscape which strange as it may sound reminds one of the South a glow one might almost think was stolen from the palettes of the Old Masters Every breath you draw is perfumed with new milk and flowers mingled with the salt smell of the sea There is a fulness of outward life a bubbling up and overflowing of vital juices for which they had an eye and a heart those great old realists The man who despises a rich clover pasture speckled here and there with white fleeced sheep who cannot spare a look for the magnificent horned cattle that stand staring at you with dreamy half sad gaze over the fence while Geertje's black eyes flash at you from behind the milking pail well he need not come to North Holland Intellectuals of this sort exclusively devoted to the contemplation of the sublime will find everything ugly in these parts To such an one our Old Masters have nothing to say for him Paul Potter's art is a mere waste of time and many a racy bit of Vondel trivial nonsense Happily the cheery sun is of another mind and his smile falls well pleased on the endless emerald plain He nurses it feeds it warms it he sweetens the blades of grass for the palate of the pampered cow And sometimes just before setting he draws along the horizon with purple finger broad streaks of crimson fire and then the dykes flame out like ruby bands winding over the green velvet robe of the earth and you wish for the power of wielding the brush so as to throw on canvas what one might almost call these brutal effects of colour The Humour of Holland ,1893
