Victor Babette Mann Huber, 2006 Victor tells the unique story of a historic community in the Finger Lakes region just south of Rochester It chronicles Victor s past as a Seneca Indian capital to the coming of Massachusetts settlers in the 18th century through to life as it was in the 20th century With over 200 photographs this book shows how people in rural upstate New York lived played studied worked and worshiped The images are from the town and village archives the Victor Historical Society the Ontario County Historical Society and private collections Many are previously unpublished photographs and several are by Fred Locke an amateur photographer who is considered to be the father of porcelain insulators A History of Ontario County, New York and Its People Charles F. Milliken, 1911 Genealogical and Family History of Southern New York and the Hudson River Valley Cuyler Reynolds, 1914 The Mother Town Gwen Kennedy Neville, 1994 Horses with riders trailed by foot processions silver bands and pipe bands furling medieval banners lavish costumes and singers and actors the Common Riding is an elaborate little studied ritual phenomenon of the border towns of Scotland In this vividly written and insightful analysis Gwen Kennedy Neville uses this civic ceremony as a window for glimpsing the process of ritual symbol and experience in the development of the concept of the town in Western culture Based on extensive fieldwork in the town of Selkirk The Mother Town looks at the Common Riding in detail uncovering pre Reformation symbolism and pageantry often medieval and Catholic in a region that has been Protestant for over four hundred years Neville shows how the ceremony is a model of the way civic ritual serves to construct a system of towns which gives rise to the modern world Further she contends that these civic rituals create a ceremonial setting in which the contradictions between tradition and modernity can be temporarily resolved and where past and present live side by side Neville offers a provocative and illuminating study of how the ritual of Common Riding makes a dramatic statement about local strife communal independence and Protestantism in the towns of the Scottish Borders

Our Town Cynthia Carr, 2006-03-21

The brutal lynching of two young black men in Marion Indiana on August 7 1930 cast a shadow over the town that still lingers It is only one event in the long and complicated history of race relations in Marion a history much ignored and considered by many to be best forgotten But the lynching cannot be forgotten It is too much a part of the fabric of Marion too much ingrained even now in the minds of those who live there In Our Town journalist Cynthia Carr explores the issues of race loyalty and memory in America through the lens of a specific hate crime that occurred in Marion but could have happened anywhere Marion is our town America's town and its legacy is our legacy Like everyone in Marion Carr knew the basic details of the lynching even as a child three black men were arrested for attempted murder and rape and two of them were hanged in the courthouse square a fate the third miraculously escaped Meeting James Cameron the man who'd survived led her to examine how the quiet Midwestern town she loved could harbor such dark secrets Spurred by the realization that like her millions of white Americans are intimately connected to this hidden history Carr began an investigation into the events of that night racism in Marion the presence of the Ku Klux Klan past and present in Indiana and her own grandfather's involvement She uncovered a pattern of white guilt and indifference of black anger and fear that are the hallmark of race relations across the country In a sweeping narrative that takes her from the angry energy of a white supremacist rally to the peaceful fields of Weaver once an all black settlement neighboring Marion in search of the good and the bad in the story of race in America Carr returns to her roots to seek out the fascinating people and places that have shaped the town Her intensely compelling account of the Marion lynching and of her own family's secrets offers a fresh examination of the complex legacy of whiteness in America Part mystery part history part true crime saga Our Town is a riveting read that lays bare a raw and little chronicled facet of our national memory and provides a starting point toward reconciliation with the past On August 7 1930 three black teenagers were dragged from their jail cells in Marion Indiana and beaten before a howling mob Two of them were hanged by fate the third escaped A photo taken that night shows the bodies hanging from the tree but focuses on the faces in the crowd some enraged some laughing and some subdued perhaps already feeling the first pangs of regret Sixty three years later journalist Cynthia Carr began searching the photo for her grandfather's face

American Biographical History of Eminent and Self-made Men ... ,1878 Our Town David L. Kirp,John P. Dwyer,Larry A. Rosenthal,1995 An account of the legal battle to open up New Jersey's suburbs to the poor looking at the views of lawyers on both sides of the controversy It is a case study of judicial activism and its consequences and an analysis of suburban attitudes regarding race class and property
