Aspect in Mandarin Chinese Richard Xiao, Tony McEnery, 2004-11-29 Chinese as an aspect language has played an important role in the development of aspect theory This book is a systematic and structured exploration of the linguistic devices that Mandarin Chinese employs to express aspectual meanings The work presented here is the first corpus based account of aspect in Chinese encompassing both situation aspect and viewpoint aspect In using corpus data the book seeks to achieve a marriage between theory driven and corpus based approaches to linguistics The corpus based model presented explores aspect at both the semantic and grammatical levels At the semantic level a two level model of situation aspect is proposed which covers both the lexical and sentential levels thus giving a better account of the compositional nature of situation aspect At the grammatical level four perfective and four imperfective aspects in Chinese are explored in detail This exploration corrects many intuition based misconceptions and associated misleading conclusions about aspect in Chinese common in the literature good grasp of both the technical and business perspectives of an e business service There have been many books on the Internet based on e commerce Internet protocols distributed components etc However none of these books address the problem of managing e business as a set of networked services They do not link enterprise management with network and systems management This book provides an overview of the emerging techniques for IT service management from a business perspective with case studies from telecommunication and healthcare sectors It integrates the business perspective with relevant technical standards such as SNMP WBEM and DMI This book presents some concepts and methodologies that enable the development of effective and efficient management systems for networked services The book is intended to familiarize practicing managers engineers and graduate level students with networked service management concepts architectures and methodologies with reference to evolving standards It should be useful in a number of disciplines such as business management information systems computers and networking and telecommunications Appendix 2 is based on TeleManagement TM Forum s documents on TOM GB921 GB910 and GB908 While this appendix has explained the basic management concept of an e telco TMForum now recommends the use of eTOM as explained in www.tmforum.com An overview of eTOM is available in the report The TeleManagement Forum s enhanced Telecom Operations Map eTOM by Michael Kelly appearing in the Journal of Network and Systems Management in March 2003
