Women Without Class Girls Race And Identity:

Women without Class Julie Bettie, 2014-09-18 In this ethnographic examination of Mexican American and white girls coming of age in California's Central Valley Julie Bettie turns class theory on its head asking what cultural gestures are involved in the performance of class and how class subjectivity is constructed in relationship to color ethnicity gender and sexuality A new introduction contextualizes the book for the contemporary moment and situates it within current directions in cultural theory Investigating the cultural politics of how inequalities are both reproduced and challenged Bettie examines the discursive formations that provide a context for the complex identity performances of contemporary girls The book's title refers at once to young working class women who have little cultural capital to enable class mobility to the fact that analyses of class too often remain insufficiently transformed by feminist ethnic and queer studies and to the failure of some feminist theory itself to theorize women as class subjects Women without Class makes a case for analytical and political attention to class but not at the expense of attention to other social formations

Mapping Inequality in an Era of Neoliberalism Stephen Valocchi, 2024-09-20 Offering a unique comprehensive and critical introduction to increasingly visible social inequalities this textbook examines the political and economic causes and cultural consequences of a stratifying system that allocates material resources and human dignity on the basis of private profit and labor exploitation Mapping Inequality in an Era of Neoliberalism foregrounds capitalism as the major source of the power relations in the United States as a class system that serves the dominant vector of inequality and sets the parameters of social mobility The book starts with racialized capitalist power and shows how this power is constituted in structures of opportunity and constraint It also uses ethnographic accounts to flip the script to show how individuals in the class structure construct identities Providing students with tools for understanding Valocchi engagingly introduces many of the crucial concepts in this area of sociology power opportunity structures ideology social and cultural capitals and intersectional class identities connecting them as part of a uniquely critical approach

Geographies of Campus Inequality Janel E. Benson, Elizabeth M. Lee, 2020-07-31 In efforts to improve equity selective college campuses are increasingly focused on recruiting and retaining first generation students those whose parents have not graduated from college In Geographies of Campus Inequality sociologists Benson and Lee argue that these approaches may fall short if they fail to consider the complex ways first generation status intersects with race ethnicity and gender Drawing on interview and survey data from selective campuses the authors show that first generation students do not share a universal experience Rather first generation students occupy one of four disparate geographies on campus within which they negotiate academic responsibilities build relationships engage in campus life and develop post college aspirations Importantly the authors demonstrate how geographies are shaped by organizational practices and campus constructions of class race and gender Geographies of Campus Inequality expands the understanding of first generation students campus lives and opportunities for mobility by showing there is more than one way to be first contributions in the collection support this endeavor Global Identity in Multicultural and International Educational Contexts Nigel Bagnall, 2015-03-27 The increased movement of people globally has changed the face of national and international schooling Higher levels of mobility have resulted from both the willing movement of students and their families with a desire to create a better life and the forced movement of refugee families travelling away from war famine and other extreme circumstances This book explores the idea that the complex connections created by the forces of globalisation have led to a diminishing difference between what were once described as international schools and national schools By examining a selection of responses from students attending international schools in Brazil the United Kingdom France Germany the Philippines and Switzerland the book discusses key issues surrounding identity and cosmopolitan senses of belonging Chapters draw from current literature and recent qualitative research to highlight the concerns that students face within the international school community including social psychological and academic difficulties The interviews provide a rich and unique body of knowledge demonstrating how perceptions of identity and belonging are changing especially with affiliation to a national or a global identity The notion that international students have become global citizens through their affiliation to a global rather than a national identity exhibits a changing and potentially irreversible trend Global Identity in Multicultural and International Educational Contexts will be of key interest to researchers academics and policy makers involved with international schooling and globalised education Handbook of Cultural Sociology Laura Grindstaff, John R. Hall, Ming-Cheng M. Lo, 2010-09-13 Pt 1 Sociological programs of cultural analysis pt 2 Theories and methodologies in cultural analysis pt 3 Aesthetics ethics and cultural legitimacy pt 4 Individuals and groups identities and performances pt 5 Culture and stratification pt 6 Making using culture pt 7 Cultures of work and professions pt 8 Political cultures pt 9 Global cultures global processes pt 10 Cultural processes and change Consent on Campus Donna Freitas, 2018-08-01 Americans have finally started to pay attention to the sexual assault crisis on our college campuses Yet Donna Freitas warns the way universities educate students about sexual assault and consent is wholly inadequate Universities are she argues more focused on avoiding lawsuits and scandals than on addressing the heart of the problem Freitas advocates for teaching not just how to consent but why it s important to care about consent and for doing so in the university s most important space the classroom Consent on Campus is a call to action for university administrators faculty parents and students themselves to create cultures of consent on their campuses Psychology and Gender Dysphoria Jemma Tosh, 2016-03-02 Psychiatry and psychology have a long and highly debated history in relation to gender In particular they have attracted criticism for policing the boundaries of normal gender expression through gender identity diagnoses such as transvestism transsexualism gender identity disorder and gender dysphoria Drawing on discursive psychology this book traces the historical development of psychiatric constructions of normal and abnormal gender expression It contextualizes the recent reconstruction of gender in the 5th edition of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders DSM 5 and its criteria for gender dysphoria

This latest diagnosis illustrates the continued disagreement and debate within the profession surrounding gender identity as disordered. It also provides an opportunity to reflect on the conflicted history between feminist and transgender communities in the changing context of a more trans positive feminism and the implications of these diagnoses for these distinct but linked communities. Psychology and Gender Dysphoria examines debates and controversies surrounding psychiatric diagnoses and theories related to gender and gender nonconformity by exploring recent research examples of collaborative perspectives and existing feminist and trans texts. As such, the book is relevant for postgraduate and postdoctoral researchers of gender feminism and critical psychology as well as historical issues within psychiatry. Academic Profiling Gilda L.

Ochoa, 2013-10-01 Today the achievement gap is hotly debated among pundits, politicians, and educators. In particular, this conversation often focuses on the two fastest growing demographic groups in the United States: Asian Americans and Latinos. In Academic Profiling, Gilda L. Ochoa addresses this so-called gap by going directly to the source. At one California public high school where the controversy is lived every day, Ochoa turns to the students, teachers, and parents to learn about the very real disparities in opportunity, status, treatment, and assumptions that lead to more than just gaps in achievement. In candid and at times heart-wrenching detail, the students tell stories of encouragement and neglect on their paths to graduation. Separated by unequal middle schools and curriculum tracking, they are divided by race, class, and gender. While those channeled into an International Baccalaureate Program boast about Socratic classes and stress release sessions, students left out of such programs commonly describe uninspired teaching and inaccessible counseling. Students unequally labeled encounter differential policing and assumptions based on their abilities. Disparities compounded by the growth in the private tutoring industry that favors the already economically privileged. Despite the entrenched inequality in today's schools, Academic Profiling finds hope in the many ways students and teachers are affirming identities, creating alternative spaces, and fostering critical consciousness. When Ochoa shares the results of her research with the high school, we see the new possibilities and limits of change. Learning to Belong in the World Tomoko Tokunaga, 2018-03-15

This book provides a complex and intricate portrayal of Asian American high school girls, which has been an under-researched population as cultural mediators, diasporic agents, and community builders who negotiate displacement and attachment in challenging worlds. Between Based on two years of ethnographic fieldwork, Tomoko Tokunaga presents a portrait of the girls' hardships, dilemmas, and dreams while growing up in an interconnected world. This book contributes a new understanding of the roles of immigrant children and youth as agents of globalization and sophisticated border crossers who have the power and agency to construct belonging and identity across multiple contexts, spaces, times, activities, and relationships. It has much to offer to the construction of educative communities and spaces where immigrant youth, specifically immigrant girls, can thrive.
