What type of training is needed to meet the needs of changing economies? How should the programmes be funded? How should they be linked to academic and university programmes? Progress of Public Education in the United States of America United States. Office of Education, 1990 Progress of Education in the United States of America, 1990 Federal Register, 1991-12-06 Good to Great to Innovate Lyn Sharratt, Gale Harild, 2014-09-12 Guide your students to a successful future in the new economy. How can schools best prepare students for the highly competitive job market and global economy? This compelling book presents a transformative approach to college and career readiness within the public education system based on data and best practices contributed by outstanding schools on five continents. Written for education leaders at all levels, this resource shows how to design an innovative pathways approach to career readiness that empowers students as informed decision makers. Integrate career training into curriculum through a network of local community partners. Develop an approach to life skill preparation K-12 that is inclusive of all. Learn how educators and entire school systems can consistently support career development, helping students find rewarding paths forward. Congratulations and thanks Sharratt and Harild for this inspirational look at innovation as the next step to move school systems from Good to Great. The examples and advice shared throughout this book and its precursor Putting Faces on the Data have been catalysts for leading my team to thoughtful collective action within our K-12 Family of Schools as we create pathways for The Literate Graduates together. Joy Uniac, Superintendent of Education, Peel District School Board, Ontario, Canada. Through extensive research and practical examples, this outstanding book puts forward a compelling case for structured collaborative inquiry processes to achieve success for ALL students. Janelle Wills, Director, Marzano Institute, Australia. Without question, the job market demands agility, resourcefulness, innovation, and fearlessness.
