Routledge Handbook of Chinese Media Gary D. Rawnsley, Ming-yeh T. Rawnsley, 2015-04-24 The study of Chinese media is a field that is growing and evolving at an exponential rate Not only are the Chinese media a fascinating subject for analysis in their own right but they also offer scholars and students a window to observe multi directional flows of information culture and communications within the contexts of globalization and regionalization Moreover the study of Chinese media provides an invaluable opportunity to test and refine the variety of communications theories that researchers have used to describe analyse compare and contrast systems of communications The Routledge Handbook of Chinese Media is a prestigious reference work providing an overview of the study of Chinese media Gary and Ming Yeh Rawnsley bring together an interdisciplinary perspective with contributions by an international team of renowned scholars on subjects such as television journalism and the internet and social media Locating Chinese media within a regional setting by focusing on Greater China the People s Republic of China Taiwan Hong Kong Macau and overseas Chinese communities the chapters highlight the convergence of media and platforms in the region and emphasise the multi directional and trans national character of media information flows in East Asia Contributing to the growing de westernization of media and communications studies this handbook is an essential and comprehensive reference work for students of all levels and scholars in the fields of Chinese Studies and Media Studies

Technomobility in China Cara Wallis, 2015-03-06 Winner of the 2014 Bonnie Ritter Book Award Winner of the 2013 James W Carey Media Research Award As unprecedented waves of young rural women journey to cities in China not only to work but also to see the world and gain some autonomy they regularly face significant institutional obstacles as well as deep seated anti rural prejudices Based on immersive fieldwork Cara Wallis provides an intimate portrait of the social cultural and economic implications of mobile communication for a group of young women engaged in unskilled service work in Beijing where they live and work for indefinite periods of time While simultaneously situating her work within the fields of feminist studies technology studies and communication theory Wallis explores the way in which the cell phone has been integrated into the transforming social structures and practices of contemporary China and the ways in which mobile technology enables rural young women a population that has been traditionally marginalized and deemed as backward and other to participate in and create culture allowing them to perform a modern rural urban identity In this theoretically rich and empirically grounded analysis Wallis provides original insight into the co construction of technology and subjectivity as well as the multiple forces that shape contemporary China

Digital Platforms, Imperialism and Political Culture Dal Yong Jin, 2015-03-24 In the networked twenty first century digital platforms have significantly influenced capital accumulation and digital culture Platforms such as social network sites e g Facebook search engines e g Google and smartphones e g iPhone are increasingly crucial because they function as major digital media intermediaries Emerging companies in non Western countries have created unique platforms controlling their own national markets and competing with Western based platform empires in the global markets The reality though is that only a handful of Western countries primarily the U S have dominated the global platform markets resulting in capital accumulation in the hands of a few mega platform owners This book contributes to the platform imperialism discourse by mapping out several core areas of platform imperialism such as intellectual property the global digital divide and free labor focusing on the role of the nation state alongside transnational capital Online@AsiaPacific Larissa Hjorth, Michael Arnold, 2013-03-20 Media across the Asia Pacific region are at once social locative and mobile Social in that these media facilitate public and interpersonal interaction locative in that this social communication is geographically placed and mobile in so much as the media is ever present The Asia Pacific region has been pivotal in the production shaping and consumption of personal new media technologies and through social and mobile media we can see emerging certain types of personal politics that are inflected by the local The six case studies that inform this book Seoul Tokyo Shanghai Manila Singapore and Melbourne offer a range of economic socio cultural and linguistic differences enabling the authors to provide new insights into specific issues pertaining to mobile media in each city These include social mobile and locative media as a form of crisis management in post 3 11 Tokyo generational shifts in Shanghai political discussion and the shifting social fabric in Singapore and the erosion of public and private and work and leisure paradigms in Melbourne Through its striking case studies this book sheds new light on how the region and its contested and multiple identities are evolving and concludes by revealing the impact of mobile media on how place is shaped as well as shaping practices of mobility intimacy and a sense of belonging Employing comprehensive cross disciplinary frameworks from theoretical approaches such as media sociology ethnography cultural studies and media and communication studies Online AsiaPacific will be of huge interest to students and scholars of Asian culture and society cybercultures new media studies communication studies and internet studies An Anthropological Approach to mHealth Charlotte Hawkins, Patrick Awondo, Daniel Miller, 2024-10-28 This book proposes a radically different anthropological approach to the development and dissemination of mobile health mHealth a rapidly growing sector in healthcare An Anthropological Approach to mHealth is based on ten 16 month ethnographies in settings across Asia Africa Europe and Latin America that showed how conventional health apps may be irrelevant particularly for older people Instead the studies found that many people use their mobile and smartphones for health purposes to a surprising extent They take the communicative apps they have become comfortable with such as LINE WeChat and WhatsApp and are highly creative in turning them into their own health apps These are the practices from which this book seeks to learn in what we call a smart from below approach This body of research also provided many additional insights including the consequences of googling for health information the role of the smartphone in specific settings such as an oncology clinic in Chile or tele psychotherapy in Uganda and the lessons learnt during Covid 19 around the problems in self tracking Overall the authors show how an anthropological approach situated in the observation of everyday life can be the foundation for an alternative but highly promising perspective on the future of mHealth

Humans and Machines at Work Phoebe V. Moore, Martin Upchurch, Xanthe Whittaker, 2017-10-06 This edited collection provides a series of accounts of workers' local experiences that reflect the ubiquity of work's digitalisation. Precarious gig economy workers ride bikes and drive taxis in China and Britain; call centre workers in India experience invasive tracking; warehouse workers discover that hidden data has been used for layoffs; and academic researchers see their labour obscured by a data foam that does not benefit them. These cases are couched in historical accounts of identity and selfhood, experiments seen in the Hawthorne experiments and the lineage of automation. This book will appeal to scholars in the Sociology of Work and Digital Labour Studies and anyone interested in learning about monitoring and surveillance, automation, the gig economy, and the quantified self in the workplace.

Prototype Nation Silvia M. Lindtner, 2020-09-15 A vivid look at China's shifting place in the global political economy of technology production. How did China's mass manufacturing and copycat production become transformed in the global tech imagination from something holding the nation back to one of its key assets? Prototype Nation offers a rich transnational analysis of how the promise of democratized innovation and entrepreneurial life has shaped China's governance and global image. With historical precision and ethnographic detail, Silvia Lindtner reveals how a growing distrust in Western models of progress and development, including Silicon Valley and the tech industry after the financial crisis of 2007-8, shaped the rise of the global maker movement and the vision of China as a new frontier of innovation. Lindtner's investigations draw on more than a decade of research in experimental work spaces, makerspaces, coworking spaces, innovation hubs, hackathons, and startup weekends in China, the United States, Africa, Europe, Taiwan, and Singapore, as well as in key sites of technology investment and industrial production: tech incubators, corporate offices, and factories. She examines how the ideals of the maker movement to intervene in social and economic structures served the technopolitical project of prototyping a new, optimistic, assertive, and global China. In doing so, Lindtner demonstrates that entrepreneurial living influences governance, education, policy, investment, and urban redesign in ways that normalize the persistence of sexism, racism, colonialism, and labor exploitation. Prototype Nation shows that by attending to the bodies and sites that nurture entrepreneurial life, technology can be extricated from the seemingly endless cycle of promise and violence.

Routledge Handbook of New Media in Asia Larissa Hjorth, Olivia Khoo, 2015-11-06 While a decade ago much of the discussion of new media in Asia was couched in Occidental notions of Asia as a default setting for technology in the future, today we are seeing a much more complex picture of contesting new media practices and production. As new media becomes increasingly an everyday reality for young and old across Asia through smartphones and associated devices, boundaries between art, new media, and the everyday are transformed. This Handbook addresses the historical, social, cultural, political, philosophical, artistic, and economic dimensions of the region's new media. Through an interdisciplinary revision of both new media and Asia, the contributors provide new insights into the complex and contesting terrains of both notions The Routledge Handbook of New Media in Asia will be the definitive publication for readers interested in comprehending all the various aspects of new media in Asia It provides an authoritative up to date intellectually broad conceptually cutting edge guide to the important aspects of new media in the region as the first point of consultation for researchers advanced level undergraduate and postgraduate students in fields of new media and Asian studies

Homelessness and Mobile Communication Justine Humphry, 2022-10-20 This book examines how mobile phones and the internet have become a vital part of the everyday lives of people experiencing homelessness But the access mobile phones provide is costly insecure and limited producing an experience of being precariously connected Drawing on findings of research conducted with over one hundred young people families and adults experiencing homelessness in Australia and the United States this book analyses homelessness as a mediated condition and explores the underpinning processes that shape digital disparities It contributes to scholarship on mobile communication and inequality highlighting the digital patterns issues and difficulties of a group disproportionately affected by service reform and developments in digital citizenship smart cities and algorithmic governance

The Other Digital China Jing Wang, 2019-12-10 Westerners tend to equate political action with revolution and open criticism leading to concerns that the less outspoken citizens of nonliberal societies are brainwashed complicit or paralyzed by fear Jing Wang shatters this myth showing how online activists in China are quietly building powerful coalitions for incremental social change
