Flex Annie Auerbach, 2021-02-23 Seasoned trends forecaster and consultant Annie Auerbach takes a fresh look at women's professional lives today by rethinking the 9 to 5 in this no nonsense guide to thinking and behaving more flexibly in order to have a happier better less frenetic life Marie Claire now widely available for American readers and updated with an author note addressing work in the post Covid age The recent coronavirus outbreak has proven what Annie Auerbach has long championed working 9 5 in an office doesn't work for most of us It's time to change the rules We can be efficient and productive when we're allowed the freedom of flexibility to meet deadlines working during the hours and in the places we choose But before the coronavirus pandemic only 47 percent of American workers had access to flexible working options Annie Auerbach advises major corporations including Nike Google Unilever and Pepsico She understands work culture and the needs of employees The world is changing for working women but until the recent pandemic companies turned a blind eye Now it s time to make this change routine Auerbach reiterates the importance of leaving the office cubicle behind and explores the realities many women experience working from home and the changes to their daily lives including the trickle down effects from emotional labor to balancing childcare and education with work to even biohacking the female body s unique rhythms What happens when women embrace the concept of flex We become more creative more strategic with our time and energy and more engaged with our personal lives As Auerbach makes clear we reject our toxic culture of presenteeism time pressure and ultimately burnout It helps us escape the army of octopus lady jugglers crazed with the exhaustion of having it all It allows us to live longer lives more sustainably It gives us self worth

Predictors of Employment for Women in a Life Transition Kathryn Higley, 1997 This research explored the association between positive employment outcome getting a job above poverty wage and several intake variables for women in transition The variables self esteem anxiety and or depression pretreatment change family functioning community social support and counseling and assertiveness classes were identified from the literature for their probable association with positive employment outcome The intervention of taking an assertiveness class was statistically associated with positive employment outcome The other variables appear to be linked to positive employment outcome in the direction hypothesized although none of them reached statistical significance The demographic variables of family size and employment status at intake were significantly associated with positive employment outcome A discriminant analysis indicated that women with larger family size and greater self esteem who are unemployed and take an assertiveness class were more likely to experience positive employment outcome Your Work from Home
