the aesthetic and commercial history of early cinema and provides a new perspective on the intersection of American culture imperialism and modernity in the nickelodeon era Peterson describes the travelogue's characteristic form and style and demonstrates how imperialist ideologies were realized and reshaped through the moving image She argues that although educational films were intended to legitimate filmgoing for middle class audiences travelogues were not simply vehicles for elite ideology As a form of instructive entertainment these technological moving landscapes were both formulaic and also wondrous and dreamlike Considering issues of spectatorship and affect Peterson argues that scenics produced and disrupted viewers complacency about their own place in the world
