Pentsov, 2007-10-31 The importance of international maritime labour law both as a component of international maritime law and in socio political and economic terms has been recognised by the IMO International Maritime Law Institute for a number of years Indeed the Institute has annually organised a course on maritime labour law with the participation of inter alia the International Maritime Organization the International Labour Organization the International Transport Workers Federation and the German Shipowners Association It was therefore a great pleasure when the authors invited me to introduce their forthcoming monograph on Maritime Work Law Fundamentals Responsible S powners Reliable Seafarers As the title suggests a fundamental challenge of this branch of international maritime law is to achieve a balance between the interests of the two main stakeholders Institutionally the effort to achieve this balance dates back a number of decades with its genesis mainly found in the work of the International Labour Organization It has to be said that whilst this effort achieved great progress it has led to a haphazard plethora of legal instruments *Working with the Democracy at Work Ruth Dukes, Wolfgang Streeck, 2022-10-12 In the countries of the global North workplace democracy may be thought of as a thing of the past Increasingly working relations are regulated primarily by contract workforces are fissured and fragmented What are the consequences of this How should we respond Ruth Dukes and Wolfgang Streeck argue that the time is ripe to restate the principles of industrial democracy and citizenship for the post industrial era Considering developments within political economy employment relations and labour law since the postwar decades they trace the rise of globalization and the dualization of labour markets the emergence of a core and periphery of workers and the progressive insulation of working relations from democratic governance What these developments amount to they argue is an urgent need for political intervention to tame the new world of gigging and other forms of highly precarious work This according to the authors will require far reaching institution building designed to fill legal concepts such as employment with political substance This eloquent call for a reimagining and renewal of the institutional and material conditions of freedom of association and the reinvention of industrial democracy will be crucial reading for anyone interested in work in the twenty first century The Lumber Manufacturer and Dealer, 1920 The Law Reports of the Incorporated Council of Law Reporting Great Britain. extraction looking at both large scale processes and personal human environment interactions It combines a political ecology focus on the connection between environmental issues and power relations with a focus on how value is produced represented and materialized Annual Report ... Michigan.
