Review by Ryan Cecil Jobson

John L. Jackson, Jr., Thin Description: Ethnography and the African Hebrew Israelites of Jerusalem. Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, 2013. x + 394 pp.

It is telling that Thin Description: Ethnography and the African Hebrew Israelites of Jerusalem, a monograph that so blatantly defies ethnographic convention, opens on an airplane en route to the Holy Land. As John Jackson later details, the classical anthropological trope of the “arrival scene” is an authenticating gesture, but one that finds little purchase in social worlds that abound with digital media technologies and accompanying “field-sites...[that] come knocking at our doors or flitting across our computer screens” (2013:48). In lieu of an arrival, the reader is made privy to a departure in a number of respects. By situating us in the cabin of a jetliner, Jackson makes clear that he has departed from the comforts of place, and along with it the comforts of an ethnographic paradigm that confers upon the anthropologist a divine right to interpretation.

As Jackson delves further into the myths and idiosyncrasies of various Hebrew Israelite communities, it becomes apparent that there is no more appropriate place to begin than the shock of in medias res. Just as an airplane is a nonplace situated betwixt disparate geographies, bureaucratic zones, and juridical authorities, the multifarious assemblages of African Hebrew Israelites are equally of this nonplace, lacking a verifiable site of originary belonging. Anthropology has long been preoccupied with the question of origins, seeking out communities of authentic natives that are subsequently captured by the ossifying gaze of ethnographic representation. In their failure to conform to these rigid expectations, African Hebrew Israelites have remained conveniently hidden from anthropological view. Not only do the Hebrew Israelites resist the picturesque archetype of the uncompromising native, they explicitly dispute the privileged perch of anthropologists as purveyors of truth-claims. In Thin Description, it is the Ivy League anthropologist who is subjected to truth-claims regarding the origins of black peoples in the Americas—who as one strand of Hebrew Israelites protest, hail from Israel, not Africa—and their own divine inheritance.

While navigating the pages of Thin Description and its meanderings between rich anecdotes of African Hebrew Israelite sociality and measured reflections on ethnographic

First-Century Christians in Twenty-First Century Africa Nathan P. Devir, 2022-02-28 Millions of African Christians who consider themselves genealogical descendants of one of the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel in other words Jewish by ethnicity but Christian in terms of faith are increasingly choosing a religious affiliation that honors both of these identities Their choice Messianic Judaism Messianic adherents emulate the Christians of the first century observing the Jewish commandments while also affirming the salvational grace of Yeshua Jesus As the first comparative ethnography of such fulfilled Jews on the African continent this book presents case studies that will enrich our understanding of one of global Christianity's most overlooked iterations

New World A-Coming Judith Weisenfeld, 2017-02-07 Albert J Raboteau Prize Best Book in Africana Religions Impeccably researched paints a colorful picture of religious diversity among Black people Journal of Africana Religions When Joseph Nathaniel Beckles registered for the draft in 1942 he rejected the racial categories presented to him and persuaded the registrar to cross out the check mark she had placed next to Negro and substitute Ethiopian Hebrew God did not make us Negroes declared religious leaders in black communities of the early twentieth century urban North They insisted that so called Negroes are in reality Ethiopian Hebrews Asiatic Muslims or raceless children of God Rejecting conventional American racial classification many black southern migrants and immigrants from the Caribbean embraced these alternative visions of black history racial identity and collective future thereby reshaping the black religious and racial landscape Focusing on the Moorish Science Temple the Nation of Islam Father Divine's Peace Mission Movement and a number of congregations of Ethiopian Hebrews Judith Weisenfeld argues that the appeal of these groups lay not only in the new religious opportunities membership provided but also in the novel ways they formulated a religio racial identity Arguing that members of these groups understood their religious and racial identities as divinely ordained and inseparable the book examines how this sense of self shaped their conceptions of their bodies families religious and social communities space and place and political sensibilities Drawing on extensive archival research and incorporating a rich array of sources to highlight the experiences of average members the book demonstrates that the efforts by members of these movements to contest conventional racial categorization contributed to broader discussions in black America about the nature of racial identity and the collective future of black people that still resonate today A masterful work of religious history a significant contribution to the study of religious narratives and their role in shaping African American identity and community in the past and the present Journal for the Scientific Study of Religion The Princeton Companion to Jewish Studies Leora Batnitzky, Eve Krakowski, Steven Weitzman, 2025-10-14 An authoritative guide to Jewish studies reflecting the latest research in a diverse and flourishing field Jewish studies is a dynamic interdisciplinary field that draws on the methods of the modern academy historical research anthropology literary studies philosophy religious studies sociology feminism and the study of the arts and culture among others to illuminate the past and present of Jewish life thought and expression This book provides an entry point to Jewish studies for readers who want to learn about the questions it raises and the insights it generates Although no single volume can capture the full breadth of the field this Princeton Companion encompasses some of the most important subfields of Jewish studies presenting new historical research and introductions to the many other disciplines that can be brought to bear on Jewish history and experience The editors all distinguished scholars of Jewish studies have gathered contributions from a range of prominent and up and coming figures in the field These contributors offer original perspectives that reflect new findings and novel contexts Part I Rethinking the Past aims to give an overview of recent research trends in the study of Jewish history covering the ancient world the Middle Ages and modern times Part II Ideas and Expression surveys new research in the study of Jewish language religion philosophy literature art music and other humanities centered approaches to Jewish life Part III Interactions and Identity brings the social sciences and anthropology into the picture along with Israel studies and Mizrahi studies to introduce the ways scholars today are seeking to shed light on how Jews identify themselves interact with others organize themselves and behave politically and economically The Other Black Church Joseph L. Tucker Edmonds, 2020-12-02 The Other Black Church Alternative Christian Movements and the Struggle for Black Freedom examines the movements led by Father Divine Charles Mason and Albert Cleage later known as Jaramogi Abebe Agyeman as alternative Christian movements in the middle of the twentieth century that radically reenvisioned the limits and possibilities of Black citizenship These movements not only rethink the value and import of Christian texts and reimagined the role of the Black Christian prophetic tradition but they also outlined a new model of protest that challenged the language and logic of Black essentialism economic development and the role of the state By placing these movements in conversation with the long history of Black theology and Black religious studies this book suggests that alternative Christian movements are essential for thinking about African American critiques of and responses to the failures of U S based democracy These prophets of Black theological thought and their attention to the limits of the state and traditional Black religious formations are most fully appreciated when studied in light of their conversations and interactions with other key Black prophetic and theological figures of the mid twentieth century Ultimately The Other Black Church will use those conversations and archives from these movements to highlight their protest of the racial state to explore the limits of the Black church and to argue for their continued significance for thinking about the variety and vibrancy of Black protest specifically Black religious protest during the twentieth century

The Art of Life in South Africa Daniel Magaziner, 2016-11-09 From 1952 to 1981 South Africa's apartheid government ran an art school for the training of African art teachers at Indaleni in what is today KwaZulu Natal. The Art of Life in South Africa is the story of the students, teachers, art, and politics that circulated through a small school housed in a remote former mission station. It is the story of a community that made its way through the travails of white supremacist South Africa and demonstrates how the art students and teachers made together became the art of their lives. Daniel Magaziner radically reframes apartheid-era South African history. Against the dominant narrative of apartheid oppression and black resistance as well as recent scholarship that explores violence, criminality, and the hopeless entanglements of the apartheid state, this book focuses instead on a small group's efforts to fashion more fulfilling lives for its members and their community through the ironic medium of the apartheid-era school. There is no book like this in South African historiography. Lushly illustrated and poetically written, it gives us fully formed lives that offer remarkable insights into the now clichéd experience of black life under segregation and apartheid.

Jews and Muslims in South Asia Yulia Egorova, 2018-09-05 In this book Yulia Egorova explores how South Asian Jews and Muslims relate to each other outside of a Western and Christian context and reveals that despite some important differences the relationship is still intrinsically connected to global narratives about Jews and Muslims. She also shows how the Hindu right have turned the South Asian Jewish experience into a rhetorical tool to deny the existence of discrimination against religious minorities and how this ostensible celebration of Jewishness masks both anti-Muslim and anti-Jewish prejudice. Jews and Muslims in South Asia is a fascinating new contribution to the academic discussion of anti-Semitism, Islamophobia, and their overlapping histories.

Brothers in Grief Nora Gross, 2024-10-14 A heartbreaking account of grief, Black boyhood, and how we can support young people as they navigate loss. JahSun, a dependable, much-loved senior at Boys Prep, was just hitting his stride in the fall of 2017. He had finally earned a starting position on the varsity football team and was already weighing two college acceptances. Then, over Thanksgiving, tragedy struck. An altercation at his older sister's home escalated into violence, killing the unarmed teenager in a hail of bullets. JahSun's untimely death overwhelmed his entire community, sending his family, friends, and school into seemingly insurmountable grief. Worse yet, that spring, two additional Boys Prep students would be shot to death in their neighborhood. JahSun and his peers are not alone in suffering the toll of gun violence; as every year in the United States, teenagers die by gunfire in epidemic numbers, with Black boys most deeply affected. Brothers in Grief closely attends to the neglected victims of youth gun violence: the suffering friends and classmates who must cope mostly out of public view with lasting grief and hidden anguish. Set at an ambitious urban high school for boys during the heartbreaking year following the death of JahSun, the book chronicles the consequences of untimely death on Black teen boys and on a school community struggling to recover. Sociologist Nora Gross tells the story of students attempting to grapple with unthinkable loss inviting readers in to observe how they move through their days at school and on social media in the aftermath of their friends and classmates deaths Gross highlights the discrepancy between their school s educational mission and teachers and administrators fraught attempts to care for students emotional wellbeing In the end the school did not provide adequate space for grief making it more difficult for students to heal reengage with school and imagine hopeful futures Even so supportive relationships deepened among students and formed across generations offering promising examples of productive efforts to channel student grief into positive community change A searing testimony of our collective failure to understand the inner lives of our children in crisis Brothers in Grief invites us all to wrestle with the hidden costs of gun violence on racial and educational inequity

The Trouble with Post-Blackness Houston A. Baker Jr., K. Merinda Simmons, 2015-02-03 An America in which the color of one's skin no longer matters would be unprecedented With the election of President Barack Obama in 2008 that future suddenly seemed possible Obama's rise reflects a nation of fluid populations and fortunes a society in which a biracial individual could be embraced as a leader by all Yet complicating this vision are shifting demographics rapid redefinitions of race and the instant invention of brands trends and identities that determine how we think about ourselves and the place of others This collection of original essays confronts the premise advanced by black intellectuals that the Obama administration marked the start of a post racial era in the United States While the transcendent and post racial black elite declare victory over America's longstanding codes of racial exclusion and racist violence their evidence relies largely on their own salaries and celebrity These essays strike at the certainty of those who insist that life liberty and the pursuit of happiness are now independent of skin color and race in America They argue signify and testify that post blackness is a problematic mythology masquerading as fact a dangerous new race science motivated by black transcendentalist individualism Through rigorous analysis these essays expose the idea of a post racial nation as a pleasurable entitlement for a black elite enabling them to reject the ethics and urgency of improving the well being of the black majority

Progressive Dystopia Savannah Shange, 2019-11-15 San Francisco is the endgame of gentrification where racialized displacement means that the Black population of the city hovers at just over 3 percent The Robeson Justice Academy opened to serve the few remaining low income neighborhoods of the city with the mission of offering liberatory social justice themed education to youth of color While it features a progressive curriculum including Frantz Fanon and Audre Lorde the majority Latinx school also has the district's highest suspension rates for Black students In Progressive Dystopia Savannah Shange explores the potential for reconciling the school's marginalization of Black students with its sincere pursuit of multiracial uplift and solidarity Drawing on ethnographic fieldwork and six years of experience teaching at the school Shange outlines how the school fails its students and the community because it operates within a space predicated on antiblackness Seeing San Francisco as a social laboratory for how Black communities survive the end of their worlds Shange argues for abolition over revolution or progressive reform as the needed path toward Black freedom
